VETERANS AUDITORIUM GROWS

Looking little like the 800-seat arena it will become, the Veterans Memorial Auditorium rises out of the Fair-Marin grounds north of the Civic Center. The mass of steel supports shown in this view from the arena's stage is holding up its partially completed domed roof. Completion of the auditorium, under construction by Paul V. Wright, Inc. and Ben Ordtsky, Inc. of Santa Rosa, is scheduled for late December. The arena will cost $3,961,731, according to present estimates.

POLL ON CAMPUS REBELS:

Expel And Prosecute

NEW YORK (UPI) — If the average adult American had his way, students who disrupt the operation of their schools would be expelled and prosecuted in the criminal courts, a Sindlinger Survey reports.

Only 6.9 per cent of those interviewed said they agreed with the student protesters.

The survey, conducted Feb. 26-March 3 and released yesterday, showed 87.3 per cent of those questioned agreed with Notre Dame President Theodore Hesburgh that student demonstrators who disrupt classes should be given 15 minutes to stop and expelled if they did not.

Just 4.2 per cent disagreed with Hesburgh, while 8.6 per cent said they had no opinion.

Sindlinger said 63.6 per cent favored legislation making the disruption of education a crime, with 26 per cent opposed to this and 10.5 per cent with no opinion.

Sindlinger and Co., a market analysis firm, conducts its polls by long distance telephone to every state except Hawaii and Alaska. The telephone numbers are chosen by a computer programmed to make representative selections of voting age Americans.

Richardson Bay Plans Hit Snags

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — Two major projects planned if Richardson Bay ran afoul of a pair of tough problems yesterday before the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

One project, a $25 million high-rise development proposed on 15 acres of fill, brought heated objections from a neighboring tideland property owner. His land was in the open-space lagoon planned by the deveolpers to help sell BCDC on their application for a fill permit, his attorney charged.

Conservationists, repeating objectings voiced at the commission's first hearing on the project in October, said the high-rise was not in accord with either the county's nor the commission's master plans for the bay, would block views of the bay, and could be built elsewhere without filling the bay.

The other project, the long-sought dredging of Saucelito Canal, ran into a suggestion that the 700,000 cubic yards of dredged mud be dumped near Alcatraz Island only during ebb tides — a suggestion Marin officials conceded could hike the cost of the project enough to make it difficult to finance.

"It would be a nightmare," said Mill Valley City Engineer Stanley M. Bala of the prospect of dumping only during the two times a day when the tide rushes out the Golden Gate.

Asked how much the dumping limit would hike his $945,000 cost estimate for the project, Marin County Public Works Director Donald R. Frost said from 10 to 25 per cent.

Commissioners will vote on the two projects at 2 p.m. on March 21 when they meet again in Room 1194 in the State Building, 455 Golden Gate Avenue. Thirteen votes are needed to approve each.

The dredging of the canal — endorsed by the Marin Conservation League — would extend for 2.5 miles from the Army Corps of Engineers turning basin to the Mill Valley small craft harbor, now under construction. The cost is to be shared by the corps with the City of Mill Valley and property owners along the canal, who formed the Richardson Bay Channel Dredging District to assess themselves for the project.

The suggestion to limit dumping to ebb tides grew out of an incomplete study of bay siltation by the corps. The restriction would mean 70 to 80 per cent of the mud would be flushed out the Golden

'Spider' Catches 'Gumdrop'

SPACE CENTER, Houston — Flying with speed and precision, astronauts James A. McDivitt and Russell L. Schweickart today guided their fragile lunar module to a successful rendezvous and linkup with the Apollo 9 command ship and may have hastened an American landing on the moon.

After executing the perfect rendezvous, the two ships circled for 25 minutes, inspecting systems and taking pictures.

FINAL CAPTURE

Then the command module moved in for the final capture, inserting a docking mechanism that locked the two craft firmly together.

"It's really sporty," McDivitt said as he eased the mooncraft, nicknamed "Spider," toward the command ship.

"I have capture," he exclaimed.

"OK, Houston, we're locked up," Air Force Col. David R. Scott called out from the command ship, code named "Gumdrop."

"Wow! I haven't heard a sound that good for a long time," McDivitt said after a signal tone indicated the two ships were locked up. "I'm going to sleep for three days," he reported.

LANDING LEGS

McDivitt and Schweickart came back with less than half the ship they started with. Midway through the rendezvous they fired their descent stage engine in the lower half and then kicked it away with its four landing legs.

Later today, they'll leave the remainder of the LEM in space after returning to the command module.

It was the third straight day in which the LEM had performed flawlessly under rigorous testing. Officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration had said before the launching Monday that such a performance could lead to an earlier than planned moon landing attempt.

Kettenhofen Seeks Sleepy Hollow Link

By JERRY MEGAHAN

The touchy subject of a traffic link between Sleepy Hollow and Terra Linda arose again yesterday when ex-County Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen sprang a proposed new route on his KTIM radio program in a discussion with James F. Reed of the San Anselmo City Council.

The new route would be a variation on the old A Route originally suggested in 1962 by engineer Carlos Gonzales when preparing plans for developers of the Northgate Shopping Center.

The A route in the Gonzales plan would have connected Butterfield Road via Fawn Drive in Sleepy Hollow as a proposed extension of the Manuel Freitas Parkway. It was rejected by the Sleepy Hollow Home Owners Association May 3, 1962.

Kettenhofen's variation is a link between Fox Lane in Sleepy Hollow and Esmeyer Drive in Terra Linda.

"It would require only an additional 245 feet of paving and would cost only $20,000 to $25,000," Kettenhofen said. "It could be financed locally and could be built within a year."

Kettenhofen suggested that the connection would be useful from the standpoint of safety for Sleepy Hollow residents in the event of a natural disaster such as fire and as relief for some of the east-west traffic congestion along Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

Reed said that the proposal was a new one to him but added that he doubted that one route would solve the east-west transit problem.

"What the majority of San Anselmo residents would like to see . . . is the development of multiple routes plus a future bypass into West Marin," said

Ray Guilty Plea Ready, Paper Says

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — James Earl Ray's lawyer was granted a Monday appearance in Criminal Court as an Alabama newspaper reported today that Ray plans to plead guilty in the death of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and will receive a 99-year sentence.

A spokesman for Judge Preston Battle, who is scheduled to preside at Ray's trial next month, said Ray's lawyer had sought and been granted the hearing. There was no indication what the hearing would concern.

In Huntsville, Ala., however, the Huntsville Times reported Ray will plead guilty to the assassination of King last April 4 and receive a 99-year sentence.

The Times wrote that it learned the State of Tennessee would recommend the 99-year sentence "when Ray pleads guilty."

King was shot to death here last April 4 as he stood on the balcony of the Lorraine Motel, where he was staying after arriving to lead a demonstration in behalf of the city's 1,200 garbage collectors.

The garbage workers at that time were on strike for a union contract and higher wages—issues which were settled soon after King's death.

Dist. Atty. Gen. Phil Canale had no comment on the Huntsville Times report. State Atty. Gen. George McCanless was not available.

Tiburon Sees Revised Angel Island Scheme

By ANNE BARDWELL

The pressure of public opinion has forced review and revision of controversial preliminary plans for the East Garrison development on Angel Island, a state official told the Tiburon Parks and Recreation Commission last night.

Harry Dean, supervisor with the state Parks and Recreation Department, told the commission and audience of 15 persons that the original proposal for convention facilities, including an auditorium, a marina, overnight facilities and a restaurant is being restudied because of strong objections from citizens.

Dean said the proposed marina with berthing facilities for 206 boats was dropped in favor of mooring facilities for 100 boats after state planners learned the marina alone would cost a minimum of $1.5 million to develop.

The revised plans for the East Garrison will not be ready for public viewing until the end of March, Dean said, but he assured the commission that they would not include the auditorium, covered swimming pools, shops and hotel facilities first proposed.

"We are cutting back on everything and will develop a simpler plan for the area," he said.

Plans for developing other areas on the island have re-

Marin Black Students Ask Firing, Rap 'Goon Squad'

Black Student Union leaders today made new demands of the College of Marin which include removal of a white "racist" student activities adviser, reform of election procedures and an end to physical education "goon squads."

A deadline of Monday was placed on the demands to be fulfilled with the warning that, if they are not, the college will be faced with something it doesn't want to see.

The full demands, made to a press conference in the Student Center were:

"1. We insist that the Administration, specifically Lou Herkenhoff, (acting president) immediately force Dave Garber to resign from his office as adviser to the students of COM and that he permanently be removed from the College of Marin campus.

"2. That the election be conducted differently than it has been in the past, namely that the ballot box be placed in a centrally located spot outside the Student Center thus making it more accessible. We also insist that Third World Liberation Front Association (TWLFA) members be permitted to be present during all of the balloting taking place.

"3. We further insist that all the demands made by the BSU that have not as of yet been met, namely dmands numbers 2, 3 and 6, the recruiting programs for black students, more black counselors, and financial aid for all black students, be fulfilled."

$5 Billion In Aircraft Lost In War

SAIGON (UPI)—The United States has lost 5,002 helicopters and airplanes in the Vietnam War worth a total of about $5 billion, military spokesmen said today.

The announcement accompanied Allied reports of 40 more Communist shellings late yesterday and early today against eight South Vietnamese towns and 32 Allied military camps, many of them major American bases on the approaches to Saigon.

The guerrillas unleashed their latest overnight barrages on Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird's first night in Saigon on a trip keyed to discussing what he called "appropriate response" to the now 13-day-old Communist offensive.

South Vietnam's vice president, Nguyen Cao Ky, returned home from the peace talks in Paris today urging a resumption in the bombing of North Vietnam. He said South Vietnam also was considered pulling out of the talks if the Reds do not stop their attacks on cities and towns.

In Paris, a Hanoi spokesman said, "We are not afraid of American bombings. President Johnson has been bombing us for four years and met defeat. If President Nixon follows in his steps, he will meet with the same defeat."

It was the northern bombing campaign, halted last Nov. 1, which took a heavy toll of American warplanes and reflected in the total U.S. air losses for the war reported today.

The announcement said the United States has lost 2,593 fixed-wing aircraft and 2,409 helicopters since Jan. 1, 1961. Of them, 1,292 warplanes and 1,023 helicopters were lost to Communist groundfire.

Senators Request Delay On Sentinel

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee asked the Nixon administration today to defer deployment of new missile systems—including the ABM—pending efforts to arrange negotiations with the Soviet Union on limiting nuclear weapons.

The committee commented in its report urging approval of the nuclear nonproliferation treaty, which went to the Senate floor.

Committee Chairan J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., predicted the pact to curb the spread of nuclear weapons will win the necessary two-thirds approval by the middle of next week.

The suggestion for delaying deployment of offensive and defensive nuclear weapons is advisory only and approval of the treaty would not mandate any such step.

Fulbright said the proposal for delay applied to the controversial Sentinel antiballistic missile (ABM) system, although it was not mentioned specifically.

The report cites the treaty's Article VI, under which nations joining the pact promise to "pursue negotiations in good faith on effective measures relating to cessation of the nuclear arms race at an early date."

Throughout the hearings, several committee members insisted that U.S. approval of the treaty would bar deployment of the Sentinel at least until attempts were made to bring about talks on arms reduction.

Administration spokesmen declined to make any such commitments.

The committee pressed home the point in its report, however:

"In order to give effect to Article VI, the committee believes that the administration should consider deferring the deployment of these weapons until it has had time to make an earnest effort to pursue meaningful discussions with the Soviet Union."

Meanwhile, three scientists have told a Senate subcommittee that the Sentinel antiballistic missile system could not guarantee that American population centers would be safe from Soviet nuclear attack.

Two of them, however, told the disarmament subcommittee of the Foreign Relations Committee yesterday they saw merit in a "thin" system such as the Sentinel is designed to be.

President Nixon has promised a decision next week on whether to go ahead with construction of the Sentinel, which is designed to ward off a missile attack such as Communist China might be able to launch in the mid-1970s.

Dr. J. P. Ruina of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology testified that "deploying Sentinel against the Chinese may have some merit, but I believe there is universal agreement that deploying it to protect our population against a possible Soviet attack makes no sense at all."

Dr. Hans J. Bethe of Cornell University, a Nobel laureate in physics, agreed that Sentinel could not guarantee protection to population centers, but thought deploying missiles to protect U.S. Minuteman missiles might help stabilize the arms race.

Dr. Daniel Fink, who as deputy director of defense research and engineering was active in development of antimissile plans, said he viewed a thin defense system as a deterrent and testified that "the lack of any defense might encourage the outbreak of conflict."

Defense Witness Cites 'Helpless' Police Clubbings

Young, a defense witness, said those struck were primarily "the old and female and rather helpless."

He said police "systematically clubbed" persons while they were attempting to disperse during a "Stop The Draft Week" demonstration at the center.

Utility Urges Thermal Policy

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Pacific Gas and Electric Co. has urged the state to adopt thermal and radiological regulations proposed by local anti-pollution boards.

"We support the principle which provides for regional adoption and enforcement of water quality objectives that recognize local conditions and the setting of discharge requirements which are considered on a case-by-case basis," the utility said.

The company's position was expressed yesterday at a hearing of the state Water Quality Control Board called to set standards for controlling temperatures of interstate and state waters.

East Germany Closes Main Berlin Link Eighth Time

BERLIN (AP) — East Germany closed down the main autobahn linking West Berlin with West Germany again today, the eighth time since Saturday the road has been barricaded to Western traffic.

Border spokesmen at Helmstedt, in West Germany, and in West Berlin said the shutdown came at 2 p.m.

West Germany hoped East Germany would quit harassing Berlin traffic after the West German presidential election in West Berlin two days ago. The election had been the target of repeated Communist threats and warnings.

Soviet forces in East Germany and the East German army began extended maneuvers between Berlin and the West German frontier last Saturday. They are concentrated along the main autobahn, a 110-mile road that is Berlin's main access.

It was understood the maneuvers will continue until Monday. It was a question whether the harassment would continue until then or even beyond.

Mayor Klaus Schuetz told reporters in West Berlin that so far he had no evidence that the repeated closings of the autobah had adversely affected the islated city's economy.

Gold Price Soars Again In Paris

PARIS (AP) — Gold soared to another record high on the Paris free market today as labor unions pressed ahead with plans for a nationwide strike next week to back their demands for big wage increases.

Despite indications that the government was trying to dampen the speculative fever on gold, the price for an ounce bounced up to $48.31, compared to $47.92 yesterday. Since last Friday, the ounce price has gone up $2.08 as Frenchmen worried over the future of the franc sought a haven for their liquid funds.

Gold prices were on a merry-go-round all over Europe, with prices up everywhere.

By midday, gold was quoted at $43.45-$43.65 in Zurich, from yesterday's close of $43.15-$43.45. Dealers said volume might come close to the 11-12 toons traded yesterday.

The morning fixing price in London was $43.60, compared with $43.23 at yesterday afternoon's fixing.

The Frankfurt market opened at $43.14-$43.45, then climbed to $43.50-$43.70.

The British pound, French franc and U.S. dollar weakened.

In Frankfurt, the dollar opened at 4.0050 marks, down from yesterday's closing at 4.0150. Dealers said the Deutsche Bundesbank was forced to absorb "considerable quantities" of dollars. Sterling opened at 9.5680 marks, down from 9.5950.

The gold and monetary situation will come up for discussion at the regular monthly meeting of the Western world's leading central bankers in Basel, Switzerland, this weekend. But the meeting is not expected to yield any immediate action.

Word that the Bank of France has ceased supporting French bank notes reached the Zurich currency market, and the interbank rate for conversions of amounts exceeding 50,000 Swiss francs promptly declined to 82.3-82.4 Swiss francs for 100 French francs, compared with an average price of 83 yesterday.

124 Koreans Saved

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — A U.S. Army helicopter made nine trips to the roof of a burning 13-story apartment house in Seoul today to rescue 124 Koreans trapped there.

The UH1B Huey helicopter was piloted by Maj. Rex Turner of Ozark, Ala. The co-pilot was Leo LaMontagne of Vallejo, and the doorman was Spec. 4 Stanton Wildung of Redwood City.

Turner said Wildung entered the building once and went down the 12th floor to rescue a woman hanging from a window. The Koreans fled to the roof because the fire on the third floor knocked out the elevator.

The blaze did heavy damage to some 60 businesses occupying space on the lower floors, but there were no casualties.

Cummings Divorce

LOS ANGELES (AP) — After 24 years of marriage, actor Robert Cummings is filing for divorce. He accused his actress wife Mary Elliott of extreme cruelty in the suit filed yesterday.

Cummings, 58, asked that his wife be given custody of four children — Mary, 20, Sharon, 18, Laural, 14, and Anthony, 12. Another son is Robert, 23. The complaint said the couple married March 3, 1945, and separated Oct. 31, 1967.

Actor's Sons Balk

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Sterling Hayden's sons Christian and Thor say they are ready to go to jail rather than submit to military service against their beliefs.

Thor, 19, refused induction at the Oakland Army Center on Wednesday. Christian, 20, refused to report for a pre-induction physical examination yesterday in Los Angeles.

Christian sent a registered letter saying he was conscientious objector and would not serve even in a non hostile capacity.

Defecter Balks

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A U.S. Army Sergeant who defected to East Germany March 1 at Berlin has refused to meet with American officials behind the Iron Curtain to explain his actions, according to the State Department. The department said they had asked soviet authorities in East Berlin to arrange a meeting with Sgt. Thomas E. Kavanaugh, but received word Kavanaugh did not want such a meeting.

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — A number of North Vietnamese and Pathet Lao movements in Laos were reported in the past 24 hours, a defense ministry spokesman said today.

Truman stopped to talk at the post office. The postmaster is Edgar G. Hinde Jr., who holds the same job his father held as a Truman appointee.

Truman was hospitalized for almost a week undergoing treatment for intestinal flu and, after he recovered, receiving routine tests.

Dope Crackdown Set

ANKARA (AP) — Backed by a loan from the United States, Turkey announced new measures today to control narcotics smuggling and illegal opium cultivation.

The $3 million U.S. loan, made last year, has been used to train and equip narcotics agents and to help farmers develop substitute crops.

Bipartisan Offer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Rogers C. B. Morton of Maryland, who will become Republican national chairman next month, says he would be willing to discuss political convention reform and nonpartisan fundraising with the Democrats.

But, Morton said in an interview yesterday, no arrangements for joint studies have been made and he has not been approached directly on the subject.

"I don't think there should be a wall against communication at any level," he said, adding that within the Republican party "we are already talkin about delegate selection. I think we are ahead of the Democrats in that matter."

Post To Otepka?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sources close to Otto F. Otepka say he may be offered a post on the Subversive Activities Control Board, a move that could settle the five-year-old controversy that began when he was fired as the State Department's chief security evaluator.

No one would confirm or deny the reports, but Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., said he had heard of the proposal and would "give attention to it." He denied sponsoring the suggestion.

Otepka was fired on grounds he provided secret information from department files to the Senate internal security subcommittee.

Sun-Moon Pull Cause Of Quakes?

PASADENA (UPI) — When the sun and moon are in line with the earth, their combined gravitational pull may be strong enough to trigger earthquakes, a geophysicist said today.

Dr. C. Hewitt Dix of the California Institute of Technology said the pull might have touched off the destructive 1952 Kern County quake, the strongest in Southern California in 95 years.

Dix said there is no single factor that triggers earthquakes but he pointed out that the sun and moon were in almost a perfect line with earth at the time of the main Kern County shock.

The quake had a magnitude of 7.7 on the Richter scale. It claimed 14 lives and caused an estimated $60 million damage.

Dix said the ground moves up and down about eight inches in strong tidal action, but for the pull to set off an earthquake the ground must already be under enough stress so that a small additional strain is sufficient to set it in motion.

At the instant of the main Kern County shock, Dix said, both the sun and moon were in line over the Sahara in North Africa, causing a tidal bulge of several inches.

At the same moment, the pull compressed the earth in California.

"Both were in a position to exert maximum effect on the White Wolf Fault on which the quake's epicenter was located," Dix said. "The fault line pointed almost directly at the sun and the new moon."

Slaying Of Surfer Linked To Marijuana

HONOLULU (UPI)—The slaying of a California surfer as he slept in a beach cottage was a cold-blooded prod to get his friends to give money and marijuana to the killers, police said Thursday.

William H. Pond Jr., 19, of Costa Mesa, was shot Tuesday night as three frightened friends looked on.

Police said the friends, Ted H. Rogers, Steve Shula and Dave Dannon, were told they'd get the same if they didn't cooperate. They then turned over $700 and an undisclosed amount of marijuana, officers said.

Pond apparently knew Shula, 18, and Rogers, 19, in Newport Beach before he came to Hawaii Feb. 27, police said.

Officers said Pond was asleep when the gunmen entered the cottage at Sunset Beach, a popular surfing town across the island from Honolulu.

When the youths denied they had any drugs or money, one of the assailants walked to where Pond was sleeping on a cot and shot him "as a sample of what the others would get," a detective said.

The youths said the gunmen carried long-barrelled pistols and were unmasked.

Police indicated the amount of marijuana involved was "considerable." About a half pound of bulk marijuana, possibly dropped by the assailants as they fled, was founud outside the cottage.

Judge Blocks Chromosomes Insanity Plea

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It takes more than a double dose of male chromosomes to prove a man is legally insane when he commits a violent crime, a judge has ruled.

Raymond S. Tanner, who previously pleaded guilty to charges of kidnaping, beating and raping a woman in suburban Van Nuys, had sought to enter an additional plea of innocent by reason of insanity.

His attorney, Howard Meyerson, contended that because Tanner has one more male chromosome per body cell than most men, he could not prevent himself from committing the rape.

Superior Court Judge Maurice T. Leader heard geneticists argue about the behavior of such "XYY" males for six weeks, before ruling yesterday that there is no clear link between the chromosomal abnormality and behavior.

The prosecution and the defense agreed that Tanner, 33, has an extra Y, or male, chromosome—a thread-like strand that carries the blueprints of human heredity.

The prosecution maintained Tanner's genetic make-up had little or nothing to do with the assault—arguing it was more likely because Tanner came from a home with a brutal father and an indulgent mother.

Meyerson said Tanner's body chemistry was such that he was subject to ungovernable desires and was thus legally insane.

Judge Leader said research in the field of genetics is 30 years behind the point where it can be used in the courts. Until more research is done, he said, a ruling on insanity would "open a Pandora's box to show that anti-social criminal activity by aggressive individuals should be permitted merely because of the XYY syndrome."

Nearly half of all Christmas trees sold in California in 1968 came from the State of Washington.

State Students Charged After Shooting, Bombing

COMBINED AP & UPI

A Negro student at San Francisco State College was charged today with firing into an occupied building, possession of loaded guns and having guns on campus after a shooting incident at the strike-troubled school last night.

Police said at least six pistol shots were fired, several into Merced Hall, a student residence building. Others broke a cafeteria window and a street lamp.

James L. Kennedy, 21, was arrested in Merced Hall, where he lives. Police confiscated a .38 caliber revolver and a .25-caliber automatic and ammunition.

At the University of California's Berkeley campus, 60 policemen were routed from the basement of Sproul Hall yesterday when a highway patrolman accidentally dropped a tear gas cannister. (Other campus troubles, page 19.)

The injured San Francisco State student, Timothy Peebles, 29, of East Palo Alto, was identified as a member of the Black Students Union.

Police said he was blinded, his hands nearly ripped off and his chest crushed when a bomb exploded prematurely in a locker room of the Creative Arts Building of the 17,000-student campus long troubled by a strike of minority group students.

The explosion was the third at the school since the start of a student strike Nov. 6. Peebles was the second person injured. A security guard was hurt Feb. 16 in an explosion at the administration building.

"It's only a matter of time until someone loses his life," San Francisco Police Chief Thomas Cahill said.

The Berkeley campus was reported calm, although some 150 students staged a noon-hour snake dance through the central campus area. The tear gassing incident occurred among a contingent of police who have remained on the campus since wild melees broke out two weeks ago.

ty by power of the Executive Council.

But, said Scott, Conrad was told by Garber that he was ineligible after the Black Student Union demanded the election be halted because of an illegal ballot. The union said the ballot was illegal because no space was alloted for women's sophomore representative. They also charged some people voted more than once.

Scott stated that, when Garber was informed of the illeglaity and asked to halt the election, he refused.

"We of the TWLFA feel that Dave Garber's refusal to bring the election to an immediate halt indicates a collaboration on his part and ot other students, specifically goons from the athletic department acting as bodyguards to influence the outcome of the election.

"We feel," Scott continued, "that all of the above statements strongly indicate that Dave Garber is a racist and has endorsed racist policy. . . . His opposition to any move by minority groups on the campus clearly indicates that he is not qualified to keep the office that he now holds."

Asked to explaijn the "goon squads," Scott said that a group appears at meetings where black students might come "to try to influence the outcoming decision."

He added that Garber and the administration are involved in the tactic of coercion and intimidation. The squads are from both the athletic department and judo wrestling team.

Asked if blacks have been physically touched by the squads, Scott said, "they never actually do anything physically but black students have been trying very much to keep it cool in this respect."

Dr. Louis Herkenhoff, acting president, said later he has no intention of removing Garber from his office.

He explained that the press conference "jumped the gun." and was called before any attempt was made to contact anybody at the college. They are using the media to publicize something that is pretty illegitimate (the demands)."

Herkenhoff said the student executive council, when it heard yesterday of irregularities in the ballot, called a meeting for 3 p.m. today.

Herkenhoff said that his staff is trying to get information together on the election which has now been rescheduled for Monday and Tuesday.

The Black Student Union made six demands last fall and, of these, Scott said, three have been met.

They are, black studies should be taught by black teachers; change the experimental black studies program to a transferable program and a black students liaison worker should be placed on a full-time salary basis and added to her role the role fo financial aide coordinator.

tectives and returned after lengthy legal proceedings to face a murder charge in King's death.

He is accused of shooting King from ambush from a rooming house across the street from the motel, but has denied it.

On his return, Ray has been held in a specially armored and air-conditioned cell at the Shelby County Jail under tight security. He first was scheduled to go on trial in November, but fired Arthur Hanes, former Birmingham, Ala., mayor as his lawyer on the eve of that trial.

He then retained Percy Foreman, nationally-known criminal lawyer from Houston, Tex., and the trial was postponed until March 3. Foreman was granted a second postponement until April 7, on grounds that he had not had time to prepare a defense in the complex case.

The Huntsville newspaper quoted a source close to the case as saying the guilty plea "is the only way Ray can escape the death sentence" and win a 99-year term.

The Times said its source reported that such a sentence would have to be imposed by the jury. However, plans are for the jury to be empaneled and each juror will be asked if he would abide by the recommendation of the court, the source was quoted.

The costliest shelling of a town killed one child and wounded 12 other South Vietnamese civilians at Dalat, a Central Highlands resort 140 miles northeast of Saigon, spokesmen said.

War communiques reported no major ground fighting in progress. They said U.S. soldiers killed a total of 104 Communists, northwest of Saigon and in the Highlands, in battles Thursday.

mained substantially the same, Dean said. These include:

Ayala Cove which, along with the East Garrison, will be one of the two main entrances to the park, will have mooring facilities for 40 boats, a service dock for private and official boats, picnic facilities including a group picnic area in the eucalyptus grove, snack bar, bike rental area, ticket booth for the elephant train and at least one restored historical building.

The North Garrison will have overnight camping facilities for 500 persons, including group camping areas, some simple building in which hot meals can be served to campers by a concessionnaire and barracks for park personnel.

Wooden platforms with roofs will be constructed for campers, although, Dean said, he is considering incorporating some unsheltered camping areas for families interested in roughing it.

Point Blunt will be developed with picnic areas off the loop road adjacent to the old Nike missile base which may be restored "so that when an elephant train rounds the corner an electric eye will activate a missile and it will rise out of its silo."

Dean also said the beach adjacent to the Coast Guard facility on the point could be developed for use by private boaters approaching from the bay.

At the West Garrison some of the historical buildings will be restored including the general's house, which will include a museum; the mule barn; chapel, and hospital.

Other restoration, Dean said, might include replacement of gun batteries ("We may have to use wooden gun barrels if we can't find authentic guns"), flag poles, real mules and "perhaps even people dressed in authentic costumes of the era wandering around."

Alcatraz Gardens will be developed as a family picnic area.

Dean said a maximum of 10,000 persons would be permitted on the island at any one time.

He also said embarcation points for the park have been considered for Berkeley, Richmond, Alameda, San Francisco, Jack London Square in Oakland, Fort Baker, the naval net depot on the Tiburon Peninsula and the City of Tiburon.

However, he said, "The city says it doesn't want to become a parking lot for Angel Island and if it still feels that way we just won't include it as an embarcation point."

The state will not leave the island undeveloped, Dean said, because it believes every segment of the population should be able to enjoy a park. "But in order to do that we must develop the island properly, so we won't ruin it, he said.

He cautioned that no economic feasibility study has been made of the proposed preliminary plan. "If it won't go (financially) then we will have to revise our plans." The state hopes for an average one-third return on its investment from all state parks, he said.

Comments from the audience were mainly critical with one man saying, "The state is trying to make a common place of Angel Island. Get 500 or 1000 people camping there and you'll get a lot of garbage."

Joseph C. Marshall, Tiburon planning commissioner, suggested the state use horse or mule drawn wagons instead of "those Mickey Mouse elephant trains."

Completion of the island's recreational development is tentatively scheduled for 1975, he said.

The commission took no action on the proposed plan but said it would consider a resolution outlining any objections at its March 20 meeting.

Five Fined For Drunken Driving

Five persons have been sentenced in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving.

Judge Alvin B. Goldstein ordered Francis Delano Raffenelli, 33, of Healdsburg, to pay a $350 fine and placed him on one year probation. He was arrested March 21, 1968, on Highway 101.

Dale Rollo Frost, 33, of 1566 South Novato Boulevard, Novato, was placed on six months probation and fined $125. He was arrested Oct. 29 on Lincoln Avenue in San Rafael.

Calvin Charles Gaare, 38, of 136 Harvard Avenue, Mill Valley, who was arrested Feb. 3 on Highway 101, was fined $240 and placed on six months probation.

Edward Anthony Sarmento, 28, of 61 Canal Street, Apartment 9, San Rafael, who was arrested Sept. 24 on Highway 101, was fined $150 and placed on six months probation.

Justine Virginia Recluse, 45, of 42 Los Alondras Court, Novato, was fined $150 and placed on six months probation. She was arrested Feb. 16 on Highway 101.

ROUTE

Reed, adding that many people thought that Sleepy Hollow-Terra Linda was not the only possible route.

"I think it's essential to have several east-west connections in order to avoid turning a single route into a major traffic artery," he said.

Kettenhofen acknowledged the point but noted that in casting about for a major solution to the problem, city councils and civic groups had blocked piecemeal action which would at least alleviate the congestion created by need for an east-west route in Marin.

"I think we need a connection between Sleepy Hollow and Terra Linda as well as an east-west route," he said.

While both men avoided getting into discussion of the controversial Highway 17 extension, Reed said that the San Anselmo City Council has been in favor of some kind of east-west connection for more than two years but felt that there would have to be some agreement with other county agencies.

"The local agencies must decide this thing among themselves before taking this to the state level," Reed said. "Otherwise, it'll be just like the last time. They'll set us against ourselves and we'll end up with nothing."

Nixons Attend Kin's Funeral

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. UPI) —President and Mrs. Nixon paid their final respects yesterday to an uncle whose inspiration helped mold the President's career.

Hundreds of Penn State students cheered the Nixon party when it arrived to attend the funeral of Dr. Ernest L. Nixon, 85, a former university professor who was known as "The Potato King" for making the potato a highly marketable product in Pennsylvania. He died Tuesday night.

The service was strictly limited to family members but the crowd waited outside.

APOLLO

the Apollo 10 crew to orbit the moon with a LEM in May, with Apollo 11 to try the landing in July. The officials said there was a possibility of skipping Apollo 10 and moving to the Apollo 11 mission, advancing it to a June launch.

Today's hazardous rendezvous mission began at 4:40 a.m. PST when they disengaged the lunar module, or LEM, from Apollo 9 after a brief hangup when the docking mechanism didn't unlatch immediately. It released on the second try.

The two vehicles maneuvered close by initially, because, for the first time, men were orbiting the earth in a ship that can't get them home. The LEM was built to operate in space and on the moon but cannot re-enter the earth's atmosphere.

After making certain all systems were working, McDivitt and Schweickart took off, firing a series of jet bursts that placed them in a 156-mile high orbit, 10 miles above Scott's command module.

At the higher altitude, the LEM took longer to make a circuit of the earth and gradually fell behind, reaching maximum trailing distance of 113 miles about 8:37 a.m. PST.

The gap between hunter and hunted narrowed gradually as McDivitt and Schweickart executed maneuvers similar to those that astronauts will have to make in launching themselves from the moon.

After early checks showed the $41 million spider was working as planned, McDivitt fired the ship's big landing engine, controlling its power with a hand throttle much like those found on railroad locomotives. Controllers reported the 25-second burst went perfectly.

McDivitt and Schweickart slithered into the lunar module without their bubble helmets and gloves, showing the new confidence they have in their ship. Previously they wore pressurized suits in case an atmosphere leak should develop.

But the only emergency oxygen supply available for McDivitt was a container able to keep him ablive about 30 minutes, called an ops for oxygen purge system.

If docking were not possible, but the two spacecraft could get close together, the plan called for Schweickart to wear the backpack and McDivitt to hop across with the ops.

Wallet, $55 Gone

Robert Winpress of Woodacre told sheriff's officers that, while his car was parked in a College of Marin parking lot Tuesday, someone broke into the glove compartment and stole 15 stereotapes and a wallet containing $55.

Mill Valley Theft

Randy English of 190 Almonte Boulevard, Mill Valley, reported the theft of four books, a silver cup and two pictures from his home Wednesday, according to sheriff's officers.

Novato Burglary

Burglars forced open a sliding glass door and stole a portable stereo set from the home of David Martin at 2620 Center Road, Novato, on Wednesday, sheriff's deputies said today.

Films Will Play Role In Fund Drive

The Rohnert Park Cultural Arts Commission last night set dates for spring events to raise $7,000 for a fountain at the front office of the new community and recreation center.

Scheduled is a film festival headed by Sonoma State College student Lawrence Statan of Petaluma. To be shown are "The 400 Blows," March 21; "Whistle Down the Wind," April 11; "Sound of Trumpets," May 6; and "King Rat," May 27; all at 7:30 p.m. in the multi-purpose room of Rohnert Park Junior High School.

Nurses Seek 10 Per Cent Wage Hike, Other Benefits

County nurses, whose salaries range from $650 to a maximum of $1,008 for the supervisory public health nurse, are asking for a 10 per cent pay raise for the new fiscal year.

The California Nurses Association, representing 15 county nurses, made the request in a proposed agreement submitted to County Administrator Alan Bruce.

Among the new benefits requested:

Any work required beyond the normal 40-hour week should be compensated by time off at the rate of one and one-half hours for each hour of overtime.

If the cost of living index for the Bay Area, as published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, shows an increase of more than 2.5 per cent for the last quarter of 1968, salaries should be raised by 5 per cent on Jan. 1, 1970.

Any nurse required to have an automobile as a condition of employment shall be reimbursed $30 per month for up to 250 miles of use. Beyond the 250 miles, the nurse will get 12 cents per mile.

Each nurse shall be entitled to five days leave per year with pay to attend professional or educational activities in the nursing field.

The nurses group is the fourth bargaining unit to present demands to the county. The others are the Marin County Employees Association, which has 645 dues-paying members; Social Workers Union Local 535, AFL-CIO, representing 70 employees, and Probation Workers Union Local 535, AFL-CIO, representing 60 employees.

Judge Orders Medical Exam

A medical examination was ordered yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for a 23-year-old man who told the judge he knew he was Jesus Christ because he had read the Book of Revelations and understood it.

Judge Peter Allen Smith asked the man, who had been arrested for hitchhiking on the freeway, "Do you claim you're the Saviour or are you just using the name 'Jesus Christ'."

The man replied that he had already saved the world.

Judge Smith finally elicited the information that the young man had been named Patrick Hyde 'in another life" but questions about his parents only brought the response that they were "Joseph and Mary."

Out Of Hospital

Anti-HHH Marchers' Plight Told

CHICAGO (AP) — A police sergeant testified that two groups of Democratic National Convention delegates carrying signs which said "Dump the Hump" had to be rescued from angry South Side mobs last Aug. 29.

Sgt. Raymond O'Malley appeared yesterday in the Circuit Court trial of 13 delegates and campaign workers arrested during the march. Among the defendants charged with disorderly conduct are writer Murray Kempton, a New York delegate, and Patricia Saltonstall, a cousin of former Sen. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts.

O'Malley testified that one of the groups was beset by angry whites in Mayor Richard J. Daley's own 11th Ward. Police had to round up the delegates, put them in squad cars and drive them to safety, he said.

Another group of delegates opposed to presidential candidate Hubert Humphrey was harassed by thousands of angry Negroes in a second South Side neighborhood, the police officer testified.

The city has presented five witnesses in the first week of the trial and each testified he believed the march constituted a threat to Chicago's security.

ART REVIEW

History Of Kline's Work Is Outstanding

By LAURA DEVENDORF

SAN FRANCISCO — Franz Kline's abstract expressionist canvases," . . . are among the strongest and most important statements made by an artist during the exciting decade of the 1950s," said John Gordon, Curator of the Whitney Museum.

It was Gordon who assembled the 70-piece Kline retrospective being exhibited through March 30 at the San Francisco Museum of Art in the Civic Center.

The exhibit traces the late artist's development through the figure drawings and somber landscapes of the early 1940s, through the abstraction of subjects in the early 1950s, to the ultimate huge, calligraphic images into which Kline's work finally evolved.

These last massive canvases, especially the ones in black and white, assign Kline his importance. Looming like brooding monoliths, they have a dark explosive presence which results both from Kline's dramatic scheme for breaking space and from his dynamic brushwork.

The latter is a highly charged, aggressive application of black paint in strident pulls and delicate textures, on surfaces that look wet and dry and dense and thin and that all together seem the very essence and quality of blackness.

Thei backgrounds are equally the quality of whiteness — clear, clean and inner-lit with a hint of dawn or spring-touched tones or elsewhere, grayed and grim. The contrasts heighten their aura. They are deeply, darkly emotional and in all of them there is an exquisite agony of excitement.

Kline's ink studies for his larger works have the same form. And in the exhibit there are also several canvases in which the blacks become splinters and chars over underworkings of color. But none express his compelling combinations of brute force and personal delicacy as do the black and white oils.

These works are something to marvel at, drawing the eye again and again into their brutal structures — there, to make new discoveries of nuance and mood within the paint itself.

The Kline exhibit is open without charge Tuesday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.; Saturday from 10 to 5 p.m. and Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m.

The city of Einnipeg, in order to preserve the downtown shopping district, is planning to cover seven blocks to provide year-around air conditioning for shoppers.

Youth Is Cited In Drug Probe

A 16-year-old Novato boy was cited to juvenile authorities yesterday on suspicion of possession of stolen property and narcotics violations after police were called to his home by his mother.

Police reported finding in his room a phonograph belonging to the Novato Unified High School District, 11 reportedly stolen records, a substance thought to be marijuana, another possibly hashish and a pipe for smoking narcotics.

The youth, John C. Wright of 1566 South Novato Boulevard, was released to the custody of his mother, Bernice, after also being cited as beyond parental control, according to police.

Youth Center Reopening Set

Sausalito's renovated Youth Center at the old Star of the Sea Church, at Harrison and Bulkley avenues, will open at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow after needed repairs.

Then in November, the Sausalito City Council appropriated $500 for building repairs and authorized the hiring of a part-time director for the center at $220 a month through June.

The Sausalito Teen Club had been meeting at the old church building last year but because of its dilapidated condition, the youths were seeking a permanent location.

If the Big Bands ever come back, they just might do it in a Volkswagen Station Wagon.

After all, what other wagon could take on 9 guys, instruments and 15 pieces of luggage at the same time?

What other wagon could do all that while averaging 23 miles to the gallon and only using pints of oil?

Where else could a piano player (with his piano and without the rest of the band) fit through a side door?

Or how about the bass giving out with a great big Blues number through a great big hole in the roof?

Then there's the winter circuit. (The VW is the only wagon around with rear engine traction and an engine that doesn't dig antifreeze nohow.)

New Mental Health Law Seminar Topic

The uncertainties created by California's new mental health law will be discussed tomorrow at a day-long seminar at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo.

The seminar will begin at 10 a.m. and will feature talks by State Sen. Nicholas Petris, D-Oakland, co-author of the new law; Dr. Herbert Bauer, mental health director for Yolo County; Marin County Superior Court Judge Joseph Wilson and Valerie Bradley, research analyst for the state Assembly.

The program, open to the public, is designed for mental health professionals, law enforcement officers, public officials, attorneys, physicians and social and health agency personnel.

The new mental health law — which goes into effect July 1 — provides greater protection for the civil rights of persons who are committed to state mental institutions. It also abolishes the "indeterminate" commitments of persons to mental health facilities.

The seminar is being sponsored by the Marin Association for Mental Health. Moderator for the seminar will be Dr. Alvin S. Haag, president of the county association.

Two Booked As AWOL Suspects

Two soldiers were booked into Marin County Jail early today by Corte Madera police on suspicion of being AWOL from the Presidio of San Francisco.

Arrested were E2 Allen Rick Sciarra, 19, of Healdsburg, and E4 Charles Wesley Smith, 20, of Cloverdale.

Officer Martin Van Drunen saw the men at about 2:45 a.m. walking under Highway 101 underpass at Nellen Drive carrying two tires. Their stories varied as to where they were going and Van Drunen checked the Army and found the pair AWOL.

Van Drunen said the soldiers' car had broken down in Sausalito, and they were trying to find a place to repair the tires. They had been given a ride from Sausalito to Corte Madera by California Highway Patrol officers, police said.

Lipman To Seek Mayor's Post

Petaluma City Councilman Robert S. Lipman announced yesterday that he will seek the mayor's office in the June 10 municipal election.

Lipman, who is completing his first four-year council term, says he intends to take out candidacy papers on March 27, the first day of filing. The filing period closes April 17.

The candidate, who will be 31 next month, is employed as public relations director at Sonoma State College and also operates a free lance public relations service. He lives at 1217 West Street.

Incumbent Mayor Helen Putnam said her political plans had not yet been made and that she would study Lipman's objectives before making any statements.

City Red-Faced Over Pot Poster

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The director of tree planting for San Francisco admitted today the foliage depicted in a winning "Plant-a-Tree Week" poster isn't exactly what he has in mind.

The first award blue ribbon went to a poster which pictured pot, embarrassed offcials admitted.

"They're not the sort of trees we recommend for street planting," said Brian Fewer, city tree planting director.

The 17-year-old high school youth who painted the poster, which was displayed in the lobby of a public building until its true nature became known, said he "did it to find out where people are at."

School Chief Halts Tests; To Apologize

A testing team from Tamalpais Union High School District was ordered out of Martin Luther King School in Sausalito yesterday. Sausalito Supt. Philip W. Schneider later said the test halt was a mistake and that he would apologize to the high school district.

Test administrators had given about half the school's eighth graders a series of three tests when Asst. Principal James T. Toliver Jr. called a halt to the tests, on orders from the superintendent's office.

James T. Janicula, the high school district's director of pupil planning, said the tests are those which have been given for several years to pupils entering high schools the following fall. They test reading, mathematics and mental ability and are used by counselors in deciding pupils' initial course in high school, he said. He emphasized the tests are not used to "track" students, to make final decisions or lay out "the whole future course" of a pupil in high school.

Martin Luther King Principal Robert Thomson said he scheduled the tests a month ago.

Schneider, asked why the tests were stopped, said "I stopped them. I didn't know what was going on . . . it turns out these were the normal tests the high school gives, I just hadn't been informed and didn't know about it."

Schneider said a secretary at Martin Luther King called his office when testers arrived and asked what was going on. Since he knew nothing of the tests and could not leave a meeting to investigate, Schneider said, he ordered if there were any doubts about it to stop the tests.

He will reschedule the remaining eighth grade tests, he said.

Rec Budget Is Dropped To $72,289

Corte Madera Park and Recreation commissioners approved a proposed 1969-70 budget Wednesday of $72,289.

The current budget is $112,665. Reason for the large drop is that last year's budget included $48,000 for improvement of the town's corporation yard.

Commissioners also recommended a $8,587 summer recreation program budget under a joint program with Larkspur. This compares with the current $8,420 budget.

The special park tax is currently 15 cents per $100 assessed valuation and Arthur N. Morrison, director of public works, said this figure is expected to remain the same.

About $35,000 of the budget is realized from the park tax and the remainder from the general fund tax, Morrison said.

Capital improvements in the proposed budget are $28,900, compared with the current $72,069; maintenance and operations is proposed at $42,188, compared with $40,596 currently.

The 1969-70 budget includes $3,000 for converting a storage center at 500 Tamalpais Drive to a teen center; turfing Town Park, $9,400; path paving in Town Park, $4,800 and a playground gazebo in the park, $500.

Commissioners also agreed that the proposed teen center should be opened Oct. 1 through mid-May of 1970 at an average of 25 hours per week.

They gave the Corte Madera Chamber of Commerce permission to hold an Easter egg hunt in Town Park at 11 a.m., April 5.

Impounded U.S. Airman Recovers

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — The Khmer press agency said today that Laird Osburn, a member of the crew of an American L19 plane shot down Feb. 12, has been released from a Phnom Penh hospital "completely recovered."

The agency said that Osburn is now being held at the royal naval base at Chroui Changwar, near Phnom Penh. It is believed the other three crew members were being held there too.

Tearful Court Appearance By Accused Kidnaper

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Ruth Eisemann-Schier, 26-year-old accused kidnaper, wept during a stormy arraignment in federal court yesterday.

The Honduras-born woman was formally charged with complicity in the kidnaping last Dec. 17 of Georgia co-ed Barbara Mackle, 20, rescued after 86 hours buried underground in a box near Atlanta. Miss Hackle's father paid $500,000 ransom, most of which was recovered.

Also charged in the case is Gary Steven Krist, 23, captured five days after the kidnaping, who was scheduled for a Georgia court arraignment today.

Her arraignment was on a package of federal charges which included extortion, interstate transportation in aid of racketeering enterprises and aiding and abetting extortion.

A hearing on extraditing Miss Schier was scheduled for next Wednesday.

Daylight saving time first went into effect in California on April 30, 1950.

Nixon Gives Three Medals Of Honor

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon bestowed the nation's highest award—the Medal of Honor—today on three Army men who he said "fought for the cause of freedom and peace" in Vietnam.

The presentation was a first for Nixon, and he said it was the highest honor for him thus far as President.

In a colorful East Room ceremony, the President presented the blue-ribboned medals with a handshake to Sgt. 1/C Fred W. Zabitosky, 26, of Trenton, N.J.; S/Sgt. Joe R. Hooper, 29, of Saugus, (Los Angeles County), and Sp/5 Clarence E. Sasser, 21, of Rosharon, Tex.

Nixon said the three "have added to the honor of America by what they have done," risking their lives for their fellow men in courageous acts.

He noted that all three were under 30 and said that there is a tendency to emphasize what is wrong with the younger generation in America sometimes.

But, he said, "These three young men demonstrated to us that we can be very proud of the younger generation. They are magnificent."

Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor read the citations crediting the men with outstanding heroism and performance under fire in January and February 1968.

Among other things, Zabitosky rescued the pilot from a burning helicopter which crashed during a fire fight.

Sasser, a medical aid man, was cited for his treatment and encouragement of wounded men during a battle even after he was wounded in the shoulder and both legs.

Hooper, a squad leader, led an assault on a heaviy defended enemy position on a riverbank. The citation said he "singlehandedly stormed three enemy bunkers, destroying them with hand grenades and rifle fire, and shot two enemy soldiers who had attacked and wounded the chaplain."

He also rescued a wounded man under fire and "neutralized the final pocket of enemy resistance by fatally wounding three North Vietnamese officers with rifle fire."

Bagley's Plan For U.C. Regents Suffers Setback In The Assembly

SACRAMENTO (AP)— Legislators — unhappy with both University of California administrators and regents — have refused to act on a measure to dump Gov. Ronald Reagan and other political figures from the board of regents.

Instead, the Assembly Government Administration Committee took under submission the proposed constitutional amendment by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

Bagley charged yesterday that Reagan, Democratic Assembly leader Jesse M. Unruh and Superintendent of Public Instruction Max Rafferty, a Republican, were making political capital out of their position on the regents.

"They use the university," said Bagley.

But Assemblymen Carlos Bee, D-Hayward, and Leroy Greene, D-Sacramento, replied that present regents and administrators had failed to stop campus disturbances —and the people now want their elected officials to step in.

"The man on the street doesn't approve of red paint," said Bee, referring to last weekend's vandalism at the University of California at Berkeley in which red paint was spattered on buildings.

And Greene, referring to regents, said, "the kinds of people we have had so far have not been able to handle the problem." He wondered whether the Legislature should have the power to confirm or reject the governor's appointments to the board.

The measure would remove from the regents the governor, the lieutenant governor, the speaker of the Assemply and the superintendent of puplic instruction. It would also require open meetings of the regents — something opposed by the university.

The elected officials are "ex officio" members — by virtue of their elected positions. Most regents are appointed by the governor for 16-year terms, although Bagley's proposal would reduce their terms to 12 years.

Bagley said Reagan, Unruh and Rafferty have, at various times, brought their political feuds into board meetings.

"The board works well in times of crisis," he said. "Then it blows apart. It blows apart because political office holders can't resist expressing themselves in flowery terms, designed to elicit applause."

Bee, however, said inaction by the university leadership forced a position "where we have had to move in."

Bagley's measure would also require the regents to open their meetings to the public — a provision opposed by the university.

Chairman Carl Britschgi, R-Redwood City, told Bagley, "You don't have the votes." But Bagley predicted he could muster enough support to win committee approval later. If the legislature approved, the measure would have to go before the voters.

In other higher educational developments:

Reagan signed a measure appropriating $900,000 to hire faculty for an unexpectedly high enrollment at the state colleges.

The Senate finance committee approved two measures that would require dismissal of students and faculty found guilty in campus disturbances.

Charge Of Bay Pollution By Water Project Denied

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A state water official says it's "absolutely not correct" to say that operation of the $3 billion state Water Project will pollute the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta with salt water.

"We're operating under a law that tells us the opposite," said Robert G. Eiland, assistant chief of the state Water Resources Department.

He was asked for comment yesterday on a charge by Rep. Jerome R. Waldie, D-14th District, that water officials are planning pollution of San Francisco Bay and the delta.

Waldie, from Contra Costa County, also said in Washington that the water department is in the "ridiculous role" of selling the state's water resources to Southern California.

Waldie contended that planned diversion of fresh water out of the delta would permit ocean water to intrude into present fresh water areas.

Eiland said the proposed peripheral canal to carry water from the north around the delta and into the California Aqueduct actually will help preserve quality of the delta water.

"We have to build the project," Eiland added. "We have to consider the whole state. We can't build a project based purely on views of a small area."

Waldie called for prohibition of salinity intrusion, defining it as pollution. "The diverters of fresh water become polluters," he said.

Norman B. Livermore Jr., state resources secretary, said Waldie is exaggerating.

"He appears to be dead set against the peripheral canal plan and he's in the minority on that." Livermore added that the delta is "a very valuable asset that has to be watched. It's not going to be destroyed."

121 Teachers Face Releases

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Sacramento school district has notified 121 teachers and 23 other employees that they face losing their jobs in June because of budget cutbacks.

In his letters yesterday, Supt. Paul B. Salmon linked the cuts to the failure of voters to approve a $1.11 tax override Feb. 25.

"Dr. Salmon labeled it tragic and I think it's true—not only for the teachers who are to be released but also for the children who'll get reduced services," said Assistant Supt. Robert N. Hanson.

Salmon's notices were sent to 92 junior high school teachers, 29 senior high school teachers. Others included 14 school nurses, two music teachers assigned to visit several schools, the district's medical consultant.

Heir's Death Is Under Probe

NEW YORK (UPI) — Columbia University and the police were conducting separate investigations today into the death of Fairleigh Dickinson III, heir to a pharmaceutical fortune, who authorities suspect may have died from an overdose of drugs.

The 19-year-old Columbia University freshman, whose grandfather founded Fairleigh Dickinson University in Rutherford, N.J., was found writhing in pain in a dormitory room Wednesday. He died en route to a hospital.

Police said the 6-foot-3 bespectacled English major apparently died from the effects of LSD and opium. Detectives quoted friends of the youth as saying Dickinson had taken a sugar cube coated with LSD and then inhaled opium fumes.

Rail Employees Vote To Strike

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Employees of San Francisco's Municipal Railroad voted early today to strike Sunday if their wage dispute with the city has not been settled.

City officials have already granted Muni employees a 5 per cent pay increase, but union officials complained that unless a 17.5 per cent increase were granted some 133 Muni supervisors, the supervisors would make less than their operators.

The strike decision came at a union meeting attended by more than half of the transportation facility's 2,000 workers.

New Chairman For Library Panel

The Mill Valley Library board last night unanimously elected Mrs. Eugene Hecht chairman to complete the term of Helen Dreyfus, who resigned on leaving the city.

The board also discussed the city's request for county funds for the Mill Valley Library's service to county borrowers, but took no action.

Annenberg Admits Wife Gave Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Walter H. Annenberg, ambassador-designate to Great Britain, told senators today he had not contributed personally to President Nixon's election campaign but his wife had given $2,500.

Annenberg, Philadelphia publisher and philanthropist, said he had never made any political contributions to anyone's campaign.

Under questioning by Chairman J. W. Fulbright, Annenberg said he thought it was "unsound for an independent editor to be a contributor to any cause that involves a special pleading."

Later in the hearing, he explained his wife had made the political contributions to the Nixon campaign.

The committee also conducted hearings on the nominations of John S. D. Eisenhower, son of the former president, to be ambassador to Belgium, and Jacob D. Beam, now ambassador to Czechoslovakia, to be ambassador to the Soviet Union.

Eisenhower was asked about his recently published book, "The Bitter Woods," a history of the Battle of the Bulge during World War II. He assured the committee there was nothing in it the Belgian government would find offensive.

Fulbright said the committee would act next Tuesday on all three nominations.

Sirhan Tells Of Night At Ambassador

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sirhan Bishara Sirhan says he's "not sorry, but not proud" of having killed Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and claims the details of the assassination are a blank in his mind.

The defense said yesterday it had 17 more witnesses to present to the jury trying Sirhan for first degree murder for the slaying early on June 5, 1968.

Sirhan's three and one-half days in the witness stand became more a forum for invective against Jews and Zionism than an explanation of why he killed the presidential aspirant he claimed to love and admire."

"I don't remember," Sirhan kept saying when questioned about the murder or about the notebooks in which he wrote of his plans to kill the senator.

"Are you glad he's dead?" asked Lynn D. Compton, the prosecutor.

"No, sir," said Sirhan, "I'm not glad."

"Are you sorry."

"No, sir, I'm not sorry, but not proud of it either because I have no exact knowledge of having killed him."

Except for the times when the subject of Jews or Zionism was brought up, Sirhan testified calmly. But he fidgeted, toyed with the microphone cord and appeared to be concentrating on defense attorney Grant B. Cooper leaning against the rail halfway across the room.

Sirhan told of having some gin drinks at a post-election party in the Ambassador Hotel and, "feeling quite high," going to his car where he had left the .22-caliber revolver he had used on a gunnery range that afternoon.

But, he said, he felt too drunk to drive: returned to the hotel to find some coffee, and didn't remember picking up the gun.

"As a result of what has happened, you know you must have picked it up," said Cooper.

"I must have sir."

Sirhan said he poured himself coffee from a big urn and was talking with a pretty girl.

"What happened next?

"I don't remember."

"What was the next thing you did?"

"The next think I remember, sir, I was being choked."

After Kennedy was shot, following a speech proclaiming his victory in the California Democratic Presidential primary, Sirhan was subdued by a half dozen members of Kennedy's party and hotel personnel.

Negro Tells Of Korean Capture

CORONADO (AP) — A Negro crewman on the USS Pueblo says North Koreans gave him liquor and told him to "participate in the Negro upsurge" when he got home.

Willie Bussell, 23 of Hopkinsville, Ky., told a Navy court of inquiry yesterday that officers in his North Korean prison were curious about Negro life in the United States.

"The duty officers would call me off to one side and ask me how things were," he said. "I told them the way it was."

Bussell, said being a Negro won him no leniency and told of being threatened with a bayonet for talking with a shipmate during exercises.

The court summoned Communications Technician 2.C. Angelo Strano, 23, of Hartford, Conn., a Pueblo crewman, and a resistance and escape specialist, Capt. John Strane, to testify in closed-session today.

When they finish, the Navy said, the president of the court, Vice Adm. Harold G. Bowen Jr., will leave for a Honolulu conference with the admiral who convened the investigation.

Bowen will confer all day tomorrow with Arm. John J. Hyland, commander in chief of the Pacific Fleet, who called the court into session seven weeks ago. Bowen plans to return Sunday.

Communications Technician 2.C. Ralph McClintock demonstrated to the court yesterday how he mocked North Koreans at one of their news conferences by reciting a stilted sing-song confession laced with sarcasm.

The North Koreans didn't realize they were beng mocked, because they weren't familiar with America idiom, McClintock, of Milton, Mass., said.

Nixon To Florida

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon will fly to Florida tonight to spend a long weekend at his home in Key Biscayne, returning Monday night.

Mrs. Uris' Death Is Ruled Self-Inflicted

MARGERY URIS
Found dead in snow

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — The beautiful bride of author Leon Uris died by her own hand, a six-member coroner's jury ruled here today.

After hearing a full day of testimony yeasterday, the panel deliberated about 20 minutes before finding that 26-year-old Mrs. Margery Uris, whose body was found Feb. 19, died of a self inflicted bullet wound.

The decision confirmed earlier investigators' reports that the death was an apparent suicide.

Uris, formerly of Larkspur, testified yesterday he and his wife of six months had quarreled and that he told her, "we're through," shortly before she died.

There had been earlier spats since their marriage last September, Uris testified, but added they always had been settled quickly.

In the last dispute, he said he told her, "We're through. Go sleep downstairs."

But, he said, "what really got me" was Mrs. Uris' reply to his order. "I've made other plans," he quoted her as saying.

"She was calling my bluff," said the 44-year-old author of such successful novels as "Exodus," "Topaz," "Battle Cry," and "Mila 18."

"When she walked by me she said 'Goodby. Enjoy the presents." He said his last words were: "Marge, if you don't tell me where you're going, it's the worst mistake of your life."

The reference to presents involved presents she had given Uris and his son earlier in the day.

Mrs. Uris—model, artist, silversmith—had been described as "one of the beautiful people" of this Rocky Mountain ski resort. Their fashionable home overlooked the town.

Uris told the panel, "We were happier than any couple I knew," but conceded he had talked with his attorney the day of the shooting about a divorce.

Assistant Dist. Atty. John Wendt asked if he was serious about the divorce. "Not really," Uris replied. "It was kind of a bluff."

He said it was starting to snow when his wife walked to the door. "She had an anguished look on her face," he said. "She hesitated as though she didn't know where she was going or if she wanted to come back into the house.

"It was a test of wills, I guess," Uris said. He said then he heard three shots.

He said he thought Mrs. Uris was firing at the house "to show me she was good and mad."

He said he kept guns in the house "because there had been a threat on my life after I wrote 'Topaz." That novel dealt with international intrigue involving France and the United States. He said the threat was made "by agents from a foreign country who arrived in Aspen."

The autopsy showed one .38-caliber bullet caused a superficial wound in Mrs. Uris' cheek and another entered her mouth and penetrated the brain. A third bullet struck her purse, found lying by the body.

Two Richardson Bay Plans Hit Opposition

Gate, while dumping around the clock, would see only about 50 per cent flushed out the bay, reported Commissioner Bertrand H. Voss, representing the corps.

Commissioner Harry A. Bruno, of Oakland, however, said that most of the silt flushed out of the bay never reaches the open sea, but settles on the bar outside the mouth of the bay. Noting that the shipping channel through the bar has to be dredged, Bruno said dumping mud in the bay "is not very good economy."

None of the other commissioners, however, supported his implication that the mud should be dumped at sea.

Frost said dumping at sea would hike the cost of the project to as much as $2 million, thus it no longer could be financed.

Marin County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney, presenting the county's application for the dredging and dumping permit, said it will be "of inestimable importance" both to the county and Mill Valley, which is spending about $200,000 on its harbor, he said.

Frost testified that the project "will not significantly affect wildlife."

Even if approved by BCDC, he said, the project could not begin until the county got a permit from the corps to dump at Alcatraz. Army regulations require a special permit to dump more than 100,000 cubic yards there from a project in one year. Dredging would take from six month to a year, Frost estimated.

Maintenance dredging of the canal would cost about $30,000 a year, he said.

Pressures to use mud spoils for fill in the bay will increase unless the Alcatraz dumping is approved, cautioned Marin Supervisor Michael Wornum.

The only objection came from two property owners along the canal, George Kappas and Allexis Tellis, both arguing that a master plan for the canal area should precede dredging.

"You're being asked to bail out the City of Mill Valley," said Kappas' attorney, Hugh G. Lawrence. Kappas, who opposed his inclusion in the assessment district, lost about 125 feet of his "dock" when the canal was aligned across its tip.

The dredged channel would be 150 feet wide south of the Richardson Bay Bridge, and 100 feet wide north of the bridge. It would be eight feet deep at mean lower low water. The waterway is not navigable now at low tide.

The high-rise development, proposed by Sausalito Associates, had received an indefinite postponement of a vote after an October hearing. Yesterday, they presented a slightly modified plan.

Their master plan previously envisioned an 850-room, 16-story hotel, a 130-room motel about 10 stories high, a "boatel-motel" facility with shops up to four stories high, a restaurant, cocktail lounge, gas station, "transportation center" for boats and helicopters, and an eight-acre lagoon.

The plan was amended to reduce the fill, formerly almost 17 acres, by 1.5 acres, to cut the number of rooms in the high-rise hotel from 850 to 550 rooms, and to lower it from 16 to 14 stories.

It was the lagoon that was the center of the new controversy, with attorney Lawrence protesting that Kappas owned a piece of the tideland in the lagoon. "We are furnishing some of the open space," he declared.

Also objecting was David B. Gold, attorney for adjacent landowner Donlon J. Arques, who insisted that "serious legal questions" remained until all landowners got together on a plan so each could share in the area's commercial development. "We don't want to be the bird sanctuary of the entire area," Gold said.

The commission instructed its staff to look into their objections and report back at the March 21 meeting, when more testimony will be heard before the fill application is voted.

The only proponent of the project other than the developers' representatives was Rev. Samuel L. Banks Jr. of Marin City, who said it would provide jobs for his community's residents. Also, he said, "I ask to be delivered from the unsightly dump" now on the bay.

Batteries Stolen From Parked Cars

Batteries from two cars parked in San Rafael were stolen yesterday, San Rafael police said today.

They said batteries were taken from the car of Charles Harvey Mielenz, of 19 Terra Linda Drive, whose car was parked near the Eileen Feather Figure Salon, and from the car of Janet Wardlah Everson of 101 Granlee Road, whose car was parked in a rear carport at 1530 Fourth Street.

DINING OUT AND INNS

Rumors Unfounded But Still Link Ondine, Other Ventures

Rumor, which has a nasty habit of misconstruing fact, has for some time tied Ondine Restaurant in Sausalito with Restaurant Mirabeau in Oakland.

It is now going to step further and including the Mirabeau which is due to open in Seattle in May.

You might say there is a distant relationship — but it is several times removed. The corporation, Ondine Enterprises, Inc., owns and operates only one restaurant, the one in Sausalito. Senior partners are George P. Gutekunst, president; Fred A Martinez, secretary, and Alfred Roblin, treasurer. There are also two junior partners, Joseph De Natale and Roger Chanteloube, both vice presidents. De Natale's brother Frank, by the way, if the name sounds familiar, is manager of Bob's of Marin in Corte Madera.

The confusion lies in the fact that Messrs. Gutekunst and Roblin also happen to own nonparticipating shares in Le Lac Enterprises, Inc. This company owns and operates Mirabeau, Oakland and will own and operate Mirabeau, Seattle.

Naturally the two men have a healthy interest in their investment and they have given liberally of their restaurant knowledge to get the two establishments on the road. But neither they nor Ondine are running them.

AND SPEAKING of rumors, there's another one making the rounds that the owners of Taberna in San Rafael have sold out.

No one seems to know where the story originated, but co-owner Bob Czyz assures me it has no basis in fact. He and his partners Jeanne Neill and Roland Ledtke have made no deals, there is no transaction pending nor is one contemplated.

JACK IN THE BOX drive-in restaurant, which for weeks past has been trying to complete its paving work between downpours, has finally made it.

This is the new enterprise on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, San Anselmo, between the Drake Market and the Red Hill Shopping Center. It opened for business this week.

IT MUST HAVE BEEN a bit unnerving for John Weiland of Blue Rock Inn, while languishing in the hospital recently after an operation, to receive a letter from his two bartenders Bill Anderson and Pete Le Frois.

Such letters are generally reassuring of the sender's wishes for an early recovery, but this one was calculated to speed up the process even faster and bring John back to work.

It enclosed a color photograph, very realistic, of his two well-wishing employees posed at the bar under a new sign announcing the grand opening of Pete and Bill's Place (formerly the Blue Rock), with the assurance that all bottled mercandise for the first night was on the house.

If that event was ever held, however, there are no telltale clues. Inventories were in order on John's return. But I have a sneaking suspicion he's still looking for incriminating evidence.

NEW ENTERTAINMENT attraction at the hungry i in San Francisco. Bobbie and I, has two of its principals from Marin County.

Bobbie, the featured vocalist, is Bobbie Burch from San Rafael. The musical trio back-up here consists of Ken Fischler at the piano (he also sings); Rod Eliott, electric bass player; and Mike McKinley on drums. They have recorded on Imperial, a Liberty Record label. Rod is the other Marinite, also from the San Rafael area.

Bobbie and I has been at the San Francisco nightspot about five weeks and is scheduled for another seven weeks, playing six nights a week.

OTHER SAN FRANCISCO NOTES: Richard Ferraris and his combo play nightly at the Starlite Roof of the Sir Francis Drake Hotel. . . . Songstress Morgana King and the comedy team of Ford and Reynolds opened last night at Bimbo's Theater Restaurant and will appear through March 15.

APPEARANCE of Walter Van Vechten, waiter at Rubini's, on the Rich King Show over KFOG Radio had to be postponed. It is now scheduled for this Sunday at 10 p.m.

BLACK HATTER chef Pierre Bitterer, who used to be at the Pandora, is now chef at the Mark Hopkins in San Francisco. But of more interest to Marinites perhaps is the fact that he is now lecturing on cooking Thursdays from 10 to 11:30 a.m. at the Jewish Community Center in Santa Venetia. He is a Santa Venetia resident. Prospective registrants should call the center.

PIERRE BITTERER
Teaches cooking

STARTING THIS WEEKEND, Gatsby's in Sausalito is featuring Jeamie Hoffman with Nate Johnson on bass and Al Pimentel on drums.

The trio will play Wednesday through Saturday night and from 6 p.m. on Sundays for the next two months.

CAFE BON VIN, which gets mentioned in this column so frequently because it is the only restaurant I know that is built on continual menu changes and new combinations, will start its Thursday night programs on March 27.

Every Thursday night a winemaker will lead a discussion and tasting of his best wines, followed by a banquet which features at least one of his old family recipes. Cost is $8.50 for the complete evening. Dinners will be served at individual tables, not provincial style as on Wednesday nights. Reservations are limited to 50 and should be made early.

Several reservations are already in for the first Thursday event, when Louis Martini will bring several of his wines and give his audience an insight to the effects of bottle age. This should be of particular interest to anyone with his own wine cellar.

If you're lucky, on Fred Chery's Sunday brunch, you may be able to get "Blini a la Russe" —crepes with fresh caviar and sour cream. This is not the salty caviar in jars but freshly caught and promptly refrigerated until actually served.

ORGANIST JEAN DENNING of San Rafael, who was last appearing at the console at Sabella's on Monday nights, is now teaching organ for Sherman Clay in San Rafael.

Jail Sentence For Novatan

Bradford Eugene Bishop, 21, of Novato has been sentenced to serve 40 days in Marin County Jail for battery and possessing marijuana, LSD and a hypodermic needle.

Judge Harold J. Haley of Marin Superior Court also placed Bishop on one year probation.

Cal Expo Cure: Private Industry

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — General Services Director Andrew R. Lolli says the state should turn the job of operating the debt - ridden California Exposition over to private enterprise.

Lolli said Cal Expo should not be abolished even though it finished its first season last year with a $1.5 million deficit.

"It should go into the hands of private industry as soon as possible," Lolli said. "The sooner it goes there, the better."

He made the observation yesterday at a "state-of-the-agency" news conference held by all department heads in the agriculture and services agency.

Novato Pollution Ban On Regional Agenda

I-J Special Report

OAKLAND — A cease and desist order against the Novato Sanitary District to stop it from polluting the Petaluma River and Novato Creek will be considered for approval by the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board in its all-day meeting Thursday in the Contra Costa County Administration Building, Martinez.

Also on the agenda will be a staff recommendation on whether the Bolinas Community Public Utility District's schedule to build joint sewage facilities with the Stinson Beach County Water District meets the regional board's standards.

Also on the agenda are requirements regulating waste discharge by the Marin Debris Co. on the San Rafael tidelands and progress reports on time schedules by the San Rafael Sanitation District and San Quentin Prison to meet the regional district's standards on discharge of wastes into the bay.

The meeting, which begins at 10 a.m., originally was to have been held in Oakland, where the district is headquartered, but was shifted to Martinez.

Senate Supports Stanford Fines

STANFORD (AP) — Stanford University's academic senate voted 26-1 last night to endorse President Kenneth Pitzer's "prompt and effective" action against 29 militant students.

The students, who disrupted a trustees' meeting, were fined a total of $1,900, but have vowed they will not pay.

Pitzer took the action on the recommendation of the judicial council, a student-faculty group, which also had urged the students be suspended.

The Academic Senate had urged "the entire academic community to support the president on this matter."

In accord with the council's recommendation, students who fail to pay at heast half the fine by March 31 will not be permitted to enroll for spring quarter classes.

Three Drunken Driving Fines

Three persons have been sentenced in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving.

Marion Snook Palmer, 45, of 3 Barbaree Way, Tiburon, was ordered to pay a $125 fine and placed on six months probation. She was arrested Feb. 1 on Tiburon Boulevard.

Marion Louise Ackerman, 55, of 2505 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Fairfax, who was arrested Jan. 6 on Highway 101, was fined $150 and placed on six months probation.

Kenneth Richard Barrows, 46, of San Francisco, wsa fined $125 and placed on six months probation. He was arrested Monday on Highway 101.

New President At San Fernando

NORTHRIDGE (AP)—A philosopher who is an expert in public address will be the new president of San Fernando Valley State College, assuming office in mid-June.

The appointment of James W. Cleary, 41, was announced yesterday by Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke's office. He succeeds Malcolm O. Sillars, acting president since Feb. 14 who replaced ailing acting president Paul Blomgren.

Cleary, who in 1963-64 studied the administration of the University of California system on a fellowship, took a doctorate of philosophy from the University of Wisconsin at Madison where he is vice chancellor of academic affairs.

Woman Hurts Back In 2-Car Accident

Lillie M. Williams, 44, of Richmond, was treated for back sprain at Marin General Hospital Wednesday after a two-car collision on Highway 101 in Corte Madera, the California Highway Patrol reported yesterday.

The highway patrol said the Williams car was struck from the rear at 5:15 p.m. by a car driven by Mary F. Brady, 50, of 23 Harding Drive, Novato.

New Arts Facility Will Open

The Sausalito Arts Association will open its new facility at Bayside School April 1 with an experiment in total environment theater, produced by Interexperienced Ltd., as one of the attractions.

At the moment Bruce Harlow, organizer of Interexperience, is looking for nonprofessional dancers who would be interested in taking part in the project, persons he called "expressive enough to interpret this thing in their own way."

According to Harlow, a large plastic, domelike cave is being built, inside which visitors will be totally surrounded by the show. The plastic dome is set up for back projection by two standard 35 millimeter projectors and a pair of 16 millimeter movie projectors.

The psychic assault will be further augmented by the presence of a local rock group called the Textures, backed by six conga drummers and 15 performer-dancers.

Tryouts for dancers will be held at Bayside School, Nevada and Wateree Streets, Monday at 8 p.m.

Hearing Is Set In Arson Case

Craig James Gomez, 19, a former volunteer fireman, has been bound over to Marin Superior Court yesterday on charges of arson and entry to commit arson in connection with the fire Jan. 5 at Sausalito's Central School.

He was ordered Wednesday to appear in court on March 18.

Gomez, who is a former member of the Sausalito Volunteer Firemen's Association, now lives in San Francisco.

He was arrested after witnesses reported seeing him near the school at the time the fire broke out at 2:44 a.m. in a supply room.

Poverty War Board Trims Staff To Fit Tight Budget

One employee has been trimmed and another may have to go from the staff of the Economic Opportunity Council because of a tight budget, the EOC board of directors learned Wednesday night.

Eloise Brown of Marin City, chairman of the planning and program committee, reported that committee members met Tuesday and decided to trim family counselor Lillia Bernard from the staff.

The driectors asked the personnel committee, headed by Gilbert Medeiros, and the budget and finance committee, chaired by Adelaide P. Wilson, to see if another cut can be made.

Victor H. Carey, EOC executive director, said the cuts were needed to stay within the anticipated $159,000 budget for 1969-70. Last month, Carey and Mrs. Wilson asked the county supervisors to increase the budget by $15,000, which represents about two jobs, but the supervisors rejected the raise.

The EOC directors received two resignations last night. Both Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. and Paul K. McMullen of San Rafael said they cannot serve on the board because of conflict in dates with other duties. Assistant Administrator Thomas F. Campanella will serve in place of Arrigoni as representative from the board of supervisors.

Students Can Win Fair Premiums

Marin students age 6 to 16 may earn premiums plus special cash awards at the Marin Art and Garden Fair July 2 through 6 by planting their fruit, vegetable and cut flower entries and marking them with "Plant Now" flags by April 30.

The flags are available at fair headquarters in Ross, Egger and Sons Nursery, Mill Valley and Kentfield; Santa Venetia Nursery; West End Nursery, San Rafael, and Sunnyside Nursery, San Anselmo. Only entries marked with flags will be eligible for the special awards, fair officials said.

Nurseryman's Topic

"Tuberous Begonias" and "The Nature and Problems of Soils" will be discussed by George Coleman, owner of the Cove Nursery in Tiburon, at a public meeting of the Redwood Shade Garden Club at 8 p.m. next Friday in Whitaker Hall, St. Stephen's Church, Belvedere.

Grape Boycott Not 'Disaster'

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California's table grape boycott hasn't done anybody any good but it still has not affected the industry seriously, the Agriculture and Services Agency reports.

Earle Coke, secretary of the agency which covers everything from the state fire marshal to tax-collecting board — made the report yesterday in his "state of the agency" message.

Coke told a news conference the boycott "was not the disaster it could be" and didn't seriously hurt the table grape industry. Members of the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee (ALF-CIO) organized a nationwide boycott effort when table grape growers refused to negotiate with them.

Ohio's state bird is the cardinal.

More Bodies Expected To Be Unearthed

PROVINCETOWN, Mass. (AP) —Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis said today "I expect more bodies to be found" in an isolated beach of Cape Cod sand dunes where rude graves already have yielded the corpses of our girls.

Antone Costa, 25, an unemployed carpenter and one-time taxidermist, was arrested on a murder charge soon after the hacked bodies of two girls from Providence, R.I., were unearthed two days ago.

An attorney entered a plea of innocent for the accused man yesterday and District Court Judge Gershom D. Hall ordered him committed to the Bridgewater State Hospital for a mental examination.

Dinis said he based his belief that a number of additional slayings had been committed on the fact that several missing person reports on Cape Cod girls were still unsolved.

Real Estate Board Lists Scholarship

Applications for the 12th annual Archie Culpepper Scholarship for a graduating high school senior will be accepted through school counselors until April 9, Daniel F. Deedy, executive manager of the Marin County Real Estate Board which sponsors the award, reported.

The scholarship, named for a past president of the board, is for $500.

Canadians Discover Terrorists' Bomb

MONTREAL (UPI)—The biggest bomb planted here in 10 years of terrorist activity was discovered under an overpass at the city's busiest intersection last night shortly before it was set to explode.

Authorities said the bomb, consisting of 141 sticks of dynamite, would have blown up the overpass and injured hundreds of people. They said it was 10 times more powerful than one that injured 27 persons at the Montreal and Canadian Stock Exchanges Feb. 13.

Fill Nod Sought

The College of Marin will make application to the Larkspur Planning Commission Tuesday to fill 19 acres of land south of the college's existing physical education facility. The meeting is at 8 p.m., at city hall.

AWOL Soldier Held In Killing

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Police said they arrested an AWOL soldier yesterday in connection with a Mission District slaying.

Detectives identified the arrested man as Nathaniel Whitman, 22, who had been stationed at the Presidio of San Francisco.

The body of the slain man, William Herrera, 49, was found in a parking lot Wednesday. Police said Whitman and Herrera had quarreled over a woman.

There are 3.5 million miles of highways, roads and streets in this country whose construction and maintenance are supported mainly through state and local gasoline taxes and motor vehicle fees.

SPRING HOUSECLEANING DELAYED

California's recent series of storms has abated, but the owners of this home south of Tahoe City face a monumental task of snow shoveling to get it out from under the near-record pack which has formed in the Sierra. Lack of tracks in the neighborhood would indicate that its occupants have removed to a warmer clime, at least temporarily. (AP Wirephoto)

Survey To Be Taken On Family Life Film

Old Adobe School District trustees last night approved a questionnaire which will be distributed to parents and may determine use of the "Time of Your Life" KQED-TV film series.

The controversial KQED series had been part of the district family life education program, but was suspended when many parents complained about sections teaching sex education.

Supt. Dean Magowan said the questionnaires were prepared by professional pollsters so that the questions would not tend to bias answers. The survey results will be analyzed and discussed at a special board meeting on March 27. A time and place has not been set.

Magowan said the questionnaires will be distributed to parents of fourth, fifth and sixth graders next week. The school parent-teacher organizations will be responsible for the mailing and receipt of the survey.

The Old Adobe School District trustees also:

NEW SCHOOL — Received a report from Magowan that new subdivisions in the district may add 500 to 1,000 homes by next school year. The board asked architects to speed plans for a fourth school.

FURNITURE — Awarded bid for desks and chairs for the addition to La Tercera School to Holsinger, Inc. The chairs will cost $7.55 each and the desks, $18.

EXTENSION — Granted a 55-day extension for construction on La Tercera School made necessary by inclement weather. The building will be completed in early June.

BONDS — Set March 20 at noon at the Bernard E. Eldredge School for the sale of $60,000 in bonds to help finance a six-classroom addition to La Tercera School.

PARKS — Indicated its willingness to cooperate with the Petaluma Recreation Department and city council in planning city parks adjacent to school sites.

GIFT — Accepted anonymous gift of an 8 mm camera and equipment.

LEAVE — Granted leave to teacher Virginia Kay for the remaining school year due to illness.

ABSENCE — Approved two-month absence of trustee John Thompson who will be in training on the East in connection with his job as customs inspector.

Date Corrected

The Tamalpais High School District discipline Study Committee will next meet at 4 p.m., March 18, and not April 18 as reported incorrectly in Wednesday's Independent-Journal. The meeting will be in the Redwood faculty lounge, Redwood High School.

Fire Panel Discusses Radio Device

The San Rafael Fire Commission discussion last night on plans to purchase a $1,500 device to record radio and telephone calls to the fire department.

The matter was postponed for further cost study and to determine whether purchase could be included in the department's budget request for the next fiscal year, according to John T. Goodale, city administrative assistant.

The San Rafael Fire Commission also:

WELCOME — Greeted Dr. Rafael G. Dufficy, new commissioner appointed by the city council Feb. 17.

RESIGNATION — Accepted with regret the resignation of Capt. Gaylord Bornfield, department training officer, who will become Marinwood fire chief.

TRUCK — Authorized commission chairman Harry M. Williams to act in the commission's behalf in making a recommendation to the council after bids are opened Wednesday for a new snorkel truck.

BUDGET — Set 7:30 p.m. April 10 in the conference room of the city manager's office in city hall for the budget session.

CONFERENCE — Granted permission to Chief Vance Trivett to attend the California Fire Chiefs Association conference May 20-23 in Sacramento.

Search Called Off

The Coast Guard has called off its search for Mrs. Laurie Kinley of Berkeley, who fell overboard while sailing on San Francisco Bay with Jonathan Schinn, also of Berkeley, Wednesday afternoon.

Marijuana Charge By Grand Jury

Siegmund Stephen Ross, of 110 Florence Avenue, was ordered to appear Monday in Superior Court for arraignment. He was freed from the county jail after posting $3,750 bail.

Mill Valley police said they checked Ross's home yesterday about 2 p.m. for a possible burglary after seeing a stranger leave the residence in a car with an out-of-state license.

In the house they saw what appeared to be marijuana.

The officers returned to the house with a search warrant, they said, and found a bag of about five and a half ounces of marijuana as well as small quantities of LSD and hashish.

Ross was arrested when he returned home about 5 p.m. The stranger was identified as a friend who was visiting him.

Treated For Pill Overdose

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Socialite and television personality Pat Montandon was treated at an emergency hospital last night for an overdose of sleeping pills.

She said she took the pills at her Russian Hill apartment in order to overcome a siege of coughing. Instead, she became sick, telephoned a friend and was in a dazed condition by the time police battered in her bedroom door and summoned an ambulance.

'Monster' A Whale

TAMPICO, Mexico (AP) — The Marine Biology Station here said yesterday a huge carcass washed ashore near Vera Cruz was that of a whale weighing possibly 35 tons. Fisherman who found the carcass had touched off reports that it was a "sea monster."

Grand Jury Indicts Six On Drug Counts

The Marin County Grand Jury last night indicted eight persons whose cases were already in Marin Municipal Court, thus binding them over to Superior Court.

All were ordered to appear in Superior Court Monday for arraignment.

Four young people who were arrested Nov. 15 in an expensive San Anselmo house which officers said held a chemistry laboratory capable of producing LSD were charged with various drug offenses.

Andrew Samuel Perri, 19, was charged with offering to sell LSD, and Hamilton Bassett Henry, 21, with possession of LSD and marijuana for sale. David Charles Haye, 21, and Mary T. Rosenbaum, 20, were charged with possessing LSD.

All live at 156 Crescent Road, San Anselmo, except Perri, who gave his address as San Francisco.

Also indicted on drug charges last night were Michael John Friel, 22, and Valerie Jane Monsour, 23, both of 26-A Atwood Street, Sausalito, who are charged with possessing marijuana at their apartment on Feb. 2.

Zola Mae Van Dolah, 20, of San Francisco, was charged with four counts of cashing checks allegedly stolen from the Atlas Paper Co. of San Francisco. She was arrested Feb. 7 after she reportedly cashed one of the checks at the Emporium in Northgate.

Benny Jones Jr., 28, of San Francisco, was indicted for the Nov. 28 burglary of the Smith's Clothing Store in the Corte Madera Shopping Center.

Enterprise To Change Ports

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The homeport of the nuclear-powered carrier USS Enterprise will be changed from Alameda to Norfolk, Va., on July 10, the Navy announced yesterday.

The Enterprise will steam to Norfolk to be overhauled and refuled beginning Aug. 15. It will be the third fueling of the 85,000 ton ship, commissioned in 1961.

The carrier currently is on sea trials off Honolulu following repair of a Jan. 14 explosion on the flight deck that killed 28 members of the ship's 5,400 man crew.

Youngsters Watch Birth Event In Zoo

The population at the Corte Madera Shopping Center petting zoo went up by one yesterday afternoon when Lola the goat gave birth to a kid while a group of visiting school children looked on.

Both the mother and the kid, named Hollie, are doing fine.

Injuries Minor In Auto Wreck

Two men received minor injuries yesterday in a two-car collision at 5:05 p.m. at Los Ranchitos and San Pedro roads, the California Highway Patrol said.

Terry E. Elliott, 19, of 159 Merrydale Road, Los Ranchitos, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a bruised forehead and chest and his passenger, Robert Leach, 22, of 60 Vendola Drive, Santa Venetia, was treated for cuts and bruises.

The highway patrol said a car driven by Alice M. Brandhorst, 46, of 65 Los Ranchitos Road, pulled into the intersection in front of Elliott's car. She was cited for failing to yield the right-of-way.

HIGHWAY 101 at Olive, NOVATO 892-5610

THE WHITE TILES with little black dots have a fascination for Mrs. Fred Acciari of San Rafael and she has taught all ages to play. Here she entertains her grandsons, Brad, 2, left, and Scott Plumley, 5. Her domino enthusiasm led her to organize St. Dominic's Chapter of the Social Service Auxiliary of Marin, teach the members, and finally present a public domino tournament as a benefit. The second tournament is set for March 16. (Independent-Journal photo)

DOMINO BUFF

Woman's Hobby Sparks Tourney

Synonymous with the game of dominoes in Marin is the name Evelyn Acciari. To Mrs. Fred Acciari of San Rafael goes much credit for the perpetration of the game of dominoes in Marin County.

A domino buff herself, it was she who masterminded the first Open Domino Tournament sponsored by the St. Dominic's Chapter of the Social Service Auxiliary in March, 1968.

With Mrs. Arthur Fay, she founded St. Dominic's Chapter and was its first chairman.

Gathering together about 20 members of the auxiliary in which she had been active since 1954 to enjoy a monthly afternoon of dominoes, she formed the St. Dominic's Chapter to aid the purposes of the Auxiliary to the Catholic Social Service Agency of Marin. Its founding stimulated the establishment of other chapters within the Social Service Auxiliary, drawing together members with like interests such as bridge, sewing and crafts to aid the Social Service Agency.

Those of the group who did not know how to play dominoes soon learned under Evelyn's patient tutelage.

WHEN SHE FELT she had exhausted her knowledge of the game, Evelyn arranged for the members and their husbands and friends to take a series of lessons from Dominic Armanino, author of the book, "Dominoes." Wishing to increase her own knowledge of the game, Evelyn took the lessons along with the beginners.

During the third year of the chapter's existence, ''Mrs. Domino," as she is called by her friends in her pet charity, felt the group was prepared to sponsor a tournament opened to the public for the benefit of the Catholic Social Service of Marin.

Evelyn proposed, planned, penned and petitioned and, with her 20 friends, parlayed a thought into an event that caused one of the participants who follows the International Domino Association Tournaments, to remark, "This is the best organized and best run tournament I have ever attended."

Mrs. Acciari was born Evelyn Giusti in Walnut Grove. She married Fred Acciari, a frozen food distributor, in 1932 and they lived in San Francisco until moving to Marin County in 1950. They have one daughter, Mrs. Daniel Plumley of Petaluma, and are the grandparents of Scott and Brad Plumley.

Soon after moving to Marin, Evelyn became interested in welfare work and joined the Social Service Auxiliary as an outlet for her energies and desire to help others.

Dominoes is not Ev's only interest nor the tournament the only event she has organized.

Always working in the interest of the Social Service Agency for the help that it gives to those in need, Evelyn was the chairman for the first, now famous, "Rags to Riches" rummage sale given by the Social Service Auxiliary held in the old skating rink building in San Rafael.

She organized the volunteer clerical aid in the Social Service Agency offices, which eliminated need for much paid office help and kept the agency expenses down.

Quietly going about her volunteer work, Ev has put in so many hours that she left off counting years ago. She has done detailed statistical and factual reports for the Agency as well as for the Auxiliary.

Before moving to Marin, Evelyn Acciari was active in the Mother's Guild of Notre Dame de Victoires, where her daughter attended school and served as its president.

St. Raphael's Mother's Guild, Marin Catholic Women's Club, Girl Scouts and the former Catholic Youth Organization program in Marin also profited from Evelyn's energies and abilities to organize and carry out successful events.

HOW DID SHE become interested in dominoes?

Evelyn found time on her hands after her daughter completed school and was married. She decided to take up golf, partly because of her husband's interest in the game. After deciding that golf was not for her, Evelyn was introduced to the game of dominoes, also through her husband's fascination of the game and became bewitched with the manipulation of the white tiles with the little black dots.

She is a member of the International Domino Association and participates in the various tournaments around the Bay Area, when her grandsons, Scott and Brad, do not demand her time.

Not satisfied with resting on her laurels, Evelyn is reservations chairman and advisor to this year's public Domino Tournament chairman, Mrs. Walter Goldman.

The committee, under Evelyn's guidance, has addressed and mailed 917 invitations to the St. Dominic's Chapter Mixed Tournament to be held March 16 at Dominic's Restaurant in San Rafael.

OPEN TO TEAMS of mixed or matched couples, seating starts at 10:30 a.m., and four games will be played before lunch and play will continue after lunch.

Other members of St. Dominic's Chapter assisting with the tournament are Mmes. James O'Donnell, co-chairman; Edward Ravizza, publicity; William Zavosky and Harold White, awards; William Del Monte, hostesses; Mert Hipsley, scorers; Alfred Quilici, arrangements; Ravizza and Arthur Ballantine, hostess aprons; Edward Martens, tray tables; Arthur Fay, printing.

By MOLLY MARIN

Tiburon Peninsula Club members will meet the club's new tennis professional, Michael Hook, and his wife Sunday evening at a cocktail party and supper.

The Hooks and their three children formerly lived in Pebble Beach, where Michael Hook was tennis pro at Del Monte Lodge. The family has purchased a home in Tiburon.

Arrangements for the 6 p.m. party are being made by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morehead of Tiburon.

Discipline Leads To Degree

By BETTY FROST

The history of Marin from 1800-1900, emphasizing the county's economic development from ranch life into a suburban community, is the subject of Mrs. Melbostad's paper for the master's degree in history. For the past three years she has been studying for the advanced degree at Dominican College.

"But I am not a researcher, and have no ambition to write a history of Marin," she protests. She did her practice teaching at the College of Marin, and calls teaching "my most rewarding experience."

With the necessary units achieved, and the thesis behind her, Mrs. Melbostad must pass a comprehensive history test. Then she will be eligible to teach history at the college level.

"I feel like I was all tooled up and obsolete already," she quipped. "I'm the wrong age, the wrong sex and the wrong color, but I still hope to teach somewhere."

To get her degree was both an accomplishment and an exercise in discipline for Gloria, who had a lot of juggling to do in order to meet the needs of her family, and discharge her obligations as trustee for the Tamalpais High School District Board.

She got up at 5:30 a.m. every day to work on her college projects before the family was up, but didn't burn any midnight oil. "Anybody who knows me knows I'm in bed by 9 o'clock," she said.

Her husband, a manufacturer's representative in the lumber business, she terms "very understanding." The boys, Richard, 13, Billy, 11, and John, 8, were also cooperative. Rocky, a large, friendly Airedale, completes the household.

"I have no time for organizations any more," the small dark-haired woman said. "I do enjoy playing tennis, and play at the Mill Valley Tennis Club when I have the opportunity."

"Most Marin histories are big on people," Gloria explained. "But I was interested in Marin's economic development. Transportation was a real problem for Marin always. In 1869 the Sausalito Land and Ferry Co. established the ferry connection between Sausalito and San Francisco which pulled Marin into the urban area."

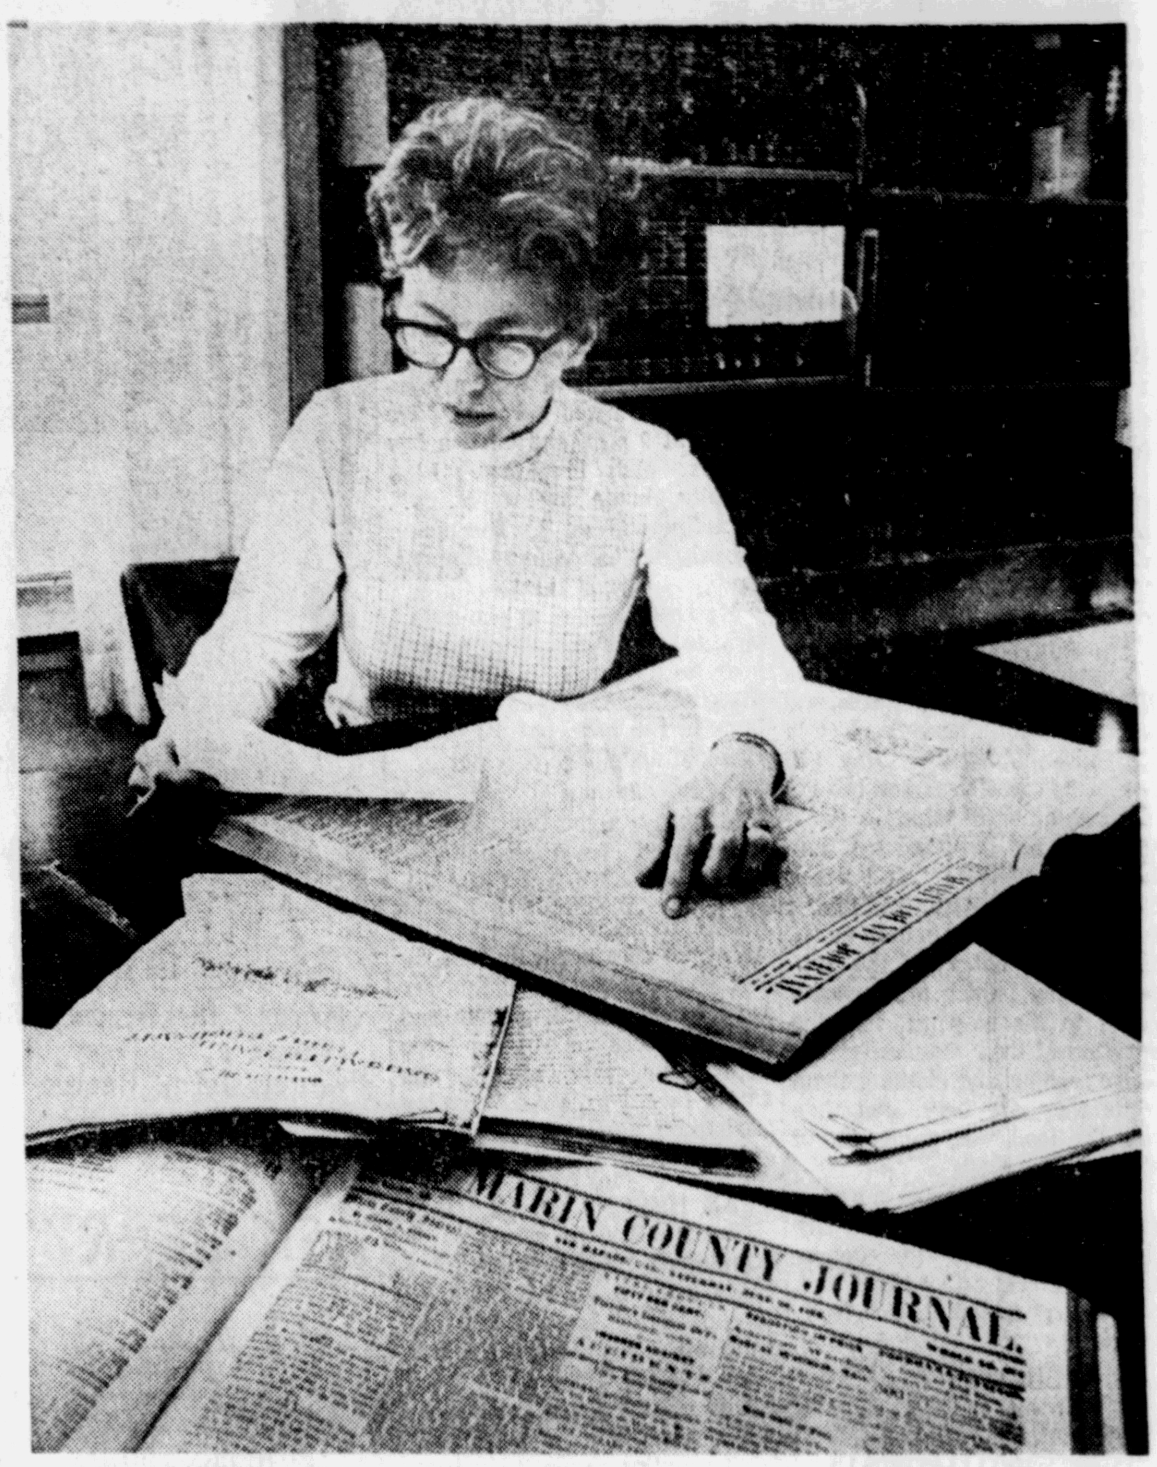
What she calls "a baby industrial age" started the towns. For example, Tomales was a potato and dairy center, Bolinas and Ross Landing transported lumber from their ports. Later Marin became a resort and summer home area, then the residential area of the present.

Persual of original documents has given her a different slant on Marin's early families. Sad was the fate of the Mexican land owners who had to prove their rights to the old grants against the claims of squatters. "Often land lawyers, who took fees in land, were the only ones who gained at the end of years of litigation," Mrs. Melbostad found. Particularly poignant was the plea of the widowed Senora Reed that a Spanish-speaking guardian be appointed for her children. Capt. William Richardson, John Reed, and J. B. R. Cooper, all major Marin land holders under grants from the Mexican government, each had married into aristocratic Spanish California families. During the ranchero phase of Marin's history they dressed in the Mexican style, and their children were raised speaking Spanish and oriented to the Latin culture.

Despite enthusiasm for her thesis subject matter, the Mill Valley woman insisted that she was not ambitious for any more research projects. People sometimes wonder about my compulsion about education. I had a good education myself and am grateful for it," Mrs. Melbostad said. "I want all young people to have a similar positive experience."

A native of Pasadena, Gloria was educated in schools there and was graduated from Barnard College, Columbia University in New York City.

The Melbostad family has lived in Marin for 14 years.



RESEARCHING Marin County's economic history for her master's thesis took Mrs. J. R. Melbostad deep into the yellowing pages of original documents. Here she checks facts in the files of the bound volumes of the Marin County Journal at the San Rafael Public Library. Mother of three boys, Mrs. Melbostad has spent three years studying toward the master's degree at Dominican College to qualify as a college history instructor. Rising at 5:30 each morning she attended to her studies before the family was up. (Independent-Journal photo)

Children Continue Christmas

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—A group of 26 sixth graders believe that the gift of holiday giving should be a 12-month thing. Each week, they contribute to a fund which goes to two orphans for spending money.

Mrs. Eva Townsend, teacher at Jackson Park elementary school in suburban University City, Mo., said someone in the class suggested, "Let's not stop just at Christmas, let's do something throughout the school year."

"I left it all up to the children," said Mrs. Townsend. The students contacted an orphans home and were told that they might contribute spending money to a boy named Tim and a girl named Sherri.

The idea, explained Mrs. Townsend, a Negro, was for the class to "adopt a boy and a girl in an orphan home."

Student Laura Compton said, "People should realize that other people aren't always as lucky as they are . . . they should help them, not ignore them or pretend that it doesn't really matter."

Jean Vogel, 12, put it this way: "Both Tim and Sherri don't have any parents or anyone to look up to . . . I think it was a great idea."

Gene Johnson said he felt that "if we start helping individuals, maybe some other people will do this also." Student Cindy Kalman said, "To me man could not have gotten as far as he is today if we didn't help each other."

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Since When Is Second Woman Given Title Of 'Step-Wife?'

DEAR HELEN:

Before we left the wedding chapel, my second husband informed my six-and eight-year-olds that his brother was not their uncle, and that he was their step father. Never were they to call him anything that means "father." He also told his brother's child that I am her step-aunt, and to his brother he referred to me as his "step-wife."

When his three children are with us, it's bedlam, and I am not to interfere. They never even say "Thank you" after staying here for a week!

Then when he takes the children home he spends a whole afternoon with his ex-wife, discussing things (he says), while the kids stay in another room.

When I complain about his spoiling his children, he says blood is thicker than water and a wife shouldn't be very close to her husband because they are not of the same flesh and blood.

I'm thinking of taking a vacation with my two the next time his three come to "his" house for a vacation. Also, feel that if they are here for a month or so, then we should keep the support money (which my husband sends to his ex-wife) for the duration of their stay. After all, we're feeding and clothing them while they are here, and they eat like food was going out of style.

Also, my husband never spends a red cent on my children. All they get comes from their real father. They are even charged monthly for food, car gas, their share of utilities and rent, which goes into the bank. In other words, their support money goes into his pocket. Does this marriage have a future?—STEP WIFE

DEAR STEP:

This marriage has five strikes against it, plus a husband few women could take. I wouldn't give it much chance! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I am a man who's been married for 18 years. Every Wednesday I bowl with my co-workers (mixed crowd). We finish at 9 p.m. and have a few drinks and breakfast. I'm usually home by 4 a.m., sometimes 5 or 6. The same crowd goes to company dinners, etc.

My wife objects, as she says I only take her out about once a year, to the company Christmas party. Also I have had a few affairs in the past, but all this is changed and I love only her.

Please convince her my Wednesday nights out are innocent and should continue. — MISUNDERSTOOD HUSBAND

DEAR HUSBAND:

I'm not convinced, myself.

If your Wednesday nights are pure wholesome bowl, bar and breakfast sessions why don't you take your wife along? She survived the company Christmas party, so she might even like your friends. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I am making no comment on "Outdated" who wonders if a virgin bride is an anachronism, but her letter brought to mind what my sister said at a bridal shower. The girls were wondering too, and she answered, "Well, I'm glad my husband didn't practice on me!" — MRS. H.D.

DEAR HELEN:

Hope I'm not too late with this message:

If your readers want to know where to send their old Christmas cards, I can recommend: R. D. Devasigomony, Evang. Tabernacle; No. 49, Stanley Nagar; Madras, 21, South India.

Brother Devasigomony is a poor national Christian evangelist who serves full time as a minister without pay. The people coming to his little hut-like church walk 10 miles to worship. He needs printed material and particularly religious-type cards for use in Sunday School. Mark the package "Used cards, no value," and postage will not be great. — HARRY

'ASK GERRY'

Press Aide Mainly Protector

By HELEN THOMAS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For newswomen covering the White House, the magic phrase used to be: "Ask Liz." Now it's: 'Ask Gerry."

Liz meant Elizabeth Carpenter, the witty and sometimes sharp-tongued press secretary to Lady Bird Johnson. Gerry is Gerry Van Der Heuvel, quiet, soft-spoken press secretary to Pat Nixon.

LIZ AND GERRY have a lot in common. Both are former newswomen who started their careers during World War II as reporters for United Press, now United Press International. Both covered the White House beat before becoming press secretary to the First Lady. Both are past presidents of the Women's National Press Club.

They differ strikingly in appearance and personality.

LIZ IS on the plump side, and has never been accused of timidity. Gerry is a slim, pretty blonde who is naturally reticent.

THE DYNAMIC Mrs. Carpenter, who now is writing a book about her experiences, is a hard act for anybody to follow, and no one knows it better than Gerry Van Der Heuvel.

THE PHONE never stops ringing in her office and the mail keeps pouring in. Every newswoman in town wants to interview Mrs. Nixon and her daughter Tricia.

So far, Gerry has primarily played a protective role. She has had little information to give out and she has tried to draw a strict line between the Nixon's public and private lives. The latter, she holds, is none of the press's business.

DESPITE THE STRAIN of finding herself on the opposite side of the fence from her ex-colleagues, she says of her new job:

"I love it."

She has a staff of three secretaries —three fewer than her predecessor —and plans to hire more help. She says she is "working a full 11 days a week."

"JUST BEING in the White House is a great thrill," she said. "It is a nice feeling to be a part of this house . . . looking out through the window at the south lawn . . . the historic atmosphere."

Mrs. Van Der Heuvel said that every First Lady has to draw a line between her public role and her natural right as a private person.

"There will probably be gray areas where her private and public life overlap," she added. "In that case the public role is bound to win out.

"BUT THERE will be times," she continued, "when you are going to have to rely on my judgment and Mrs. Nixon's personal feelings about spotlighting her actions."

She said she believes that the public "wishes to observe good manners in manifesting its interest in the First Lady."

Fashion Favoring Blondes This Year

By JANE ROGERS
London Express

London — Some girls (particularly brunettes) may say bitterly that its always a good year for blondes, but there's no doubt that '69 in particular is going to be a vintage year for the girl who has fair hair, whether it comes straight from a bottle or simply grew that way. All the colors are slanted her way, the new look in make-up is hers and hairstyles too.

TAKE CLOTHES for instance. The new shades are pale apple green, (the color of mint) soft baby pinks, fluffy blues. And who looks best of all in them? You've guessed it, the girl whose coloring is delicate and whose hair is one of those thousands of shades that come under the generic term blonde.

The cool uncluttered look that goes this season is a coat dress, tailored, buttoned and belted and made in a plain fabric like wool gabardine of terylene in the new diagonal weave. To go with it: matching shoes in pastel colors, pale stockings (they're almost white but not quite, have patterns knitted into them) and short white gloves for a prissy, straight-out-of-the nursery look. If your legs can stand the extra attention, then white knee-socks are in as an alternative to stockings, are paired with strapped shoes rather than lace-up shoes for a slightly more feminine look.

THIS IS NOT going to be the summer of the bronzed brown girl, but of the pale but not wilting lily. The way things are going at the moment, make-up will tend to be rather China doll in effect, with a pink and white face rather than an olive one. Olive-skinned girls who couldn't look pale and interesting if they tried will find that a clear pink powder rouge applied not just on the cheekbone but on the chin, the tip of the nose and the hairline as well (Don't overdo it though) will give their faces a much more delicate pinkish appearance, especially if they tone down their eye make-up.

Ever thought of going blonde? Its not such a frightening process as it seems, even if your hair is quite dark, for the hair manufacturers have speeded up and perfected bleaches to the point where anyone can use them safely.

WORRIED ABOUT just how blonde you can go? Then pick a rinse that will lighten your hair by gradual stages, each time you do it, so you can decide exactly when to stop.

Worried about the business of "touching up the roots" of your hair? then choose a shade that is only a little lighter than your own hair and you can use a shampoo-in lightener — when your hair needs re-doing, it is simply a case of using another of the shampoos. Incidentally if you are going from really dark to really blonde, it will pay you, in the long run, to buy a hair-piece to match. When the dark roots are showing and you haven't the time or the money to dash straight to the hairdresser you can clap on your hairpiece and still look fine.

STRAIGHT SHINING blonde hair always looks good, but newer now is the wavy look. Hairdresser Robert Fielding says: "Hair should be treated as part of an entire fashion look, and I feel that waves are more complementary to the fashion clothes around." He keeps the hair fairly short, adds a baby-face make-up to put over an innocent look.

New crazy way to go blonde, temporarily for the girl who doesn't want to wear a wig, won't bleach her hair — buy several skinny blonde plaits (they're on sale in most hair boutiques) and loop them like "earphones" on either side of your head. With your own hair smoothed back, whatever its color, they make a good coiffure for a party. If you are nervous you can spray your own hair to match, just for the evening.

Gardening Hints To Be Given By Prominent Horticulturist

Lloyd has the oldest radio show on gardening in America, now in its 35th year. Heard on KGO, he has also been a statewide teacher in horticulture.

GORDON LLOYD

Author of two books on gardening, he will describe and show the various types of shade plants that can be grown in this area and types of soil preparation watering and feeding. He will illustrate his program by sketches in his practical and humorous approach to the subject, according to Mrs. Arthur Lindauer, publicity chairman for the Garden Club. A question and answer period will follow his talk.

Lloyd has his headquarter in Sierra Madre but he travels 10 days a month in this area and has eleven classes in the Bay Area with an attendance of nearly 500 members each month.

"What do you need to know about Jesus to be ready for Easter?" will be the main question explored.

The business meeting conducted by president, Mrs. John Beck, will convene at 11 a.m. Luncheon will follow at noon, and the program will begin at 1 p.m.

Hostesses for the day will be Mmes. Earl Linman, Herbert Heberling, Paul Jenison and O. E. Lovett.

DR. YVETTE FALLANDY

"Can American Colleges Learn From the May-June Student Revolts in Paris Last Year?" is the topic Dr. Fallandy has chosen.

"A look at other peoples troubles sometimes helps us with our own," Dr. Fallandy says. With a view of what can be learned by Americans by the French government's experience, she will outline the causes, events and results of the student riots which nearly toppled Charles De Gaulle, said Mrs. Stewart Dickson, program chairman. The public is invited to the meeting.

Dr. Fallandy received her Ph.D in romance languages and literature at the University of California in Los Angeles and has made many trips to France — her most recent was just following the student riots.

Hair Styles Are More Changeable

By DIANA POULOS

HAMMOND, Ind. (AP) — Today a woman can change her hairstyle almost as quickly as she can change her dress. She can switch from long, flowing locks to a headful of curls in a matter of minutes, using a wardrobe of wigs and hairpieces.

No longer are wig wardrobes limited to the fair ladies of the jet set. The majority of women today can afford some type of hairpiece from a wig, a demi wig, a fall, a postiche or a wiglet.

T. M. Cook, one of the owners of a Hammond beauty school, believes a good, human hair wig need not cost hundreds of dollars.

"There is a machine-made, human hair wig which sells for under $50, including styling, and I would put it up against a wig which costs $500 or $600," he said.

When purchasing a wig or hairpiece, Cook offered the following suggestions:

Examine the wig carefully, feeling the texture of the hair. A wig should feel nearly as soft and smooth as your own hair. "Most good wigs are made with European hair and should be marked as such," he said.

Examine the wig to see if it is machine or hand made. "I believe you get better results with a machine made wig," he said. "The accuracy is better with this type."

Examine the mesh cap to which the hair of the wig is sewn. The cap should be fitted by pinching and sewing the mesh together. "Some wigs are fit by pulling an elastic band together and tying it," Cook said. "This type of wig can leave gaps in the fit."

Basic accessories for a wig include a wig block (often made of styrofoam), styling pins and comb, wig base, and hair spray. "Wig spray can be used but hair spray works as well," Cook said. "Also, many people buy a wig case to use when carrying their wig to and from the beauty shop or with them on trips."

When the wig is not in use it should be kept on the wig block to keep its shape. "With normal use a wig should be cleaned at least twice a month," he said.

Cook does not advocate cleaning your wig yourself. "A wig is normally cleaned with a special dry cleaning solution which contains carbon tetrachloride," he said. "If a wig is washed, it will take a long time to dry. It is much quicker to use the cleaning solution on it."

MR. AND MRS. KENNETH LEE BECKER (Lorraine Hilliard) were wed March 1 at the San Rafael First Presbyterian Church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hilliard and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Becker, all of San Rafael.

Barber Bowls

From as early as the 15th Century, the barber used shaving bowls of china, silver, earthenware or brass, usually very ornate and decorated with intricate designs. Bowls were designed with a half-moon indentation at the edge to fit a customer's neck.

Drake Students' Films Win Network Airing

By DEBBIE HENDRICKS

Three films produced by students of Drake High School will be shown as part of a one-hour NBC special, "The Young Communicators," on March 16 at 4 p.m. on channel 4.

The films, produced under the supervision of Drake teachers Robert Johnson, Peter Monahan, and Richard DeConti, will be "Good Day Sunshine," by junior Mark Adler; "Faces," by seniors Jim Ahola and Grant Darrow; and a five-minute segment of "The Idaho Tests."

"Good Day Sunshine" illustrates and interprets the Beatles' song of the same title with animated drawings and pictures synchronized with the music.

"Faces" deals with war and violence, comparing man and ants, showing the cruelty in both.

The story of the many who conform and the odd-ball who bumbles through is the basic concept of "The Idaho Tests," which spoofs the standardized testing procedures.

Impossible Years Set By Players

"The Impossible Years," a comedy by Bob Fisher and Arthur Marx, will be presented by the Ross Valley Players beginning April 25. The production will run for four weekends, through May 17, with curtain time 8:30 p.m.

Blocks of tickets for groups are available by contacting the Ross Valley Players.

Miner Rescue Going Slowly

LARK, Utah (AP) — Rescue workers said today they were at least 24 hours away from reaching William Jones, the miner trapped underground since Saturday.

The rescuers were drilling a two-inch "guide" hole through to the enclosure where Jones is entrapped.

The two-inch hole, drilled at a 45-degree angle, was expected to take two to four hours to complete, after which it would take an estimated 20 hours for a 20-inch diamond bit to carve its way along the same route.

Simultaneously, other rescue workers, using hand tools, were circumventing the rockfall trapping Jones by digging a route officials said would take three days.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies currently being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from the California and National Parent-Teacher Association magazines and the Film Report of the Film Estimate Board unless otherwise noted. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael Library.

FAMILY

"Fantastic Voyage" — Extraordinary science fiction adventure stands in a class by itself. Miniaturized men are injected into a man's blood stream in order for them to perform brain surgery. A wealth of imagination and detail. Fascinating entertainment.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Bullit"—Crackling cops and killer thriller. Filmed in San Francisco with terrifying auto chase. Violence goes all out in blood and gore for shock effect.

"Buona Sera, Mrs. Campbell" — For their 20th reunion, three fliers and their families return to an Italian village. Each flier has been paying generous child support to an Italian woman for her illegitimate daughter. Risque comedy.

"Charly" — Poignant dramatization of a fictional case history of first human subject of a new type of brain surgery on a mentally retarded young man. Thought provoking, sensitive performances from the cast.

"Heart is a Lonely Hunter" — A rather sad story about a deaf-mute who in his loneliness touches the lives of many. Compassionate tale is tenderly told and played with rare perception.

"Lady in Cement" — Private eye Tony Rome again copes with murder. Crime is treated as comedy, language is gutter foul, action is brutal with lots of violence.

"St. Valentine Day Massacre" — This is a re-creation of gangland on Chicago's north side in 1920's. Atmosphere is permeated by the vulgarity, violence and cruelty that characterized that era.

"Yojimbo" — Melodrama skillfully acted in stylized Japanese fashion. Story of hatred and brutality offers occasional satire and comedy and a touch of sympathy lightens the aura of greed and cowardice.

BORDERLINE

(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Petulia — Trite story of illicit love told in very modern style. Sophisticated comedy with confused ethics.

ADULTS ONLY

"Born Losers" — Hoodlum motorcycle gang takes over a town for a revolting orgy of rape. Sadism and violence shown in detail.

"Born Wild" — Plot of inane melodrama deals with anti-Mexican prejudice in a California High School is a lame attempt to conceal true purpose of movie — exploitation of sex and sadism in teen-age set. (Parents Magazine.)

"Candy — A 17-year-old girl wanders through a series of sexual adventures with the strangest assortment of characters ever presented on the screen. Massively dull, ugly pornography.

"Faces" — Two middle-aged people find their marriage empty and seek satisfaction elsewhere. Dialogue is pretentious and there is much profanity and sex.

"Joanna" — An amoral girl goes from one affair to another with any man that comes along until she falls in love with a black man. Emphasis on nudity and frank love scenes. Impressive acting.

Campus Unrest Ranges From Studies To Beards

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Campus controversies over subjects ranging from programs for black studies to beards on football players continued today at colleges and universities around the nation but the protests were nonviolent.

This was the campus picture:

NEWARK, N.J.—The faculty of Rutgers University voted 95 to 40 to repudiate an agreement on admissions policy eached between protesting Negro students and the school adminisration.

The agreement, which ended a three-day occupation of the main classroom building last week, called for the school to admit all Negro applicants from Newark high schools who were in the top 50 per cent of their class.

The faculty supported the current admissions policy, criticized by the protesters as "racist," which states that Rutgers will "consider seriously" applications from disadvatanged New Jersey students in the upper half of their class.

WALTHAM, Mass.—A new sit-in began at the Brandeis University administration building to back the demands of Negro students seeking an Afro studies center. The university announced it would charge 76 students who held a similar sit-in Thursday with trespass.

CHAPEL HILL, N.C.—A group of 245 faculty members petitioned Gov. Bob Scott to remove state troopers sent to the University of North Carolina campus to maintain order during a strike by food service employes. A clash between students sympathetic to the strike and others seeking to eat supper closed one dining hall Wednesday.

CORVALLIS, Ore.—The Oregon State University faculty senate declared that no student should be disciplined because of their mode of dress, beliefs or hair style. The campus turmoil arose 10 days ago when a Negro football player was dropped from the squad for refusing to shave his beard. The school's 47 Negro students have threatened to quit en mass.

MADISON, Wis. — Three University of Wisconsin students arrested during a window-smashing protest last week were suspended by the board of regents. The protest followed a rally to support black student demands for a black studies department.

SEATTLE—A parade organized by the Students for a Democratic Society to protest the University of Washington's Reserve Officer Training Corps program drew 500 to 1,000 marchers. Across the campus about 2,000 to 2,500 turned out for a rally by the Associated Students of the University of Washington and heard a talk on "Dissent."

MINNEAPOLIS—More than 600 University of Minnesota students marched on the office of Hennepin County Atty. George Scott demanding that the dismissal of charges brought against three black students in connection with th January takeover of a campus building.

BOULDER, Colo.—Two rallies at the University of Colorado focused on demands for amnesty for eight persons charged with violating the state's new law on campus violence during an appearance by S. I. Hayakawa, acting president of San Francisco State College.

JACKSON, Tenn.—Lane College, closed Sunday following a student boycott and several fires on campus, will be reopened Wednesday. Students at the predominantly Negro school were demanding addition of Afro-American courses and an end to compulsory chapel attendance.

BRONXVILLE, N.Y.—A spokesman for Sarah Lawrence College said the administration was still waiting presentation of demands from 70 students who have seized the administration building. Earlier the protesters demanded a rollback in a $350 tuition increase, but they were turned down.

PLAINFIELD, N.J.—The Plainfield Board of Education said it would reopen public schools Monday with some changes designed to end racial confrontations at the schools. The schools were closed this week after racial free-for-all in the high school last Friday.

Monterey School Chief Cleared

SALINAS (UPI) — Edwin C. Coffin III, Monterey County superintendent of schools, was found innocent last night of six counts of willful misconduct in office.

A superior court jury deliberated five hours before ruling the accusations brought by the county grand jury were untrue. The main charge accused Coffin of double billing for airline tickets totaling $253.

The grand jury made the charges last November in a type of civil proceedings that hadn't been used in Monterey County for more than 30 years.

If a guilty verdict had been returned, Coffin, 46, superintendent for six years, would have been removed from office.

Muscovites Protest To Border Clash

MOSCOW, (AP) — Thousands of banner-waving Soviet workers and students marched on the Red Chinese Embassy today and hurled rocks and ink bottles in a protest stemming from a border clash with China in the Far East. The demonstrators smashed windows.

At about the same time the Soviet government announced it had protested massive demonstrations around the Soviet Embassy in Peking.

A report of the protest by the official news agency Tass said two diplomats and Tass correspondents "were insulted and subjected to acts of violence" there.

The Soviet protest, delivered to the Chinese Embassy in Moscow, demanded protection for Soviet diplomats and warned that "further reckless actions on the part of the Chinese authorities may lead to complications, the responsibility for which will rest wholly with the Chinese side," Tass said.

The Moscow demonstration came after three days of anti-Soviet mass marches in Peking. The Soviet demonstrators, brought to the area in hundreds of buses, paraded past the embassy chanting, "Shame to the clique of Mao Tse-tung," and other slogans.

After about two hours, the demonstrators had turned the main residence hall of the embassy compounud into a multicolored wreck. Almost every window in the building was broken. Dozens of ink bottles had been smashed against it, leaving spots of blue, brown, black and red ink.

The main embassy building, sitting further back from the street, escaped damage. The large embassy compound was built in the days of happier relations between the Soviet Union and China and is much larger than needed by the small diplomatic staff now maintained here.

A line of some 200 militiamen in front of the embassy kept the crowd from surging onto the embassy grounds. A policeman with a bull horn kept repeating, "Comrades, please don't throw anything at the windows."

But the demonstrators, who had been driven to the scene in buses, had come armed with milk bottles, stones, and ink bottles.

Golda Meir Agrees To Take Top Spot

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel's ruling Labor Party endorsed Golda Meir for prime minister today, virtually assuring her the job. The former foreign minister said she would accept, even though the prospect "terrified" her.

In a statement to the party's central committee, Mrs. Meir made it apparent she will retain the cabinet of Prime Minister Levi Eshkol who died Feb. 26 after a heart attack.

This indicated that Moshe Dayan, a political rival of Mrs. Meir will stay on as defense minister.

The central committee endorsed Mrs. Meir by a vote of 287-0 with 45 abstentions, mainly from supporters of Dayan, who had reportedly hoped to win the prime minister's post.

Mrs. Meir favors Deputy Prime Minister Yigal Allon over Dayan. But political observers say she will need the popular Dayan to continue as defense minister to keep up public morale.

The one-eyed defense minister said earlier this week he would be willing to serve under Mrs. Meir if she was chosen by the party committee.

Now 70, the former Milwaukee schoolteacher will be Israel's fourth prime minister and probably its last governent chief from the generation of immigrants who founded the Jewish nation. After her, the leadership is expected to pass on the native-born Sabras, like Allon and Dayan.

Mrs. Meir smoked incessantly as she sat in the third row, wearing a navy blue dress. Dayan sat unnoticed well back in the hall and left when the meeting was half over. A spokesman for him, Shimon Peres, told the delegates that the Dayan faction would accept Mrs. Meir and added "we are saving our decision" on whether the defense minister would bid for the top post in November.

Although Labor Party leaders had asked her last week if she would accept the post, Mrs. Meir withheld her decision until the central committee voting. Privately she expressed fear that the strain of leadership might prove too much for her health.

Pinhas Sapir, secretary-general of the party, told the party caucus today that "Golda is suited for a public mission. She has the ability to lead and the authority in the country and the labor movement. And she is accepted by almost everybody."

Amid the political activity, the war between the government and Arab terrorists continued. Police blew up several small houses owned by two Arabs in Old Jerusalem after caches of arms were found in the buildings.

Coin Collection Reported Stolen

Farrington L. Jones reported to San Anselmo police yesterday that someone entered his home at 25 Park Way, apparently through an unlocked door, and stole his coin collection from the bedroom.

No value was placed on the collection, police reported.

Nixon's Debt Ceiling Plan Gets Setback

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has been dealt the first legislative setback of his six-week-old administration—refusal by the House Ways and Means Committee to refigure the national debt ceiling as he requested.

Instead of a redefined limit giving the Treasury $17 billion in new borrowing power, the committee approved yesterday a temporary $12 billion increase.

It will get the Treasury through some tight squeezes anticipated for next month and late summer. But in political terms it means the new administration will have to come back to the Democratic-controlled Congress early in 1970 to ask for another increase and face quizzing on its economy record.

The arrangement Nixon sought was expected to postpone debt limit problems at least two years and possibly indefinitely. In the past, Republicans have teamed with conservative Democrats to keep Democratic administrations returning annually to Congress when they wanted to raise the ceiling.

The present limit is $365 billion. The committee approved a $12 billion increase through June 30, 1970.

For readers the Space Agency (NASA) has provided the most likely times for the first landing attempt. These "windows" are the days when the Apollo spacecraft can reach pre-selected sites on the moon. The best "window" days include: April 18-24; May 17-23; June 16-22; July 15-22 and August 14-21. While most space experts talk of a June, 1969, landing, some predict it could come as early as April. The more cautious believe it will not come until August. Keep the "windows" in mind when you send in your best guess.

Federal Aid Help Key To Crime Rate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Crime and delinquency cannot be significantly reduced until there is "massive federal intervention" in aid to state and local governments for correction programs, the chief of Maryland's prison system said today.

Joseph G. Cannon, commissioner of the state's Department of Correctional Services, said in testimony prepared for the Senate juvenile delinquency subcommittee that his own state's system has "inadequate programs, inadequate space, inadequate supervision and inadequate education and vocational training."

He said prison supervision today is perhaps less effective than it was two years ago because of "salary scales that have not kept abreast of salaries in law enforcement and other areas."

The subcommittee, which has heard vivid testimony of brutality and perversion in the nation's prisons, ended its week-long public hearing today with Cannon the final witness.

The head of New York State's Division for Youth, Milton Luger, told the subcommittee Thursday it would be better if most juvenile delinquents never were caught and put into correctional institutions.

"Too many of them get worse in our care," he said.

"With the exception of a relatively few youths," Luger said, "it is probably better for all concerned if young delinquents were not detected, apprehended or institutionalized.

Injuries Are Minor In One-Car Crash

Jerome F. Fuetsch, 22, of 17 Corte Ramon, Greenbrae, was treated at Marin General Hospital yesterday for a bruised nose and eyebrow after a collision on Shoreline Highway in Manzanita, the California Highway Patrol reported today.

The highway patrol said a car driven by Durward B. Baker, 42, of 668 Hawthorne Drive, Tiburon, made a left turn onto a Highway 101 on-ramp in front of Fuetsch's car at 7:25 p.m.

Union Oil Expresses Optimism On Halting Santa Barbara Flow

COMBINED AP & UPI

SANTA BARBARA — Officials at the Union Oil Co. reported yesterday they were "reasonably optimistic" that the flow of oil from their offshore rig in the Santa Barbara Channel will be stopped soon.

They said the black crude had been seeping into the channel at the rate of 1,000 gallons per day, while the company poured special cement into the well so it will seep into some of the fissures on the ocean floor and stem the seepage.

The oil difficulties began when a seperate well on the same offshore platform blew out Jan. 28, causing a huge oil slick which coated a long stretch of Southern California coastline with the gooey crude.

Brisk offshore winds, however, yesterday blew the latest slick further out to sea to spare more damage to the beach areas.

Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel has told the oil company to resume limited drilling operations in the hopes this would relieve some of the pressure on the sands of the ocean's floor, to which the seepage is attributed.

In San Diego yesterday, a exper ton environmental health said the oil spills had so far caused little immediate damage to marine animal and plant life.

But, Dr. Wheeler J. North, an associate professor at California Institute of Technology in Pasadena, said there was a possibility that the oil seepage could cause long-range damage to such life.

North, in his remarks before the fourth annual Offshore Exploration Conference, said the crude oil involved in the Santa Barbara Channel leaks did not have the toxic effects of refined oil. It was refined oil which did much ecological damage to Baja California in 1957 when the tanker Tampico broke apart there.

In Sacramento, the chairman of the state Water Resources Control Boards says he wants to make certain there is no repetition of the oil well leak — either on state or federal lands.

Chairman Kerry W. Mulligan said, however, his board will take no action until officials in the state resources agency complete a study of offshore oil well drilling and producing safeguards.

"We'll sit tight a couple weeks anyway," Mulligan said following a board meeting yesterday.

The board had been asked by the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board implementation of procedures to assure that current and future leases and permits for such drilling operations will not cause water pollution."

College To Put Harlan Offices In Portables

Marin Junior College District trustees agreed last night that temporary office buildings for faculty and administration should be placed on the main parking lot along College Avenue.

The buildings are needed because Harlan Hall, which houses many offices, is scheduled to be demolished this summer.

Planning Director Dale A. Fleming noted that placing portables on the parking lot would result in the loss of 84 parking spaces, but would concentrate the offices in a central location.

The portables later could be moved to the north campus at Novato for classroom use, Fleming said.

On the basis of two estimates, one at $236,600 and the other at $248,200, Fleming reported that average cost of providing the needed space through portables would be $242,200. The average cost for trailers would be $193,200, he noted.

The Marin Junior College District Also:

SABBATICAL LEAVES — Granted sabbatical leaves to Dikran Martin, psychology instructor; Gerald Burroni, history; Robert Essig, data processing; James Stanley, electronics, and Leonard Weiss, English for the 1969-70 college year, and to Weaver Meadows, business, and Alfonzo Molina, biology, for the spring semester of 1970. The vote was 4-2 with Board President Theodore C. Wellman and Robert E. Oliver dissenting on the grounds that policy limited leaves to six persons, rahter than seven. The faculty felt that the two half-year leaves should be counted as one. The board called for a study to clarify the policy on sabbatical leaves.

RESIGNATIONS — Accepted the resignation of Roy Clark, grounds supervisor, effective May 1, and the resignation of Mrs. Pamela I. Meek, library clerk, effective Feb. 28.

HIRING — Approved the hiring of Mrs. Donna Bertch, library clerk, at $436 a month, effective March 3.

BLEACHERS — Authorized the sale of the existing athletic field bleachers, 4,800 seats, after a report that it would cost $45,000 to relocate them at the new athletic field. Trustee Harry J. Moore, vice principal of San Marin High School in the Novato Unified School District, abstained, noting the Novato district might be interested in obtaining the bleachers.

ENROLLMENT — Received a report from Irwin P. Diamond, dean of students, that final enrollment for the spring semester was 5,394 up 937 from the spring of 1968 and 12 higher than the fall semester, which traditionally has the highest enrollment. The spring enrollment boom has been attributed to student unrest and overcrowding at other colleges.

YOUTH CORPS — Received a report from Acting President Louis H. Harkenhoff that the district is participating in the Marin County Neighborhool Youth Corps program under the Economic Opportunity Act offering part-time jobs to college-age younths who otherwise would be unable to stay in school. There is one youth working in the maintenance department under the program, Herkenhoff said.

EQUIPMENT SALE — Authorized the public sale of two dump trucks, a stake truck, two welders and a 37-passenger bus ruled no longer suitable for use because of high cost of maintenance.

HIGH SCHOOLERS — Received a report that 27 seniors from Marin high schools attended college credit courses during the fall semester.

PERSONNEL CENTER — Authorized the purchase of equipment for the Student Personnel Center including bookcases, shelves and cabinets, at a cost of $3,776.

PARKING CHANGE — Approved changing the faculty parking lot at Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and Laruel Avenue to a lot for general parking.

ADULT EDUCATION — Received a report from Eugene Farrar, assistant dean for community education, that enrollment in the adult education program was 2,354 during the winter quarter, down 401 from the previous year.

CLOSED SESSION — Met in closed session to discuss rehiring probationary teachers for the 1969-70 school year, and reconvened in open sessin to adjourn, but took no action.

MEETING CHANGE — Rescheduled its April 17 meeting to April 16 so it could meet immediately after the district's 77-cent tax override election on April 15.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned until next Thursday at 8 p.m. at Room 72 in the Fine Arts Building for a short business session and a workshop on a preliminary 1969-70 budget.

Elizabeth M. Deedy was absent.

Bon Air Thieves Loot 18 Autos

Eighteen automobiles in the Bon Air apartment area of Larkspur were broken into Wednesday night, police said today.

Items stolen included a sewing machine, a man's suit, a camera, and small change, police reported.

The first resident to report was Mrs. Rita Heffron of 45 Via Belardo, who said her car window was broken, the glove compartment rummaged and candy and cigarettes taken.

Burglaries were from cars in apartments on Corte Lenosa, Via Casitas and Via Belardo, according to police. About half of the cars were locked and these had windows broken.

Admits To Hoaxes

Reports that she was kidnaped at gun point Feb. 9 and 11 have been admitted to have been hoaxes by Patricia G. Halloran, 22, or 10 Gustafson Court, Novato, Police Chief Robert J. DiGrazia has reported. The chief said it has not been decided whether to file charges of making false reports.

Miskimen Hits Charter Snag, Seeks Annex

San Rafael City Councilman John A. Miskimen wants to buy a waterfront home at 185 Oak Drive in Bayside Acres, outside the city limits, but the city charter requires that councilmen live within the city.

He took his problem to the Local Agency Formation Commission last night, asking that the lot be annexed to the city of San Rafael.

The commissioners, headed by Chairman Hugh G. Marchant, balked because such an annexation would bring one sliver of land into the city, with the only connection over water.

Commissioners continued the matter until April 10 and asked Miskimen to canvass other owners on Oak Drive to try to induce them to annex to the city.

The commissioners approved the following annexations:

San Francisco hotelman Melvin M. Swig's 22-acre lot on Lucas Valley Road opposite Mount Shasta Drive to Upper Lucas Valley County Service Area (for fire protection) and to Marin Municipal Water District.

Four lots in Novato to the Novato Sanitary District. They include 16.5 acres on the east side of Sutro Avenue near Dominic Drive, a quarter-acre lot on Center Road near Eucalyptus Avenue, a quarter-acre lot south of Virginia Avenue near Simmons Lane, and a half-acre lot at the corner of Vineyard Road, Trumbull Avenue and Sun Lane.

The commissioners decided to meet hereafter on the second Thursday of each month, instead of the first Thursday. Meetings are held at 8 p.m. in the board of supervisors' chambers at the Civic Center.

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE (AP) — The Air Force, testing components of the Minuteman weapons system, launched a Minuteman Two Intercontinental Ballistic Missile down the Western Test Range at 12:20 a.m. today.

The missile, launched by a team of Air Force and industry personnel, soared to a predetermined target area in the Pacific, the Air Force said.

Junior College Cautioned On President Hiring Haste

By FRANK FARRARA

Faculty members last night urged the Marin Junior College District board to touch all bases before appointing a permanent College of Marin president.

Louis H. Herkenhoff has been acting president since April, 1968, when former president William K. Ramstad resigned after criticisms by faculty and students.

Before the board last night was a recommendation from the Academic Senate on procedure for advertising for applicants and screening them.

Trustee Donald K. Felt suggested the board defer action on the recommended hiring procedure and have a closed session next Thursday to consider "an obvious alternative, selecting our present acting president as president."

It might be that "all or most of the board would have in mind that alternative," Felt said.

The proposal was immediately challenged by Gerald Burroni, history teacher, who said the board shouldn't leap into picking a president and limit its choices.

The issue is of wide interest, and one of the most important of the board's tasks, he noted.

Trustee Harry J. Moore said he would want to hear the response from faculty and students before he would go into a closed session.

"It isn't uncommon to promote from within the ranks," Felt said. I don't see anything illegal, immoral or stupid about this approach, unless a lot of others, we feel important to the community, feel to the contrary."

Harry Gilbert, vice president of the Associated Students, said all facets of the campus community should have an opportunity to express their opinions so there is not a divided campus. "You need a united campus and hasty selection of a president is not the answer."

Felt dropped his suggestion of a closed session and the board deferred action on the hiring procedure recommendation until March 20.

They also agreed that a committee representing students, faculty, administration, non-review the proposed procedure and report back by March 20. Trustees Robert E. Oliver and teaching employees and trustees Charles W. Gray were appointed as the board's representatives to the committee.

Novato Senior Nominated For A $500 Award

Michael K. Magill, a senior at Novato High School has been nominated for the California Scholarship Federation Seymour Award of $500 by Mrs. Clark M. Palmer Jr., faculty adviser.

The award is given to a student in recognition of his exemplyfying the organization's motto "Scholarship for Service."

In addition to his good academic record, Mrs. Palmer said, Magill has been active in athletics and music. He was a member of the swimming team and was drum major for the Novato High School band last fall. He is a semifinalist in the National Merit and California scholarship programs.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Magill of 450 Ridge Road, Novato.

Ehrlich Says Shooting Due To Woman

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The attorney for policeman Michael O'Brien, charged with manslaughter in the shooting death of a Negro truck driver, blamed a chief prosecution witness for causing the slaying.

Attorney Jake Ehrlich told jurors in his final summation yesterday O'Brien would not have been forced to shoot George Baskett in an alley brawl Sept. 29 if Mrs. Elizabeth Hawkins had not gotten a gun.

The shooting climaxed an argument between O'Brien, off duty at the time, and a resident of the mainly Negro area of Brush Place over a minor traffic accident.

Mrs. Hawkins testified earlier she got her pistol because O'Brien had pulled his revolver and she did not know he was a policeman.

Ehrlich repeated his charge that "politics" was to blame for the release from jail of Mrs. Hawkins, her husband and son, all of whom live on Brush Place.

The three were immediately booked for assault after the incident but charges were later dropped and O'Brien charged.

Ehrlich said the district attorney's office and local politics in general were responsible for the Grand Jury indictment of O'Brien. The defense attorney Wednesday implied that Mayor Joseph Alioto was using the trial for political gain.

He said O'Brien, 28, was beaten with a stick by Baskett and was backing off when the shooting occurred.

"I would have shot him there and then," Ehrlich told the panel of seven men and five women.

Girl Breaks Hip; Dashes Into Auto

A 10-year-old Petaluma girl was reported in satisfactory condition today at Hillcrest Hospital with injuries suffered when she was struck by a car at 3:25 p.m. yesterday on Gossage Avenue, north of Magnolia Avenue, Petaluma.

The girl, Victoria J. Forman, 1265 Gossage Avenue, suffered a broken hip and numerous cuts, according to the hospital. The California Highway Patrol said she left a school bus and ran across the street into the path of a car driven by Elaine D. Lewis, 22, of 755 Gossage Avenue.

FEATURED THIS SATURDAY

Special events at Golden Gate Baptist Seminary next week will mark two anniversaries. One will be the 25th anniversary of the founding of the school. And the other, the 10th year of its location on its present scenic campus on Marin's Strawberry Point. For tomorrow's I-J Marin Magazine, editor Don Keown has written the 25-year story of the seminary, and the much-longer story of the Southern Baptist denomination in Northern California.

Once a month the staff at Marin General Hospital are hosts for what must be one of the county's most unusual teas. They call it the "Mothers' Tea." And the guests are the expectant mothers who soon will be having their babies in the hospital. The purpose is to help them in their preparations and to acquaint them with what to expect when the big day arrives. The Marin Magazine reports tomorrow on the unusual event.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

SLIDES THREATEN ROAD, HOUSE

Future Of Bolinas Lagoon Hangs On Election Tuesday

One of Marin's priceless assets — Bolinas Lagoon — will be on the block Tuesday when the 698 voters in Bolinas Harbor District decide whether the district or the entire county will have control over the lagoon's future.

The issue is a simple one — whether to dissolve the district or not — but the ramifications behind it are endless.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors, disenchanted with the district board, ordered the election last year after conservationists and others objected to district policies, particularly two matters:

1. A $22 million lagoon development plan by consultant Norman T. Gilroy for a 1,600-boat marina, hotel, heliport, restaurants and shopping mall;

2. A district request last year to dredge 60,000 cubic yards of mud from Bolinas Channel and a channel past Kent Island.

Adding to the supervisorial displeasure was the district's refusal to let the county audit its books for three years, and the time elapsed sice the district was formed in 1957 to make "substantial improvements" in the lagoon.

The district board holds that the lagoon threatens to silt in within a few years unless there is dredging and maintenance—and enough commercial activity to finance it. Conservationists say there is no proof of that, and say development will ruin the lagoon and destroy or drive away the wildlife.

Since the election was ordered, two groups have been formed — the Committee to Preserve Bolinas Lagoon, supporting the harbor board, and Citizens for a Sensible Bolinas Harbor, favoring dissolution.

The antidistrict citizens last week mailed voters a letter charging the district has spent $317,843 so far without correcting any lagoon problems. Attached was a list of all district checks paid since 1966, including $67,518 paid Gilroy.

Gilroy is coordinator for a series of lagoon scientific studies jointly financed by the district, county, federal and state organizations and conservation groups.

The county mothballed its lagoon master plan when the studies were ordered of the lagoon's wave action, offshore sand flow, bottom contours, ecology, topography and tide flows.

Then the district last year proposed dredging and the county bucked fiercely, objecting the dredging would invalidate the studies made to date by altering the lagoon's natural processes.

The harbor district says the emergency dredging is needed to correct heavy silting from the 1966-7 rainy season which has silted Bolinas Channel to make tidal flushing impossible and navigation possible only at high tide.

Dredging opponents, some of whom suspect it is aimed merely at providing a boat channel, include the Nature Conservancy, the Audubon Society, Marin Conservation League and the U.S. Department of the Interior.

The big marina plan, which conservationists hamstrung by buying Kent Island and giving it to the county as a wildlife refuge, was apparently stillborn anyway. Shortly after it was presented in 1966, the Army Corps of Engineers rejected the lagoon as a harbor of refuge, meaning no army money would be spent improving the lagoon.

In proposing the dredging, Gilroy said last year that failure to dredge might dry up the western lagoon, principal feeding ground for wildfowl on nearby Audubon Canyon Ranch, and change the ecology.

But last week ecologist Joel Gustafson, who conducted a study of the lagoon last year, said the proposed dredging will not reach far enough into the western lagoon to affect it

If the district is dissolved, according to terms set out by the county, its debts as well as its administration will be taken over by the county.

Since the harbor district got administration from the State Lands Commission, it may take special legislation to keep it from reverting to the state if the district is dissolved.

Board supporters say jurisdictional confusion will result from dissolution with the district in limbo pending state action.

On Tuesday the voters decide. Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. at the Stinson Beach Community Center and the Bolinas Community Building.

Marijuana Arrest Held 'Harassment'

The Peace and Freedom Party of Sonoma County has charged the arrest of its leader, Ervin Hamilton Sutley, on marijuana offenses was "political harassment" by Cotati police.

Sutley, 24, of 490 Penngrove Avenue, Petaluma, was arrested Sunday on suspicion of possession of marijuana and possession of marijuana for sale. He was released on his own recognizance to appear for setting of a preliminary hearing at 1:30 p.m. Monday in Central Sonoma Municipal Court, Santa Rosa.

The Peace and Freedom Party, in a press release, labeled the arrest as "politically motivated" and demanded that the charges be dropped. Cotati Police Chief John Curtis denied the allegations and said he was not aware of Sutley's political affiliations until after the arraignment. He said he would not drop charges.

The statement said: "The Peace and Freedom Party judges a law and the use of laws solely on the basis of how they serve the people. We view the laws on marijuana as instruments to make people conform — of political oppression. It is for this reason that we have called for the repeal of all laws on drug abuse."

The statement intimates that the Mafia is responsible for most of the California drug traffic and charged that law officers are afraid to deal with that organization.

Sutley has been very active politically in the county. On numerous occasions, he has pointed out to people, in public, narcotics agents," the party said. "It is clear that his arrest constitutes political harassment and on these grounds we demand that the charges be dropped."

MARIN GRAND JURY

Two Legal Advisers Help Panel In Tasks

(Last of three articles)

The county grand jury, besides having its work split into two parts, gets legal counsel from two sources.

Criminal cases involving felonies are brought before the grand jury by the district attorney. The jury, in closed session, decides whether the cases justify holding the accused persons for trial.

The district attorney may, if he wishes, go another route with criminal cases, taking them to municipal court for preliminary hearings. It is largely up to the district attorney which route he follows.

In its investigation into the departments and agencies of government, the grand jury has the county counsel as legal adviser.

Whether dealing with criminal or civil matters, the grand jury holds its hearings in secret. Further, the law forbids any grand juror from disclosing any testimony presented before it.

There is an exception. The superior court may order the grand jury to hold public hearings when a matter under investigation affects the general public welfare or may involve corruption or dereliction of duty by public officials. Unless ordered by the court, however, the grand jury must not conduct a public investigation.

The district attorney and county counsel attend sessions of the grand jury in their roles as prosecutor and legal counsel. However, the grand jury also investigates their offices. When investigating them it may request legal help from the state attorney general's office.

No other public official participates in the grand jury's deliberations. All, including supervisors, county administrator, and on down the line, may be called before it as witnesses.

The law charges all public officials to cooperate with the grand jury. The extent to which they do so sometimes varies, and occasionally grand juries have harsh words for officials whose cooperation was regarded as less than whole-hearted.

As the end of its one-year term nears, the grand jury must issue reports of its findings in all its fields of investigation. It may issue additional interim reports at any time during the year. Practices on this vary from jury to jury, but the most active and most effective grand juries generally issue special reports during the year on special investigations they have conducted. Sometimes an early report is necessary to get a situation corrected without delay, or to urge passage of some needed legislation while the Legislature is still in session.

Special provisions of the law require the grand jury to investigate all jails and prisons within the county. This puts on the Marin County Grand Jury the duty to investigate the state's largest prison at San Quentin.

The grand jury as a pretrial tribunal in criminal matters was established in England in the 11th Century. In doing research for the grand jury manual which he prepared in 1967, Clifford S. Lund, foreman of that year's Marin County Grand Jury, discovered that it acquired civil investigative duties by the year 1290, being given "authority to inquire into the maintenanace of bridges and highways, the defects of jails, and whether the sheriff had kept in jail anyone who should have been brought before the justices."

Massie Gets Another Stay Of Execution

Convicted killer Robert Lee Massie, 26, has been granted a stay of execution at San Quentin Prison despite his insistence he wants to die.

The stay, ordered yesterday by U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, left Massie, who was to have been executed Wednesday, "mildly annoyed," according to Associate Warden James W. L. Park.

The stay will permit a battery of attorneys, representing Massie over his objections, to challenge his death sentence in the federal courts. The California Supreme Court ruled against a stay last month.

RIGHTS QUESTIONED

The attorneys, led by Paul N. Halvonik of the American Civil Liberites Union in San Francisco, contend that Massie's constitutional rights were infringed by the method used to select his jury, among other things.

They also cited the case of another convicted slayer — Melvin Davis Rees Jr., of Hyattsville, Md. — who told his attorneys to stop legal proceedings on his behalf.

Douglas' ruling gives the attorneys time to file a formal appeal of Massie's death sentence.

TWO OTHER STAYS

Massie now has received two reprieves and two stays since his original execution date was set for Sept. 26, 1967.

Massie was convicted of the 1965 murder of a San Gabriel woman during a robbery attempt in the driveway of her home.

Massie's stay leaves only four inmates of Death Row with fixed execution dates and one of them is facing a sanity trial to determine whether he is sane enough to be executed.

Jury Deadlocks On Holdup Case

Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court yesterday declared a mistrial in the case of Warren Wilson, 20-year-old Oakland man, when the jury split 7-5 on whether Wilson had been positively identified as the armed robber of a Sausalito store.

Wilson's case was returned to the court's calendar Monday for the setting of a new trial.

The jury deliberated almost five hours yesterday before returning to announce the split. When the judge ascertained that the jury did not feel it could come to a unanimous decision after further review of the testimony, he dismissed the jurors.

Wilson was arrested 10 days after a theft from a Sausalito clothing store and a wild shooting fray on Princess Street on July 30 of last year.

Sentenced To Jail

William C. Smith, 19, of San Rafael, who pleaded guilty to burglarizing the Western Boat Shop in San Rafael on Oct. 23, yesterday was sentenced to 60 days in Marin County Jail. Judge Harold J. Haley also placed Smith on two years probation.

Sanitary District Merger Foe Warns Of Future Costs

An opponent of absorption of the Novato Sanitary District by the North Marin County Water District asserted yesterday the combine would not save money in the long run.

Novato City Councilman J. Wayne Womack, who supports a plan for a future city takeover of the sanitary district, told a meeting of the Novato Chamber of Commerce directors, "You might save a dollar today but it would cost you $5 in the future."

Womack has asserted that merger of the water and sanitary districts would lead to expansion of service to West Marin and that present residents of the districts would have to pay for a system in West Marin.

However, Womack agreed with other officials who discussed the proposed merger before chamber directors yesterday that $9,000 would be saved at once in the cost of operating the sanitary district governing board and offices.

Arnold E. Heise, chairman of the water district board, said there would be other savings in the use of men and equipment, but Womack said the same amount of money would be saved in a city-sanitary district merger.

Another speaker, Thomas D. Hardcastle, chairman of the sanitary district board, said the water board acted too hastily in calling for an election to combine the districts. Residents in the districts will vote April 15.

He said that the sanitary district board always felt that it should be a part of the City of Novato.

(The water district can absorb the sanitary district because it entirely encompasses it, but the city cannot absorb the sanitary district because it does not have 80 per cent contiguous boundaries as required by state law.)

"Give the voters a choice for a merger with the water district or the city, or no merger at all," Hardcastle said.

Heise said that economically it would be more feasible to merge the sanitaty district with the water district.

"Essentially we perform the same type of work in engineering and maintenance of mains. The water district has its peak work load in the summer and the sanitary district in the winter. We could use the same men at the peak periods for each operation," Heise added.

"There are 398 cities in California and more than 300 of them handle their own sanitary facilities," Womack said.

Womack said that Novato voters would not retain local control of their sanitary facilities under such an arrangement.

The Novato Sanitary District board and the Novato City Council have voted to oppose the merger of the sanitary district with the water district. The water district board initiated the action for the April 15 election.

Panel To Study Services Areas

The City-County Services Committee will try to draw a line between county services and city services, when it meets at 8 p.m. Monday in Room 420 of the Civic Center.

The apportionment of municipal court fines and forfeitures is also on the agenda. Each city now gets a portion of such fines and forfeitures, the amount varying between 11 and 30 per cent.

The committee is composed of Supervisors John F. McInnis and Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., Novato Councilman Douglas M. Merrill and Larkspur Mayor Alfred J. Malvino.

Patrol Plane's Crash Kills Five, Injures One

LEMOORE (UPI) — Five Navy men were killed and one was seriously injured yesterday when their four-eingine patrol plane crashed and burned while landing at Lemoore Naval Air Station.

The P3 Orion, a long-range craft usually used for anti-submarine surveillance, was from Moffett Field, south of San Francisco. It was practicing takeoffs and landings when the crash occurred.

Navy officials said there was no warning or indication of trouble until the big turbo-prop plane slammed into the east runway. The plane's propellers tore chunks out of the runway, and burning wreckage was scattered over a wide area.

Ramparts Claims It Won't Fold

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Ramparts Magazine isn't going to let a little thing like a $5.8 million dollar debt keep it from continuing to publish.

At least that's what its officers told a bankruptcy court yesterday.

It hopes to borrow $115,000 from new investors and anticipates getting $65,000 in advance renewals. Publishing ventures have brought in another $75,000 and so the magazine hopes to have over $250,000 by the end of June to start paying off its debts.

Bankruptcy referee Lynn Gillard agreed the company would not have to post a bond since publisher Frederick C. Mitchell said that would cause the magazine to fold.

Gillard ruled the magazine could continue to publish and that creditors could not take immediate court action to collect.

Professor Found Dead In Ditch

SAUGUS (UPI) — The body of Frank Metfessel, a retired professor at the University of Southern California, was found yesterday entangled in debris in a drainage ditch at the rear of his cabin.

The 67-year-old Metfessel was reported missing last Feb. 27 in the wake of the devastating rain storms which caused killer mudslides and floods throughout Southern California.

Sheriff's deputies said Metfessel, who had been living alone in the cabin for some time, apparently drowned when he fell into the rain-swollen ditch.

His body was discovered by Los Angeles County flood control workmen clearing storm debris from the drain.

Blast Ruptures East Bay Pipeline

MARTINEZ (AP)—An explosion ruptured a Standard Oil of California pipeline yesterday, dumping 4,000 gallons of crude oil into Alhambra Creek.

Contra Costa County sheriff's deputies said the pipe carries oil from the San Joaquin Valley to a refinery in Richmond.

Surgeon's Wife Sues For Divorce

San Rafael neurological surgeon Robert D. Dunbar, 50, was sued Wednesday in Marin Superior Court for divorce by his wife of four years, Miriam Moore Dunbar, of Kentfield.

Mrs. Dunbar, who alleged cruelty, asked for all of the community property. She also asked $1,920 a month support, saying that Dr. Dunbar earns $6,300 a month.

They were married in 1964 in Los Angeles and separated in December 1967. There are no children.

USC's Offer To O.J.: Chance To Be Trojan

BUFFALO'S $600,000 BILL — What proselyting enticement did the University of Southern California offer for the super football services of Orenthal James Simpson?

The Coliseum? Pershing Square? Catalina Island?

"We told J. all we could offer him was the chance to become a Trojan," said super recruiter Marv Goux, assistant to head coach John McKay.

JOHN McKAY

"And that's what I got," smiled America's greatest collegiate football player the other night in San Francisco where he was honored by USC's Bay Area Alumni Association at a banquet arranged by Ed Jones of Greenbrae.

In recalling the spirited recruiting battle for Simpson after he blazed a glorious gridiron trail at Galileo High School and City College af San Francisco, the peppery 37-year-old Goux said he has been wrongfully credited for landing the prize. "I didn't do it," he said, "the University of Southern California did."

But Simpson, the number one draft choice of the Buffalo Bills of the American Football League, allowed as how "Coach Goux did a pretty good job (of recruiting). He phoned me one night to ask if I had made up my mind. When I told him I was packing my clothes and going to (University of) Utah he asked me to sit tight, he wanted to talk to me again. Before I knew it he caught a plane in L.A. and was at my house within a couple of hours telling me all about USC again.

Warning Finally Did It

"On another occasion, when I mentioned that I might be interested in going to Cal (Berkeley), he said: 'Well, remember, if you go to Cal you're going to have to play against USC and I'm the defensive coach. . . .' That did it!"

Simpson doesn't talk much about his headlined contractual negotiations with Buffalo, referring all questions to his manager Chuck Barnes and attorney Dave Lockton. "They're handling everything," he said.

But Coach McKay was quick to bring up the subject, tongue-in-cheekily. "We want $600,000 and the rights to sell Buffalo," he quipped. "But it looks like I'll have to settle for Niagara Falls. After 19 years of marriage, who needs Niagara Falls?"

Continuing, McKay told the alums: "People ask me if I think J. will make it in pro ball. Well, if they're still playing with 11 men, each equipped with two arms and two legs, yes, he'll make it.

"When J. first came to us he was slow and fat (laughter), but we trimmed him down and coached him into a pretty fair football career.

'You know, I used to be pretty well known until I started coaching stars," he grinned at O.J. "Now people say, 'Oh, yes, you're the man who coaches O.J. Simpson. Tonight, for example, a boy asked me for my autograph. When his father asked 'Who's that?' the boy said, 'I don't know, but I think he's the coach.' "

That Game With Stanford

McKay then went on to rehash heavily-favored USC's agonizingly close 27-24 victory over Stanford last Oct. 12, tickling the Trojan grads with his facetiousness. "I was surprised," he dead-panned, "that a girls' school could stay that close to us. Before the game I told the guys, 'There are a lot of people in the stands looking for a good game so let's make it close. But in the fourth quarter I gathered the guys around me and said, 'Look, I said let's make it CLOSE, but THIS is ridiculous! Then you kind folks sent down some trick plays, O.J. scored a couple of touchdowns and we managed to pull it out."

In a more serious vein, McKay described Simpson as a model of "humility, dignity and ability. There may be a better football player to come along some time, somewhere, but there will never be a better person."

Or richer, he might have added.

'Gimmick' Rally Slated Saturday

The North Bay Corvette Association is sponsoring a "gimmick" rally tomorrow, beginning at 6 p.m., starting at Campbell Bishop Chevrolet in Corte Madera.

A "gimmick" rally is one in which drivers must answer a question given them at each rally point. Dash plaques will be given to all participants.

Hot Rods Open New Sonoma Raceway

There will be more than a million doallars worth of machinery at Sears Point International Raceway in Sonoma County this weekend in the track's first official event.

It will be a National Open Drag Race under the sanction of National Hot Rod Association, and Jack Cameron, drag strip manager for the raceway, is expecting between 40 and 50 cars, putting the event in the million dollar category.

Leading the eight eliminator brackets and 50 different classes are Double A Fuel dragsters and Funny Cars (dragsters with fiberglass bodies resembling regular street model cars). Engines alone for cars in this class cost up to $10,000 and produce horsepower to the 1,500 and 1,600 range.

Cars will be competing for a total of about $25,000. Purse money is $15,439, with contingency money of another $10,000 or so tacked on.

The event is attracting drag racers from all over the west. Big John Mazmanian of Los Angeles will be bringing his widely-known Funny Car. The candy apple red paint job on his dragster cost about $1,000 alone. Another of the famous vehicles among drag racing circles Nelson Carter's "Super Chief" from Tulsa, Okla. Mickey Thompson of Long Beach will be there, as will Mike Miller of Seattle, Wash.

Among the top Double-A drag race drivers scheduled to compete are Don Garlits of Florida, Jerry Ruth of Seattle, Tom Larkin of North Hollywood, Jim Davis of Walnut Creek and Dennis Baca of Walnut Creek.

Gates open Saturday at 7 a.m. with practice time trials and qualifying going from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. Sunday, gates open at 8 a.m., with time trials running from 9 to 11:30 a.m. After a parade of qualifying cars, the eliminations run from noon to 4 p.m.

Grandstands at the track, located off Highway 121 near its junction with Highway 37, can accommodate a crowd of 5,000. Tickets, sold at the gate, cost $3 Saturday and $4 Sunday.

Montgomery '5' Edges El Cerrito

By GARY TISCHLER

The Redwood High School Giants ran into bigger Giants last night.

Power-packed Castlemont High School of the Oakland Athletic League erased Redwood's Marin County Athletic League cage champs on the boards to tripper a hard-won 80-72 victory in a thrill-packed opening night of the 1969 Tournament of Champions in the Oakland Arena yesterday.

TOO TALL

Redwood died slowly and bravely but in the long run the Giants simply couldn't handle the stronger and bigger Knights where it counted the most — underneath the backboards.

In other first-round games, Sacred Heart of the San Francisco Triple A League brushed off Livermore of the East Bay League 61-45, Santa Rosa's Montgomery High School of the North Bay League nicked El Cerrito's Alameda Athletic League Champs 63-59, and Hayward of the Hayward Athletic League registered the upset of the night by shocking heavily favored St. Joseph of the Catholic Athletic League 69-62 in three overtimes.

VS. LIVERMORE

Redwood meets Livermore, a team that owns a 62-54 practice game win over the Giants, in the consolation bracket at 4:30 p.m. today. In another consolation game, El Cerrito tackles St. Joseph at 6 m. In the championship bracket Sacred Heart tackles Castlemont at 7:30 p.m. and Hayward and Montgomery tackles at 9 o'clock in a rematch of last year's TOC game won by Montgomery.

"We played a great game," Redwood coach Dick Hart said. "They just had too much height. I can't take anything away from our boys."

TENACIOUS

The shooting was there throughout the game, and the Giants, who had several chances to play dead and roll over, never let the tourney favorites off the hook, twice cutting 10 point leads down to size.

They had the Knights on the run early, spurting off to a seven-point, 11-4 lead in the early going as 6 foot, 6 inch transfer Pete Webb battled manyly under the boards and Skip Corsini drilled some key long shots.

Sports ⓘⓙ

But by the end of the first quarter, Castlemont, behind 6-foot, 7-inch center Robert Gums and 6-6 Norman Knowles, had brought the Knights back to within a point, 21-20.

LAST LEAD

Redwood had its last lead at 7:02 of the second quarter, when John Boro completed a three-point play with a 20-foot jumper and a free throw for a 24-22 edge.

Then the bubble burst as 6-3 guard Mike Quick, the Knights' top socrer, took over. Quick, with fluid faking and good moves, led the Knights on an 11-point spree, personally scoring nine points on twisting jumpers and that was the game as the Knights led, 33-25.

They extended the lead to 40-29 and seemed set to deliver the knockout punch when Bill Challender's wrong-way try at a fielder at the Castlemont basket seemed to set the Giants off.

FIVE POINTS

Webb twisted away for a fielder, Jerry Piro bagged a two-pointer and Jim Peters nabbed two points on a goal-tending call

Souped Up Baseball Gets Try

NEW YORK (UPI) — Will souping up the baseball put hitting back into the "national pastime?"

That's the question Commissioner Bowie Kuhn hopes to answer later this month when a new "rabbit" ball will be used in two exhibition games as an experiment.

The manufacturer, A.G. Spalding & Co. has produced a baseball with an improved center which is supposed to increase the resiliency by 10 per cent.

The world champion Detroit Tigers, one of the best hitting teams, and the New York Mets, one of the worst batting clubs, will be the first teams to try out the new ball at Lakeland, Fla., on Maarch 13.

The following day, the San Francisco Giants and the California Angels will use the same type of ball in a game at Phoenix, Ariz.

Marichal In Camp, But Still Unsigned

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — Signs of worry over the whereabouts of ace pitcher Juan Marichal vanished today as the San Francisco Giants prepared to open the exhibition season against the Chicago Cubs.

Marichal, a 25-game winner in 1968, arrived in camp last night.

He said he was in excellent condition and ready to go to work as soon as the matter of an increase in his $100,000 salary is settled.

First baseman Willie McCovey, although unsigned, has been in camp since Monday and has been working out.

The team had listed the two players as the only holdouts. However, it was reported yesterday that pitcher Bobby Bolin and infielder Cesar Gutierrez, both in camp, are also unsigned.

Javier Remains A Holdout

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Second baseman Julian Javier did an about face today and declined to sign a 1969 St. Louis Cardinals contract without further negotiations, the club reported.

Earlier the club announced he had signed.

Javier reported to the Cards training camp at St. Petersburg, Fla., last night.

A Cardinal spokesman in St. Louis said Javier agreed with General Manager Bing Devine at that time to sign his contract today.

"This morning, he decided after further thought that he would not sign but wanted to meet with Devine for further negotiations, the Cardinal spokesman said.

Meanwhile, first baseman Orlando Cepeda reported to the Cards camp and signed a contract.

A's Monday, Jackson End Holdout

MESA, Ariz. (AP)—The Oakland Athletics, their two big holdouts in the fold, have their last intrasquad game today before tomorrow's exhibition season opener.

Centerfielder Rick Monday, asking $27,000 and reportedly offered $23,000, and rightfielder Reggie Jackson, asking $23,000 and offered $18,000, came to terms yesterday.

Manager Hank Bauer said the two players, both All-Americans at nearby Arizona State University, will be kept out of exhibitions until "they catch up" in training.

The Joe DiMaggios defeated the Bill Posedels, 1-0, in an intrasquad game yesterday, with Dave Duncan singling in Ramon Webster with the only run.

Coaches Stand Fast On Hairy Issue

By GARY TISCHLER

Some 50 members of the Larkspur school's team were faced with a tonsorial choice this week and by Wednesday most of them had trimmed, although under protest.

The situation mushroomed after Gordon Pusser of Corte Madera, father of one of the members of the track team, protested to Redwood's rigid haircut rules at a meeting of the Tamalpais High School District board.

At that time, what Redwood athletic director Robert Troppmann described as "half of the track team" had signed a petition objecting to new track coach Gary Shaw's ruling that, in effect, said get a haircut or be dropped from the squad.

So far no one has been dropped for the haircut ruling, according to Troppmann, and most of the team is together again. But the whole issue has once again raised the question of long hair, rulings, jurisdiction and what constitutes a neat haircut.

Troppmann saw the situation as something of a small rebellion against the coaches and their authority.

"We had several meetings after we were presented with the petition," Troppmann said. "We stuck to our guns. We did not compromise."

Pusser, according to Troppmann, circulated a letter to members of the track team, urging them to stand fast, and if forced to make a choice between haircut and team, to submit under protest.

"He (Pusser) has a right to think what he wants," Troppmann said. "But the letter is something else again."

Shaw, in his first year as Redwood track coach, stepped into a hornets' nest, but he is basically working under general guidelines set for the entire Redwood athletic department.

The only reference to haircuts in training rules is that an athlete be "neat and well-groomed."

"That doesn't mean you have to get a butch or a real close cut," Troppmann explained. "It has to be neat, not past the collar, down in the eyes."

Troppmann sees the haircut ruling and any other training rule as part of the school's tradition.

"Tradition doesn't make it right," he said. "But it does count for something."

Troppmann feels the authority lies with the coach and that he has support in his and the department's position.

"I think we have our reasons for our rules," he said. "We should be able to tell the athletes what to do in this case. And not everyone feels as Mr. Pusser does. I received quite a few calls Tuesday night from parents supporting the coaches. And some of the other athletes have started petitions supporting the coach."

"This isn't a question of long hair hurting the athlete," he said. "I'm sure short hair won't make him run faster. But it is a matter of policy."

Not all coaches agree with the long hair ban. Bruce Grant, Tamalpais High School track coach, for one, says that there will be some long hairs on his team.

"It's not that important," he said. "This is part of the youth today. I don't think it will make a difference in their performance."

There is no Marin County Athletic League ruling on the matter of dress, appearance or haircuts. It varies from school to school, coach to coach. Final authority would appear to be with the individual coaches or athletic directors.

One such solution to the problem of haircuts could be some kind of uniformity throughout the league.

Redwood Cagers Downed

to cut it to 40-35 at the half.

It went nip-and-tuck in the third quarter, Redwood going for a last stab after Piro cut it to 42-44 with a four-point play that climaxed a seven-point spree.

But Castlemont, getting easy and power-packed baskets underneath, steadily pulled away, leading by 60-53 at the end of the third quarter and pulling to its first 10-point edge early in the fourth quarter.

The Giants kept scoring and pecking, but just didn't have enough to come close again. Castlemont's biggest lead was 76-65.

FOULS OUT

Jim Peters, who had 11 points, fouled out in the fourth quarter, taking a good part of the heart and gut of the Giant offense out.

Piro finished with 18 points. Webb, who got eight rebounds, had 15 points and Boro had 12.

The Knights had no such balance, but didn't need it with Quick winding up with 27 points, and Knowles with 24.

Webb scored on seven of nine shots from the field, as the Giants shot 40 per cent. Outmatched as they were on the boards, they would have needed to shoot 50 per cent to win.

UNDERDOGS

Montgomery, bearers of a 19-game win streak, were sparse underdogs in its game against an El Cerrito team that had bopped Richmond twice to gain the tourney berth.

The Vikings, with only 1968 all-tourney player Tom Fitchie doing a smooth job, trailed El Cerrito throughout much of the game. They were behind, 12-7 at the quarter, 29-26 at the half and by as much as 40-32 in the third quarter before they ignited.

Tom Fitchie, who shared scoring honors with Steve Tiedeman with 20 points, ignited a seven-point spree in the third quarter that made it 41-40. Two straight layups off steals put the Vikes ahead, 44-40, and from there it see-sawed, El Cerrito regaining the lead twice early in the fourth quarter, before Montgomery pulled away to a 58-51 lead.

CLUTCH SHOTS

Tiedeman nailed it down by sinking three straight clutch free throws in the final seconds.

The upset of the night gave Hayward, after two straight frustrating appearances a berth in the second-round champion round. The Farmers, a one-man team of Warren Morse (30.7 average) were behind by 11 points in the third quarter, but finally caught up to tie it at 55 all at the end of regulation.

After a pair of two-point overtimes, the dam broke for the hungry Farmers, as they scored on a series of free-throws to knock off St. Joseph, a team rated next to Castlemont in the TOC.

BAD NIGHT

Part of the St. Joseph collapse was the failure of highly-touted Joseph Vittatoe to come through. He hit on only three of 20 shots and wound up with eight points. Teammate Ken Gilliland, a superb 6-2 athlete, picked up some slack with 33 points on 12 out of 15 shots, but it wasn't enough.

Morse scored 22 for the Warriors, but he had help this time with two other Farmers in double figures. He helped to control the boards with 24 rebounds.

McCovey Sees Big Year For A Healthy Jim Hart

PHOENIX—Willie McCovey turned down an invitation to predict a pennant for the Giants this year, declaring that baseball was the kind of game that made predicting about a team a precarious business.

"Why," said the big first baseman who was home run and RBI champ of the National League last season, "it's even tough predicting what one player will do. Take Jim Ray Hart, for instance.

"I've been predicting for several years that Hart would lead the National League in hitting. He has all the tools and when he is in a hot streak nobody can stop him.

"I DON'T believe I ever saw Hart get a cheap hit. But I've seen many hits taken away from him at Candlestick Park by the wind and heavy infield. Sizzling grounders that are run down on Hart in Candlestick would be through fast infields for hits in other parks."

Hart still is McCovey's favorite to lead the National League one of these years. McCovey discounted Hart's dismal season in 1968. Instead he looked to four years of robust hitting by Hart from 1964 through 1967.

"DON'T TAKE 1968 as any indication of Hart's ability," said McCovey. "He was hurting most of the season last year — one injury after another."

In his rookie year of 1964, Hart hit .286, 31 homers, 15 doubles, six triples and drove in 81 runs; in 1965, .299, 23 homers, 30 doubles, six triples, 96 RBIs; in 1966, .285, 33 homers, 23 doubles, four triples, 93 RBIs; in 1967, .289, 29 homers, 26 doubles, seven triples, 99 RBIs.

HART'S BATTING record from 1964-68 certainly corroborates McCovey's statement that Hart never gets cheap hits. Indeed, he doesn't. Actually, every third hit Hart gets is an extra base smash.

In 1964 he had 162 hits in 566 ABs and 52 of the hits were for extra bases; in 1965, 177- for-591, included 50 extra base hits; in 1966, 165-for-578, 60 for extra bases; in 1967, 167-for-578, 62 for extra bases.

EVEN IN his first off season last year, Hart maintained the ratio of one extra base hit for every three he got. In 1968 Hart was at bat only 480 times because he played in only 136 games due to injuries. Of his 124 hits, 40 were for extra bases — 23 homers, 14 doubles and three triples. His 124-for-480 gave him a .2598 average, his lowest in five major league campaigns.

"EVERYONE KNOWS .258 is not indicative of Hart's ability." said McCovey. "With a little luck and good health this year, Hart just might have his best year ever. If we could be sure of that I wouldn't mind accepting an invitation to talk about a pennant."

Oaks Win Fourth Straight

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Oakland Oaks have run their winning string to four and cooled off the American Basketball Association's currently hottest club, the Miami Floridians.

Oakland trailed 65-50 at the half in Miami Beach last night, but outscored the Floridians 33-19 in the final period to win 117-113.

The Floridians led 35-22 after the first quarter and at one time had a 22-point advantage. Oakland went out in front to stay in the last minute. Warren Armsrong got a jumper that made it 115-113 with 39 seconds to go.

MARIN BOWLING HIGHLIGHTS

Woman Rolls Rare Score; Lights Out At Greenbrae

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Nina Baker is a woman who believes in a bowling average.

In the Forget Me Nots League at Nave Lanes, that house of bowling near Ignacio, Nina bowled her average — three times. A 148 average bowler, she reeled off a 148 triplicate series.

I don't know what the odds on that are, but it's somewhat better than 2 to 1, I assure you.

Over at Greenbrae Lanes, management and bowlers alike are still screaming about being thrown into total darkness.

It seems there was a bit of power failure Wednesday night. It all started when winds knocked a tree limb onto a power line at 40 Via La Cumbre.

It was 6:39 p.m. and the 24 lanes were filled. Getting ready to start serious action were men and women in the Merry Mixers League and men in the Northern California Merchants League.

Bowlers waited around in the dark until about 8 o'clock and then packed up the ball and headed home. It was good they didn't wait. The lights at Greenbrae Lanes didn't come on again until shortly after midnight.

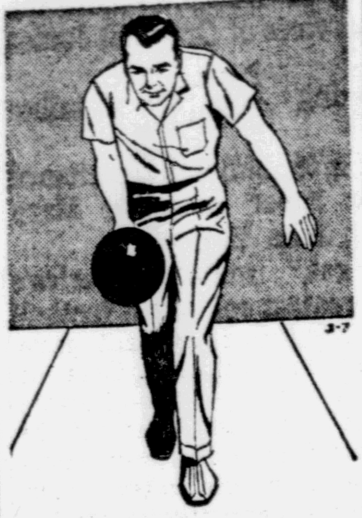
STRIKES TO SPARE — Mitzie Brown, a director in the Marin County Woman's Bowling Association, is now eligible for the Marin women's 600 club after tossing a 603 series in the Mixed Travel League at Country Club Bowl in San Rafael . . . Barbara Conrad went 78 pins over her average when she rolled a 221 in the Hits and Mrs. League at Greenbrae Lanes . . . Ron Moresco was star of the show in the St. Isabella's Men's League at Nave Lanes, rolling a 269 game and 663 series . . . Bea Hoffman wowed them in the Sleepers League at Country Club, 258 game and 587 series.

DOWN THE LANES Pat Kenney rolled an all-spare game in the Monday Washday League at Nave Lanes, ending with a 182 score . . . Al Gagnon, 154 average, rolling in the Hi-Lo's League at Country Club, had games of 190, 226 and 215 for a 631 series, quite a night's work . . . Jim Katz of the Thursday Nite Handicap League at Nave Lanes is still counting splits in his sleep: He had 18 of them in three games the other day . . . Lloyd Hines (167 avg.) did much better than the norm when he banged out a 242 in the San Quentin Mixed Fours at Country Club.

YOU DON'T SAY — Bud De Young thought he'd show his son (Terry, 200 average) a thing or two when he rolled a 234 line in the Mystery League at Nave Lanes, but when it was all over Bud was five pins short of a 600 . . . Ruth Brest bowled her first five, a 512 in the Friday Nite Leftovers at Nave Lanes, thanks to that 212 final game . . . Gloria Richardson converted the 6-7-10 split in the Keglerettes League at Country Club . . . Charlotte Burr of the Country Club Lucky Strikes League rolled her first 200 line, right on the nose, and that's 75 pins better than her average . . . Top scores among the youngsters came from Mike Smith, 583 series at Nave Lanes, and Don Rogue, 115 average bantam with a 171 game at Country Club.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER



Sometimes the best ball you throw is your spare ball. What I mean is that the effortless way in which you might deliver the ball when going for an easy spare actually produces the rolling type of ball that gets strikes.

The reason? Often a bowler will try to get too much "stuff" on his strike ball and actually kill it. When all else fails, try to throw a ball with what seems like nothing on it. You may be surprised.

Clay Stripped Of Last Official Champ Recognition

NEW YORK (UPI)—Cassius Clay has been stripped of the last official vestige of his world heavyweight boxing championship.

The World Boxing Council, which had continued to recognize Clay despite his difficulties with the U.S. government, announced yesterday it was declaring the title vacant pending another fight involving Joe Frazier of Philadelphia.

Frazier is recognized as champion in five states and the council said it would bestow its crown on the winner of a fight between Frazier and a "suitable contender." Jimmy Ellis of Louisville, Ky., is the champion of the World Boxing Association.

The decision of the WBC was announced by council President Justiniano N. Montana Jr. following a conference with Edwin Dooley, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission. New York is one of the states which recognized Frazier.

Montana explained the council's decision was prompted by Clay's inability to defend his title. The World Boxing Council includes in its membership the Oriental Boxing Federation, the Latin American Boxing Federation, the European Boxing Union and the British Boxing Board of Control.

Winds Hamper Salmon, Striped Bass Anglers

There are lots of salmon off Marin's shores near Slide Ranch, Muir Beach and Duxbury Reef, but so far this week heavy winds have discouraged the party boats of Sausalito from venturing outside the Golden Gate. Calmer weather should provide good fishing out there.

On the striped bass front, there are fish in the bay but again we need less wind and some warm weather to put stripers in a biting mood.

JOE MELLO of San Rafael, braved the winds Tuesday, found a calm area south of the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge and caught a 108-pound sturgeon, his largest in 10 years of going after this kind of fish. His largest previous catch was an 82-pounder. Joe figured this was his 200th sturgeon.

WHILE ON the subject, San Pablo Bay has become a great sturgeon fishery in recent years. Did you know that this is the largest fresh water fish in the world Its family has two types, green and white sturgons found along the Pacific Coast from northwest Alaska to Northern California.

The green sturgeon is rarely found in fresh water as it usually stays in the ocean near the mouth of big rivers. I saw three in a net in Tomales Bay three years ago; they were small fish under 10 pounds with a noticeable green coloration. I have not seen any legal sized green sturgeon taken by an angler, though there was a report of an angler who had taken one at White House Pool at Pt. Reyes Station while fishing for steelhead this season. It is said that the flesh of this fish is far inferior to the meat of the white sturgeon. They reach lengths of seven feet and weights of 350 pounds.

The white sturgeon lives in the delta area of San Francisco Bay and throughout the bay itself. It can grow to a size of 20 feet in length and weigh as much as 1,000 pounds.

One specimen caught some years ago weighed 1,900 pounds and could have been 100 years old!

The favorite food of this fish is generally clams, shrimp, crabs and herring eggs, in that order.

Sturgeon spawn when they are about 36 inches in length and this is the reason for the 40-inch minimum size limit.

This year's fish and game regulations make it illegal to gaff undersized fish. Sturgeon spawn in fresh water and the eggs cling to the bottom, hatching out in three to seven days. In one month the fish are five inches in length and are covered with spines, a good protection at this stage.

HUNTERS BAGGED 638 bears in California this past season compared to 935 the previous year. Trinity with 92 was high county with Shasta and Siskiyou close behind. Mendocino County reported 10. Napa, Sonoma and Marin had none to report.

The bear tag sales numbered 33,000 and most were purchased by deer hunters who hoped to come across a bear while hunting deer.

Warriors Host Bullets Tonight

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The San Francisco Warriors go on their final road trip of the year this weekend—a two game affair—but before they do, they'll host the Baltimore Bullets tonight, 8 o'clock in the Cow Palace.

The Warriors, who dropped the National Basketball Association's leaders Wednesday, 114-107, need only three more victories to clinch third place in the Western Division. They are 56-38 on the season, 12 games behind pace-setting Los Angeles but five ahead of Chicago and San Diego.

Godman Leads Pro Bowlers

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Jim Godman of Hayward held a 34-pin lead last night to pace the 24-game qualifying action in the Professional Bowlers Association $70,000 Miller Open.

The 23-year-old Godman finished the 24 games with 5,342 to stay ahead of Californian Jim St. John, who had 5,308.

After today's match-play semifinals, the best five entries advance to Saturday's nationally televised finals with $10,000 going to the winner.

Pvt. Weiskopf Ties For Golf Lead

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Pvt. Tom Weiskopf calls the shots on the golf course, but the Army is something else.

"Every Monday, no matter where I am on the tour, I have to go to those Reserve meetings in Columbus, Ohio" he says. "It's either that or go to Vietnam."

"I don't even want to talk about it."

But the 26-year-old blond belter from Bedford, Ohio didn't mind talking about his golf game yesterday. He took command of a 20-mile-an-hour wind and shelled the tricky Rio Pinar Country Club course with 68 to go into the second round of the $115,000 Citrus Open tied for the lead with the veteran Rod Funseth.

Weiskopf finished strong fith a 32 on the 6,849-yard par 72 layout while Funseth started with a 32 and scrambled for even par on the final nine. Both fired six birdies and just two bogeys.

Weiskopf pronounced his game—particularly his putting—in fine shape after five months active Reserve duty as a clerk-typist at Fort Polk, La.

The former Ohio State star was a natural to fill foursomes of Fort Polk brass because of the super star status he achieved last year as third leading money winner, with more than $150,000.

Weiskopf, runner-up by one stroke to Dan Sikes here last year, finished in a tie for 19th at two under par 286, good for nearly $1,400, last week at Doral, his first tournament after Army duty.

The 35-year-old Funseth, of San Jose, collected more than $27,000 last year but he hasn't won a tournament since the 1965 Phoenix Open.

Funseth and Weiskopf were among the early finishers, and their lead held up throughout the day as winds sent scores soaring. Less than half the field of 144 out for the $23,000 first prize managed par or better.

The field will be cut to the low 70 finishers and tied after today's second round.

Mrs. DiGrazia Wins Golf Tournament

Mrs. Ned DiGrazia shot a 75-9—66 to capture the captain's trophy at the Las Gallinas Women's Golf Club's tournament yesterday.

Mrs. Sam Calla was first in the nine hole sweeps with a net 33. She was followed by Mesdames Robert Ritter, 34, and Wesley Perez and Ned DiGrazzia.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

The Lightner Slam Double Calls For An Unusual Lead

When you make the opening lead against a slam, you tend to lead an unbid suit if possible. If all suits have been bid, you lead a suit bid by dummy rather than a suit bid by declarer. If dummy has bid two suits, you tend to lead the second suit on the theory that the suit a player bids first is usually stronger than the suit he bids secondarily. You disregard these rules, however, if your partner doubles the slam.

LEAD ISSUE

Almost 40 years ago, New York expert Theodore Lightner pointed out that there is almost no advantage in doubling a voluntarily bid slam if your only obejct is to increase the penalty form 100 to 200 points. It is more advantageous to use a slam double to steer your partner away from his normal lead.

Some experts use the double of a slam to require a lead in the first suit bid by dummy. Others, including Lightner, require only that partner make an "unusual" lead. Take your choice, but make sure that your partner and you see eye to eye on this subject.

HEART LEAD NEEDED

In today's hand East expects his partner to open a diamond (dummy's secondary suit) unless he is guided in the right direction. East's double asks West not to make his normal lead or asks West to lead a heart, depending on which school of thought the partners belong to. Even if East and West are not rigid about the meaning of the double, West should lead a heart rather than a club.

When West obediently leads a heart, East takes the first two tricks. South then claims the rest.

MUST BE HEART

If West led anything but a heart South would draw trumps, cash the king of diamonds and get to dummy to discard both losing hearts on the ace and queen of diamonds. South would score a vulnerable slam with an overtrick instead of going down one. The difference would be 1,560 points if East has passed, and 2,060 points if East had doubled the slam.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes. You hold:

♠ 8 2
♥ A Q
♦ 7 5 4 3 2
♣ 6 5 4 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid 1 no-trump.

Your only high cards are in partner's suit, but you cannot raise with only two trumps. Since your hand is strong enough for a response, you must bid; and the only possible response is 1 no-trump.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER JAMES WIKEL, CPA

Sudden Income Increase May Make Averaging Worthwhile

Wikel

Was your income last year much more than you made in 1964, 1965, 1966 and 1967? If so, there is a chance you are elibible for income averaging.

The rules are complex, but it's worth looking into. If you are eligible, you may save many tax dollars by computing your tax under the income averaging rules.

To be eligible for the averaging provisions, you must:

1. Have either been a citizen or resident of the United States during 1968.

2. Your income must have been subject to United States tax during 1964, 1965, 1966 and 1967.

3. You must also provide 50 per cent or more of your own support to qualify.

This support requirement is not necessary. (A) if you are at least 25 years old during 1968 and have not been a full-time student for at least four years since age 21; (B) if over half of your adjusted taxable income for 1968 is substantially the result of work you did in two or more of the base period years, or (C) if you are self-supporting and married to someone who has been a dependent of another taxpayer, you can use averaging if 75 per cent or more of your combined adjusted gross income for 1968 is your income.

If you are eligible, be sure to study the rules carefully before making the computations. Get a Schedule G, Form 1040, from the IRS and follow the isntructions — step by step. They are confusing, but if carefully followed, will bring you out with the right answer.

Be sure to use this Schedule G and attach a copy to your tax return.

If there is any doubt, you should consult your tax adviser early or purchase the book "Your Federal Income Tax for 1969" for 60 cents from the District Director of Internal Revenue or from the U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Valuable Holding Results From Past Years' Thrift

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Years ago I bought two shares of Continental Assurance through payroll deduction. They have changed into 16 shares of CNA Financial. We're inexperienced and wonder whether to hold or sell. — L.N.

A. You own a holding company listed on the New York Stock Exchange, trading in the 50s. If you don't need the cash I'd hold for further longer-term gains. CNA ranks high among multiline insurance groups offering most types of coverage, including the new variable annuities. Acquisition of Tsai Management and Research (operating Manhattan Fund) should in time lead to package selling of insurance contracts and mutual fund shares for savings. Your youthful investment is well worth holding.

Q. Are debenture ratings of Baa (Moody's) or BB (Standard & Poor's) sufficiently high to be suitable for a prudent investor needing maximum return. I have in mind American Sugar. — W.A.

A. The ratings you mention for some debentures would make them suitable for a prudent investor but the yield might be lower than that from American Sugar 5.30s of 1993, trading around 78. Earnings of this company — a leader in the sugar industry — are in a downtrend and little has been done to offset this trend through diversification. I'd rather see you invested in one of my recent column recommendations of high-rated, high-yielding bonds.

DALLAS (UPI) — DPA, Inc. has announced a marketing agreement covering the sale and lease of computer disc drives manufactured by Marshall Data Systems of Torrance.

Market Hit By Setback At Closing

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market got a sharp setback today, although it did manage to trim some of its earlier heavy losses by the close. Trading was moderate.

The Dow Jones industrial average at 1:30 p.m. was off 6.03 points at 907.51. It had been off as much as 9.01 points at 11:30 a.m.

Losses outnumbered gains 1,038 to 332.

Although losses still predominated, there were more gains among the most-active issues than there had been earlier.

Prices near the close included:

"SAFEGUARDING YOUR TEEN-AGER AGAINST DRUGS"

What can you do if your son or daughter has a "drug problem"? Or if you suspect your youngster is mixed up with "mind expanding drugs" or tempted by them? Are drug-takers "cool" or simply naive?

One positive step is to read this series in the I-J, starting Monday, March 10, by the prize-winning science writer, Alton Blakeslee. This is the first time, as far as we know, there has been a thorough roundup of information in this area. It has been endorsed by medical and law enforcement authorities. Dr. Dan L. Farnsworth of Harvard says Blakeslee's work represents a new high in responsible reporting of all aspects of the current drug problem in the United States. Blakeslee's research is painstaking, authoritative, and of impressive depth and breadth. The series is "must" reading for everyone concerned with the problem posed by drugs today.

Bolinas Lagoon Issue: Reason Vs. Emotion

A classic example of how emotion may replace reason in controversy over an important public issue is provided by Bolinas Lagoon.

Ever since architect Norman Gilroy unveiled a $22 million master plan for the lagoon's development nearly three years ago, the air has been filled with charges and counter-charges, condemnations and recriminations. And yet, both sides in the highly polarized dispute are really dedicated to making Bolinas Lagoon of permanent benefit to Marin County.

The air may be cleared somewhat by next Tuesday's election on whether to dissolve the Bolinas Harbor District. The people most affected by what happens to the lagoon — those who live in its vicinity — will at last have a chance to say whether they wish the district or the county to control its future.

PERHAPS BRIEFLY reviewing the history of the dispute may help set the stage for the election — and for some reasonable approaches to the problem involved, however the balloting turns out.

Bolinas Harbor District was created by the Legislature in 1957, and given 10 years to come up with a plan and begin "substantial improvements" to the lagoon — which then, as now, was steadily deteriorating from silting, sewage discharge, etc. Long a small craft harbor, it was becoming less and less useable for boats.

The district's problem was lack of funds. To get around that, it sought to have Bolinas declared a "harbor of refuge" so major federal money could be put into its improvement.

The federal bureaucracy required that the district first prepare a plan to show economic justification. Gilroy was given the job.

To show as much "economic feasibility" as possible, Gilroy drew up a plan calling for dredging of 2.5 million cubic yards to increase the open water area from 200 to 450 acres, and for a 1,600-boat marina, restaurants, heliport, motel and shopping mall as eventual developments.

THIS PLAN immediately brought the wrath of conservation groups, aided and abetted by the Marin County Planning Department. It would, they claimed, destroy the ecology of the lagoon. Not satisfied with that, some recently arrived planners discovered the San Andreas Fault and began quaking over earthquake hazards in Bolinas.

Then Nature Conservancy bought Kent Island — the keystone of Gilroy's plan — and presented it to the county, thus removing it from harbor district control. And after all the expense and trouble, the federal government refused to designate Bolinas as a "harbor of refuge."

The harbor district asked the Army Engineers to dredge 60,000 cubic yards from the lagoon because of silting. County officials promptly charged this violated a joint study agreement between county and harbor district, and a majority of the board of supervisors moved to immediately dissolve the district.

A bill by state Sen. John F. McCarthy extending the district's deadline for "major improvements" to 1971, and unanimous vote of the Local Agency Formation Commission to put the matter to a vote ended the immediate dissolution threat.

THAT BRINGS US to the election of next Tuesday. The question before the voters of Bolinas Harbor District is: Will they be better represented, and the future of the harbor and lagoon better served, by district control or county control?

The election, however, will not by itself provide a solution to the problems of Bolinas Lagoon. Until those most interested in the matter begin talking sense to one another, and working together for the mutual good, there can be no solution. If they don't, a few more years will find Bolinas Lagoon nothing but a monstrous, odorous mud flat.

Advisory Commission's Tax Plan Likely To Be Widely Unpopular

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO — (CNS) — Preliminary analysis of the report submitted by the Advisory Commission on Tax Reform, headed by State Controller Houston I. Flournoy, indicates it's a document which will be highly unpopular with the people and the state Legislature.

The plan, as submitted, apparently contemplates that the state is gradually taking over the financing of city and county government. In turn, the commission urges the state to seek more aid from the federal government, and in addition, to seek a substantial increase in state taxes through broadening the sales tax base by adding use taxes on utilities and certain services.

THIS DIRECTLY counters the statement of Gov. Ronald Reagan, made a number of times, that there will be no new taxes.

His commission proposes to siphon off some $375 million more out of the taxpayers' pockets through an expanded levy on services.

These include taxes on electricity, gas, water and telephone for $225 million; on cleaning, dyeing, laundry, barber and beauty shops and shoe repair for $65 million; on user-operated transportation such as auto repair, greasing, storage, parking and rentals for $45 million, and on recreation and amusement, including admissions to spectator amusements, club and fraternal dues, radio and television repair for $40 million.

The very big-hearted and considerate commission decided against expanding the sales tax to groceries, undoubtedly saving this one for the future.

FOR OVER two years, Governor Reagan has resisted all efforts to convert him to sponsorship of a withholding tax for payment of the personal income tax. Yet the advisory tax commission recommends the withholding tax, which puts another obligation on the private business of the state to act as tax collector not only for the federal government, but for California also.

The most disquieting problem confronting taxpayers isn't in the report at all. This problem already has been encountered, and the taxpayers have lost the race to local government. Specifically, it is what's going to prevent cities and counties next year from raising tax rates again, to more than eat up any savings that may accrue through state action.

It is small wonder that the plan is going to be highly unpopular on most fronts.

Rule By Minority Dangerous Course

San Rafael's Elementary School Bond proposal was settled on Tuesday, Feb. 18, at the polls by 37.9 per cent of the voting power.

It is very difficult to understand why that figure is so low. A voting figure is representative of the people's interest and involvement in their country, state and community. It is the primary tool of democracy. It is the voice of the people and the will of the people in action. It is freedom.

I find it amazing that so many individuals are willing to sit back and allow their future to be decided by so few. To plead ignorance is not a valid excuse for a great deal of time and money were expended to bring the issues of this bond proposal to the people. To claim a disgust with the upheavels existing in the schools is real and shared by many, but to allow it to plunge you into a state of apathy and rejection is not sound thinking. More than ever our schools need the voices of the mass. They are being attacked and need the support, interest, and concern of all they serve.

We have by our own volution become a nation ruled by minorities. This could be one of the reasons why we are in such difficulty. We allow these few to continue to dictate, control, and manipulate us into confused states of anarchy. Where are the voices of the people? Certainly, they are not all represented in that 37.9 per cent that showed up on Tuesday to exercise their right to vote . . .

Firemen Given Undue Credit

A word about ambulance service in Marin County.

On Feb. 1, the Independent-Journal had an article on the front page concerning a Sausalito woman killed in a fire. This article states . . . "and they treated Mrs. Smith for about 20 minutes before the ambulance arrived."

The figure of 20 minutes is quite upsetting in view of the fact that the Sausalito Fire Department has its own ambulance and it responded to the scene. Doctors Ambulance of Marin Co. keeps time logs and showed only tight minutes to arrive at the scene.

Firemen seem to receive nothing but praise for their efforts to revive the victim. Your article did not mention that, even though the fire department ambulance was on the scene before Doctor's Ambulance arrived, they did not take the woman to the hospital, but wasted several minutes waiting for a private ambulance to arrive from Mill Valley, and take the victim to Marin County Hospital.

The "mechanical device" mentioned in the article is the heart-lung resusator, and no fire department in Marin County has such a unit, whereas all of Doctors Ambulances do. The fire department took the credit. Why? Credit where credit is due.

In another article in the Independent-Journal, "Probe is asked into Ambulance Service Report." This article stated "the ambulance got mixed up and could not find the correct location. It was complete chaos." The Independent-Journal never published the results of this probe. The ambulance service was completely exonerated. As it turns out the ambulance was sent to the scene of the fire by the Marin County Communications Center. Fire Chief George Cavallero was in the chief's car at a completely different location than given to the ambulance. Yet still the ambulance crew was blamed for the delay.

On the whole, it seems the Independent-Journal has taken the view that the firemen are "angelic and heros" and whenever the ambulance crew is mentioned, they are always in the wrong. . . .

Marin County has some of the finest ambulance service in the Bay Area, and in some cases, far and above other counties. I feel the Independent-Journal should support these people enthusiastically rather than the present attitude they seem to have.

One Sour Note In Hub Discussion

Recent discussion at San Anselmo City Council on the proposed reconstruction of the famous Hub intersection probably didn't succeed in changing any minds, but it did result in a complete airing of both viewpoints.

Generally, the meeting was a good example of relevant, though sometimes vigorous, debate. I suspect that both the majority of the council (who favor the project) and the protesting residents (who fear a widening of Center Boulevard) came away with a better understanding of both sides of the question and more respect for each others motives — if not their conclusions.

However, one sour note was struck. A rather vague allegation of improper conduct or conflict of interest was made after filed statements by all councilmen and the city engineer showed that they neither owned nor intended to own any property involved in the project or any in West Marin.

To put this matter in a fair perspective, it should be noted that the person making the accusation was invited to make specific charges and failed to do so. When invited by a member of the audience to "put up or shut up" — figuratively of course — she decided to take the second choice.

Clay Shaw Conspiracy Verdict Validates Warren Commission

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

And that conspirator turns out to be no conspirator at all. You can't have a conspiracy without conspirators.

Dist. Atty. James Garrison of New Orleans failed to provide his conspiracy charge against Clay Shaw and he failed to convince the jury to repudiate the Warren Commission for its findings that Lee Harvey Oswald acted alone in killing J. F. K.

The unanimous jury verdict of innocent for Shaw knocked out of court the only assassination "conspiracy" every taken into court.

THAT OSWALD never got into court is a large factor in the spread of the conspiracy theory. Oswald himself couldn't be tried because he was murdered before the case could be brought to court. So Oswald was never found guilty of President Kennedy's murder.

This is the prime circumstance which generated false rumors and honest doubt as to whether Oswald was the lone assassin. The conspiracy theory became rampant.

No matter how careful, competent or conclusive the investigation by the Warren Commission, the minds of many were open to the most miasmic theories because Oswald's guilt or innocence had never been established before a jury.

AT LEAST six books were written attacking the methods, the members and the conclusions of the Warren report, and three years after the assassination the Gallup Poll showed that 64 per cent of Americans believed the conspiracy theory or were uncertain Oswald acted alone.

Now a verdict, based on proceedings before court and jury, adds direct support to the central conclusion of the Warren Commission.

District Attorney Garrison virtually asked the jury for a verdict against the commission. He made this the centerpiece of his case against Shaw. He got the indictment against Shaw on the ground that Shaw conspired with Oswald to murder the President.

Garrison asked the jury to reverse the verdict of the Warren Commission that there had been no conspiracy.

The jury reversed Garrison.

GARRISON branded the commission's handling of the assassination investigation a "fraud."

It wasn't the Warren Commission that the jury decided was fradulent.

Garrison succeeded in getting Shaw indicted as the one whose guilt — if guilt was found — would prove conspiracy and disprove a central theme of the Warren report.

The jury rejected guilt, acquitted Shaw and thereby added weight to the validity of the Warren report.

THE COMMISSION'S judgment that Oswald shot President Kennedy has not been seriously questioned. But its other main conclusion have been seriously questioned and widely doubted — that Oswald had no co-conspirator, that he acted alone, that he was an agent of no foreign government, that he was an agent of nobody but himself.

The Nxew Orleans verdict adds significant weight to the Warren report because it rests on a court proceeding and a jury verdict which is the only way guilt or innocence can be established by law in these matters.

The court's rejection of conspiracy by the acquittal of Clay Shaw leaves the Warren Commission more persuasive than ever. The doubt wasn't over whether Oswald pulled the trigger. It was over whether someone else helped him either in planning or execution of the crime.

Oswald's part in the assassination is well documented. The New Orleans jury unanimously erased conspiracy the only time it was brought into court.

The work of the Warren Commission is standing well the test of time and trial.

Governors Keep Trying For More Federal Help

By RAYMOND LAHR

WASHINGTON (UPI) — State governors are moving ahead with their campaign for a greater share of the federal tax despite Nixon administration efforts to quench the demand for a while.

With campus violence monopolizing attention at its winter meeting last week, the National Governors' Conference neglected even to announce action taken to seek more federal help to deal with widespread state budget problems.

ONE REPORT was adopted with a provision reaffirming the conference's call for a share of federal tax collections to be allotted to the states without restriction on how it is spent.

A committee headed by Gov. Daniel J. Evans of Washington was instructed to devise a revenue sharing formula to try to sell to the Nixon administration and to Congress.

The conference also approved a report from a committee headed by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York calling for an assortment of federal moves to give financial relief to the states.

These reports were adopted after Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy politely warned the governors that they might be expecting too much too soon from the national government.

Kennedy doubted that any tax reforms approved by Congress this year would "break any new and dramatic ground in the area of federal-state-local fiscal relations." He did agree that these relations should get high priority in long range studies.

THE IDEA of giving the states a share of federal income tax collections was credited largely to Walter W. Heller, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisors under Presidents Kennedy and Johnson.

Since 1965, it has been endorsed regularly by the Governors' Conference as a device to strengthen the states. Despite the Democratic authorship, the proposal was given a bear hug by Republican leaders.

It was not so warmly received by the Democratic majority in Congress, where there is more interest in controlling how federal aid money is spent. Then it was shelved because of the cost of the war in Vietnam.

THE DEFENSE budget and the hope to keep the overall budget in balance as a curb on inflation will restrain any Nixon Administration efforts to give the states more money and more freedom to spend it.

But the Rockefeller committee report approved by the governors asked for more federfal money for welfare and education. It even asked for a study of "national contributory health insurance."

That proposal sounds like the program described by critics as "socialized medicine," which has terrified the American Medical Association for a generation.

Such is the Forgotten Man. He works, he votes, generally he prays — but his chief business in life is to pay. — William Graham Sumner.

Tam High Campaign Rained Out; Not So, Sausalito Field Trip

If the rainy season has bothered you, consider Tamalpais High School, where it has caused the longest election campaign ever.

Spring semester elections were scheduled for the last week of January, but rains washed out half of them because speeches and voting are held in the outdoor amphitheater.

Now, five weeks later, Dean of Student Activities Edward J. Chavez is still trying to get the junior and freshman class elections held, along with a runoff for senior class president. At midweek, Chavez had scheduled the elections for today — if the sun is still shining. If it's raining again, forget it.

Looking at the bright side, the rain has produced a few biological prodigies. A flourishing little garden is growing in a fiber floor mat outside the I-J's Mill Valley office with no other visible means of support.

THE ATMOSPHERE was generally unsmiling at Monday's Sausalito School District board meeting, but there were a few funny moments.

One came when Dr. Louis Levy stood to support field trips for students. (A trip to Black Panther headquarters stirred up some of the current protests.)

Rebutting an earlier speaker, Dr. Levy said he would like his daughter to take a trip to Ku Klux Klan or Black Panther headquarters, and was sure no harm would come to her.

A tug on his sleeve from his wife. Dr. Levy bent down, listened to her whisper, straightened with an embarrassed smile.

"She went," he said.

When the meeting started, board member David E. Freedheim turned to three reporters covering the meeting and assured them if violence started as it did recently in San Francisco, "you'll be the first ones we protect."

The reporters would have preferred the safety of anonymity, which usually lets them escape imbroglios cowardly but unscathed.

THE MARIN Labor Council and Building Trades Council are passing a resolution around to the county's school district boards that would commit each district to use union labor in any trade craft union jurisdiction.

I hope the boards read it carefully, because a couple of provisions might surprise even the unions.

The resolution would commit districts not to use teachers, students, custodians or bus drivers for a long list of trades, including building service, office and professional employees, social workers — and believe it or not, teachers.

Maybe we will end up with a union teacher standing by at full pay while the teacher teaches his class. Or a union projectionist being called in to run a 16-millimeter film on sex education of "The Wombat Life Cycle."

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

Fusselman

One can feel real sorry for the present board of supervisors, that is for some of them. You remember 1968 was the year of the righteous. I think I mentioned it early in that year, when the flamboyant statements and declarations of intent were spinning out like the floss from a cotton candy machine at a fair. The tax rate would be held, maybe reduced.

It was. It was election year!

The administrator started out the year by moaning that the increase in assessed valuations was only going to be five per cent instead of the usual higher increase each year. The economy (?) bug got him, too. Whether he liked it or not, he had to go along with the boys.

IT WOULD have served them all right had the board remained intact. You see what they did was to use all the fat up. You remember how many "bare bones'' declarations were made? Well they did it and no mistake. This leaves the board, as constituted now, on the spot. The fat is gone.

One thing they should never lose sight of: There is usually more than one way of doing things. For example: air travel is offered as elegant first class (mit champagne yet) and also as coach. They both take you where you wish to go, often on the same plane — leaving and arriving at the same time.

THERE IS ANOTHER thing that is worked to death. That is the comparison of "tax rates" with other counties, to try and prove great merit in the operation out at Brasilia.

That argument is as phony as a $3 bill. The only valid comparison is one which considers all the factors; assessed valuations, the nature of what is really being accomplished, etc. After all, suppose this county or any other has a lower dollar tax (not rate) than some other, what's wrong in trying to improve the operation for the same money or maintaining the level for less tax dollars?

The saddest part of our situation is that during the last decade, almost 100 per cent of those who have been responsible for the grand manner of operation here are now looking out the window. They are no longer part of the scene.

THIS COURTHOUSE thing, I believe, needs one or two new looks or considerations. Either property on Fourth Street "can go no way but up," as we are told about the county as a whole, or San Rafael is dead. That might not seem important to the average homeowner in other areas of the county, but just consider this:

The value of property on Fourth Street has actually been a boon to the other property owners of the county. It has carried a big part of the cost of this grand operation of county government. I think you will find the values out in the vicinity of Brasilia are nowhere near those in downtown San Rafael.

A former supervisor said at a meeting of the board last year that the courthouse square was the most valuable piece of property in the county.

So, what's the hurry?

Hickel Selects Top Press Aide

WASHINGTON (AP) — Alex Troffey, 48, a public relations consultant in New York City and a former West Coast newsman, today was named an assistant to Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel and director of information.

Troffey is a former reporter for the Los Angeles Examiner before its merger with the Herald. He was an editor on the Honolulu Star-Bulletin and a newsman in San Francisco, Seattle and Portland.

Hickel also appointed Charles H. Meacham, 43, of Juneau, Alaska, as a deputy assistant secretary for fish and wildlife. Meacham joined the Alaska department of fisheries in 1956 after six years with the California Department of Fish and Game.

Volunteer Firemen Will Fete Member

Tiburon volunteer firemen have agreed to host a retirement dinner for Louis Soldavini, last of the district's original volunteer firemen, president John Grbac reported yesterday.

The dinner for Soldavini, who has been a Tiburon volunteer fireman since 1941, will be at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the Tiburon Lodge, Grbac said.

Police Face School Board Fracas Quiz

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The San Francisco Human Rights Commission has asked the police department to explain what steps it took to guard against violence at last week's board of education meeting where four persons were beaten.

The commission voted 13-2 yesterday to ask police a number of questions, including the police response to a request by school officials for police protection at the session where the controversial busing-integration plan was discussed.

More than 100 persons, most of them opposing the resolution, attended the meeting of the rights commission. They heard several Teamsters Union officials protest earlier testimony before the commission which linked members of their union to the attacks.

"We should support our police rather than putting them on the spot all the time," Apfel said.

Other questions for the police included in the resolution are: the number of officers assigned to the meeting; the number of off-duty officers who attended; an explanation of a report that a citizen's request for police at the beginning of the trouble was turned down because police at the scene had not asked for additional help.

Tenement Fire In Jersey City Claims Nine

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — A young mother with her daughter in her arms leaped five floors to her death in a tenement fire which took nine lives last night.

Mrs. Rena Dickerson, 29, jumped out a window of her top story flat with her daughter, Kristie, 6. She was killed and the girl died later in a hospital.

Three other daughters, Dineer, 11, Dori, 5, and Wanda, 7 months, were found dead in the apartment of apparent smoke poisoning.

On the fourth floor of the 20-family dwelling the four children of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Thomas died. Police said they were left alone because their mother was at work and their father had gone out to buy cigarettes.

An unidentified boy was snatched off the roof of the tenement, which collapsed later into the burned out shell of the building.

Club Contest Winners Listed

Reagon W. Wilson Jr., a senior at San Rafael High School, won first place Wednesday in the 32nd annual student speakers contest of the San Rafael Lions Club.

Runners-up were Sally Ward, a junior at San Rafael high; Nancy Oliva, a senior at Marin Catholic, and Pamela Nelson, a senior at San Rafael.

Wilson will compete with other local winners in zone competition at 7:30 p.m. next Thursday at the Civic Center. Speech topic this year is "The Hopes and Fears of Today's Youth."

No Charges Filed In Marijuana Probe

No charges were filed Wednesday in Marin Municipal Court against three young persons arrested Saturday night on suspicion of having marijuana in their car.

Dismissed were James Wallace Reinke, 23, and Carol Ann Madigan, 18, both of San Anselmo, and William Radebaugh, 23, of San Francisco.

Santa Rosan Reports Gunpoint Robbery

A Santa Rosa drug salesman reported to Corte Madera police that someone entered his room at the Edgewater Inn early today, at point of a snub-nosed revolver, tied his hands with shoe laces and stole $200.

John L. Stewart, 56, told officers that the unknown man came into his room, number 29, at about 1 a.m. He told Stewart, "The heat is on," police reported, tied him with some shoe laces he found in Stewart's suit case and left him in the bathroom.

Minnesota entered the Union May 11, 1850.

Restaurant Hit; Jewelry Is Taken

Burglars broke into Sonoma Joe's restaurant, 5151 Redwood Highway, Petaluma, Wednesday night and emptied a display case filled with jewelry, police reported.

The amount and value of the jewelry was not known. Police said a window on the west side of the building was broken to gain entry.

BIKINI BARRIER

Art Students Decry University Nude Ban

"I think they tend to be average—not the Riviera type," said Robert M. Stein, an art instructor.

Bikini-clad models can be unsettling say students. Said one co-ed art student, "You're getting involved in the form, and you're following a line, and all of a sudden here comes this bathing suit. You have to kind of surmise what's going on underneath there."

The art department plans to appeal to the administration for a change.

Bagley Panel

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, was named on Wednesday to a special legislative committee to investigate problems of criminal justice in the state, and not to a special committee to probe campus disturbances, as reported incorrectly by the Independent-Journal.

National Teacher Tests Set At Sonoma State

Sonoma State College has been designated as a test center for administering the national teacher examinations on April 12, according to Edith Moon, college tester.

College seniors preparing to teach and teachers applying for positions which encourage or require applicants to submit their scores along with credentials are eligible to take the test.

At the one-day session, a candidate may take the common examinations, which includes tests in professional education and general education, and one of 15 teaching area examinations, which are designed to evaluate his understanding of specific teaching areas.

"Bulletins of information" concerning registration may be obtained from the National Teacher Examinations Educational Testing Service, Box 911, Princeton, N. J.

Prison Term In Assault Case

James Melvin White, 18, of Marin City has been sentenced by Judge Harold J. Haley of Marin Superior Court to a state prison term of up to 10 years for assault with a deadly weapon.

White had pleaded guilty to the shooting of Diller Ryan, 18, of Ross on Sept. 2 in Marin City. He also pleaded guilty to a burglary charge and received a concurrent one year jail sentence for this offense.

Judge Haley sentenced White Wednesday after officials at the California Medical Facility at Vacaville recommended that White be placed in prison for the protection of society.

Sewer Board Seeks Grant

Ross Valley Sanitary District directors have hired a consulting engineer to make application to the department of U. S. Housing and Urban Development for $375,000 to replace the district's main trunk line.

Hired Wednesday was J. Warren Nute of San Rafael. The board did not set payment for Nute, Ralph C. Noah, district manager said.

The money being sought is one-half the amount needed for preliminary installation of the line, the rest of the $750,000 to come from either a bond issue or tax increase.

New Coins Club

An organizational meeting for a new coin collectors club will be held at 7 p.m. March 27 at the Marin Museum of Science (formerly the Boyd Natural Science Museum). The club is tentatively known as the Tamal Coin Club, according to Arthur Madsen, a member.

Collegians Will Help In Survey

Rohnert Park Chamber of Commerce directors learned Wednesday that the Sonoma State College psychology department will be asked to help with a planned chamber survey of city needs.

Edward Capocy, survey committee chairman, said the college department will be invited to participate in the preparation and circulation of the questionnaires.

He said the survey would include questions about the development of Rohnert Park, schools, recreation and asthetics.

The Rohnert Park Chamber Directors also:

ROSE PARADE — Heard a report from Reba Roberts that the annual Santa Rosa Rose Parade is scheduled for May 17 with the theme of "The Enchanting World of Roses." Named to her committee to work on the Rohnert Park entry float were Dr. Lauren D. Anderson, Mrs. Lawrence Millard, Mrs. Maurice Fredericks and Robert Gillogley.

INDUSTRIAL — Appointed Paul Golis and James Groom to head a committee to update the chamber industrial survey and guide.

DIRECTORY — Heard report from Margaret Sovey, public relations chairman, that she will be preparing a city business directory and a monthly chamber newsletter called "The Chamber Echo."

FEATURE — Mrs. Roberts told the board that she will be featured on the Independent-Journal woman's page tomorrow as part of a current series on mayors' wives in Marin and Southern Sonoma counties. She is the wife of Rohnert Park Mayor Arthur N. Roberts.

Army Days Over For Marinites

Three Marin residents, with a total of 75 years in the Army, have retired in ceremonies at the Presidio of San Francisco.

Lt. Col. Harry R. Hammond of 99 Gregory Drive, Fairfax, retired after 27 years of service, mostly as an antiaircraft commander with units in the United States and Europe.

Retiring after 28 years in the Army was Chief Warrant Officer Michael F. Meleney of 735 Sunset Parkway, Novato. During most of his career he served as a unit supply technician with units in the United States, Europe and the Pacific.

S/Sgt. Albert Waite, an administrative supervisor serving in the United States and Korea, retired after 20 years of service. Wait, lives at 42 Leafwood Circle, San Rafael.

Bike Path Session Set For Wednesday

Another stab at getting a bicycle path connection between Marin and San Francisco will be tried by the security committee of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday in district offices at the toll plaza.

Plans for the path have been snagged by Army denial of use of roads in either the Presidio of San Francisco or Fort Baker, and insistence on special paths through the forts.

Cotati Rezoning Action Delayed

The Cotati Planning Commission has continued a public hearing on proposed zoning of land on East Cotati Avenue to the March 19 meeting.

The Northwestern Pacific Railroad, owner of 1.5 acres, had requested the unclassified district be zoned foe heavy commercial use. Company officials said they intend to lease the land to a firm planning to use it for automobile storage.

The commission, acting on a staff recommendation Wednesday, asked that a section of the land be zoned as light eommercial as a buffer strip with adjoining zones.

VETERANS AUDITORIUM GROWS

Looking little like the 800-seat arena it will become, the Veterans Memorial Auditorium rises out of the Fair-Marin grounds north of the Civic Center. The mass of steel supports shown in this view from the arena's stage is holding up its partially completed domed roof. Completion of the auditorium, under construction by Paul V. Wright, Inc. and Ben Ordtsky, Inc. of Santa Rosa, is scheduled for late December. The arena will cost $3,961,731, according to present estimates. (Independent-Journal photo by Bob Hax)

POLL ON CAMPUS REBELS:

Expel And Prosecute

NEW YORK (UPI) — If the average adult American had his way, students who disrupt the operation of their schools would be expelled and prosecuted in the criminal courts, a Sindlinger Survey reports.

Only 6.9 per cent of those interviewed said they agreed with the student protesters.

The survey, conducted Feb. 26-March 3 and released yesterday, showed 87.3 per cent of those questioned agreed with Notre Dame President Theodore Hesburgh that student demonstrators who disrupt classes should be given 15 minutes to stop and expelled if they did not.

Just 4.2 per cent disagreed with Hesburgh, while 8.6 per cent said they had no opinion.

Sindlinger said 63.6 per cent favored legislation making the disruption of education a crime, with 26 per cent opposed to this and 10.5 per cent with no opinion.

Sindlinger and Co., a market analysis firm, conducts its polls by long distance telephone to every state except Hawaii and Alaska. The telephone numbers are chosen by a computer programmed to make representative selections of voting age Americans.

Richardson Bay Plans Hit Snags

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — Two major projects planned if Richardson Bay ran afoul of a pair of tough problems yesterday before the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

One project, a $25 million high-rise development proposed on 15 acres of fill, brought heated objections from a neighboring tideland property owner. His land was in the open-space lagoon planned by the deveolpers to help sell BCDC on their application for a fill permit, his attorney charged.

Conservationists, repeating objectings voiced at the commission's first hearing on the project in October, said the high-rise was not in accord with either the county's nor the commission's master plans for the bay, would block views of the bay, and could be built elsewhere without filling the bay.

The other project, the long-sought dredging of Saucelito Canal, ran into a suggestion that the 700,000 cubic yards of dredged mud be dumped near Alcatraz Island only during ebb tides — a suggestion Marin officials conceded could hike the cost of the project enough to make it difficult to finance.

"It would be a nightmare," said Mill Valley City Engineer Stanley M. Bala of the prospect of dumping only during the two times a day when the tide rushes out the Golden Gate.

Asked how much the dumping limit would hike his $945,000 cost estimate for the project, Marin County Public Works Director Donald R. Frost said from 10 to 25 per cent.

Commissioners will vote on the two projects at 2 p.m. on March 21 when they meet again in Room 1194 in the State Building, 455 Golden Gate Avenue. Thirteen votes are needed to approve each.

The dredging of the canal — endorsed by the Marin Conservation League — would extend for 2.5 miles from the Army Corps of Engineers turning basin to the Mill Valley small craft harbor, now under construction. The cost is to be shared by the corps with the City of Mill Valley and property owners along the canal, who formed the Richardson Bay Channel Dredging District to assess themselves for the project.

The suggestion to limit dumping to ebb tides grew out of an incomplete study of bay siltation by the corps. The restriction would mean 70 to 80 per cent of the mud would be flushed out the Golden

Moon Craft Solo Flight A Success

'Spider' Catches 'Gumdrop'

COMBINED AP & UPI

SPACE CENTER, Houston — Flying with speed and precision, astronauts James A. McDivitt and Russell L. Schweickart today guided their fragile lunar module to a successful rendezvous and linkup with the Apollo 9 command ship and may have hastened an American landing on the moon.

After executing the perfect rendezvous, the two ships circled for 25 minutes, inspecting systems and taking pictures.

FINAL CAPTURE

Then the command module moved in for the final capture, inserting a docking mechanism that locked the two craft firmly together.

"It's really sporty," McDivitt said as he eased the mooncraft, nicknamed "Spider," toward the command ship.

"I have capture," he exclaimed.

"OK, Houston, we're locked up," Air Force Col. David R. Scott called out from the command ship, code named "Gumdrop."

"Wow! I haven't heard a sound that good for a long time," McDivitt said after a signal tone indicated the two ships were locked up. "I'm going to sleep for three days," he reported.

LANDING LEGS

McDivitt and Schweickart came back with less than half the ship they started with. Midway through the rendezvous they fired their descent stage engine in the lower half and then kicked it away with its four landing legs.

Later today, they'll leave the remainder of the LEM in space after returning to the command module.

It was the third straight day in which the LEM had performed flawlessly under rigorous testing. Officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration had said before the launching Monday that such a performance could lead to an earlier than planned moon landing attempt.

Ray Guilty Plea Ready, Paper Says

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — James Earl Ray's lawyer was granted a Monday appearance in Criminal Court as an Alabama newspaper reported today that Ray plans to plead guilty in the death of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and will receive a 99-year sentence.

A spokesman for Judge Preston Battle, who is scheduled to preside at Ray's trial next month, said Ray's lawyer had sought and been granted the hearing. There was no indication what the hearing would concern.

In Huntsville, Ala., however, the Huntsville Times reported Ray will plead guilty to the assassination of King last April 4 and receive a 99-year sentence.

The Times wrote that it learned the State of Tennessee would recommend the 99-year sentence "when Ray pleads guilty."

King was shot to death here last April 4 as he stood on the balcony of the Lorraine Motel, where he was staying after arriving to lead a demonstration in behalf of the city's 1,200 garbage collectors.

The garbage workers at that time were on strike for a union contract and higher wages—issues which were settled soon after King's death.

Dist. Atty. Gen. Phil Canale had no comment on the Huntsville Times report. State Atty. Gen. George McCanless was not available.

Tiburon Sees Revised Angel Island Scheme

By ANNE BARDWELL

The pressure of public opinion has forced review and revision of controversial preliminary plans for the East Garrison development on Angel Island, a state official told the Tiburon Parks and Recreation Commission last night.

Harry Dean, supervisor with the state Parks and Recreation Department, told the commission and audience of 15 persons that the original proposal for convention facilities, including an auditorium, a marina, overnight facilities and a restaurant is being restudied because of strong objections from citizens.

Dean said the proposed marina with berthing facilities for 206 boats was dropped in favor of mooring facilities for 100 boats after state planners learned the marina alone would cost a minimum of $1.5 million to develop.

The revised plans for the East Garrison will not be ready for public viewing until the end of March, Dean said, but he assured the commission that they would not include the auditorium, covered swimming pools, shops and hotel facilities first proposed.

"We are cutting back on everything and will develop a simpler plan for the area," he said.

Plans for developing other areas on the island have re-

Marin Black Students Ask Firing, Rap 'Goon Squad'

Black Student Union leaders today made new demands of the College of Marin which include removal of a white "racist" student activities adviser, reform of election procedures and an end to physical education "goon squads."

A deadline of Monday was placed on the demands to be fulfilled with the warning that, if they are not, the college will be faced with something it doesn't want to see.

The full demands, made to a press conference in the Student Center were:

"1. We insist that the Administration, specifically Lou Herkenhoff, (acting president) immediately force Dave Garber to resign from his office as adviser to the students of COM and that he permanently be removed from the College of Marin campus.

"2. That the election be conducted differently than it has been in the past, namely that the ballot box be placed in a centrally located spot outside the Student Center thus making it more accessible. We also insist that Third World Liberation Front Association (TWLFA) members be permitted to be present during all of the balloting taking place.

"3. We further insist that all the demands made by the BSU that have not as of yet been met, namely dmands numbers 2, 3 and 6, the recruiting programs for black students, more black counselors, and financial aid for all black students, be fulfilled."

$5 Billion In Aircraft Lost In War

SAIGON (UPI)—The United States has lost 5,002 helicopters and airplanes in the Vietnam War worth a total of about $5 billion, military spokesmen said today.

The announcement accompanied Allied reports of 40 more Communist shellings late yesterday and early today against eight South Vietnamese towns and 32 Allied military camps, many of them major American bases on the approaches to Saigon.

The guerrillas unleashed their latest overnight barrages on Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird's first night in Saigon on a trip keyed to discussing what he called "appropriate response" to the now 13-day-old Communist offensive.

South Vietnam's vice president, Nguyen Cao Ky, returned home from the peace talks in Paris today urging a resumption in the bombing of North Vietnam. He said South Vietnam also was considered pulling out of the talks if the Reds do not stop their attacks on cities and towns.

In Paris, a Hanoi spokesman said, "We are not afraid of American bombings. President Johnson has been bombing us for four years and met defeat. If President Nixon follows in his steps, he will meet with the same defeat."

It was the northern bombing campaign, halted last Nov. 1, which took a heavy toll of American warplanes and reflected in the total U.S. air losses for the war reported today.

The announcement said the United States has lost 2,593 fixed-wing aircraft and 2,409 helicopters since Jan. 1, 1961. Of them, 1,292 warplanes and 1,023 helicopters were lost to Communist groundfire.

Among the U.S. bases shelled during the night were the U.S.

MISSING LINK — Arrow indicates where Ernest N. Kettenhofen would link Sleepy Hollow with San Rafael and Terra Linda. The proposed road connection would tie the end of Fox Lane to the end of Esmeyer Drive.

CONTROVERSY REVIVED

Kettenhofen Seeks Sleepy Hollow Link

By JERRY MEGAHAN

The touchy subject of a traffic link between Sleepy Hollow and Terra Linda arose again yesterday when ex-County Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen sprang a proposed new route on his KTIM radio program in a discussion with James F. Reed of the San Anselmo City Council.

The new route would be a variation on the old A Route originally suggested in 1962 by engineer Carlos Gonzales when preparing plans for developers of the Northgate Shopping Center.

The A route in the Gonzales plan would have connected Butterfield Road via Fawn Drive in Sleepy Hollow as a proposed extension of the Manuel Freitas Parkway. It was rejected by the Sleepy Hollow Home Owners Association May 3, 1962.

"It would require only an additional 245 feet of paving and would cost only $20,000 to $25,000," Kettenhofen said. "It could be financed locally and could be built within a year."

Kettenhofen suggested that the connection would be useful from the standpoint of safety for Sleepy Hollow residents in the event of a natural disaster such as fire and as relief for some of the east-west traffic congestion along Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

Reed said that the proposal was a new one to him but added that he doubted that one route would solve the east-west transit problem.

"What the majority of San Anselmo residents would like to see . . . is the development of multiple routes plus a future bypass into West Marin," said

Senators Request Delay On Sentinel

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee asked the Nixon administration today to defer deployment of new missile systems—including the ABM—pending efforts to arrange negotiations with the Soviet Union on limiting nuclear weapons.

The committee commented in its report urging approval of the nuclear nonproliferation treaty, which went to the Senate floor.

Committee Chairan J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., predicted the pact to curb the spread of nuclear weapons will win the necessary two-thirds approval by the middle of next week.

The suggestion for delaying deployment of offensive and defensive nuclear weapons is advisory only and approval of the treaty would not mandate any such step.

Fulbright said the proposal for delay applied to the controversial Sentinel antiballistic missile (ABM) system, although it was not mentioned specifically.

The report cites the treaty's Article VI, under which nations joining the pact promise to "pursue negotiations in good faith on effective measures relating to cessation of the nuclear arms race at an early date."

Throughout the hearings, several committee members insisted that U.S. approval of the treaty would bar deployment of the Sentinel at least until attempts were made to bring about talks on arms reduction.

Administration spokesmen declined to make any such commitments.

The committee pressed home the point in its report, however:

"In order to give effect to Article VI, the committee believes that the administration should consider deferring the deployment of these weapons until it has had time to make an earnest effort to pursue meaningful discussions with the Soviet Union."

Meanwhile, three scientists have told a Senate subcommittee that the Sentinel antiballistic missile system could not guarantee that American population centers would be safe from Soviet nuclear attack.

Two of them, however, told the disarmament subcommittee of the Foreign Relations Committee yesterday they saw merit in a "thin" system such as the Sentinel is designed to be.

President Nixon has promised a decision next week on whether to go ahead with construction of the Sentinel, which is designed to ward off a missile attack such as Communist China might be able to launch in the mid-1970s.

Dr. J. P. Ruina of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology testified that "deploying Sentinel against the Chinese may have some merit, but I believe there is universal agreement that deploying it to protect our population against a possible Soviet attack makes no sense at all."

Dr. Hans J. Bethe of Cornell University, a Nobel laureate in physics, agreed that Sentinel could not guarantee protection to population centers, but thought deploying missiles to protect U.S. Minuteman missiles might help stabilize the arms race.

Dr. Daniel Fink, who as deputy director of defense research and engineering was active in development of antimissile plans, said he viewed a thin defense system as a deterrent and testified that "the lack of any defense might encourage the outbreak of conflict."

Defense Witness Cites 'Helpless' Police Clubbings

Young, a defense witness, said those struck were primarily "the old and female and rather helpless."

He said police "systematically clubbed" persons while they were attempting to disperse during a "Stop The Draft Week" demonstration at the center.

Utility Urges Thermal Policy

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Pacific Gas and Electric Co. has urged the state to adopt thermal and radiological regulations proposed by local antipollution boards.

"We support the principle which provides for regional adoption and enforcement of water quality objectives that recognize local conditions and the setting of discharge requirements which are considered on a case-by-case basis," the utility said.

The company's position was expressed yesterday at a hearing of the state Water Quality Control Board called to set standards for controlling temperatures of interstate and state waters.

East Germany Closes Main Berlin Link Eighth Time

BERLIN (AP) — East Germany closed down the main autobahn linking West Berlin with West Germany again today, the eighth time since Saturday the road has been barricaded to Western traffic.

Border spokesmen at Helmstedt, in West Germany, and in West Berlin said the shutdown came at 2 p.m.

West Germany hoped East Germany would quit harassing Berlin traffic after the West German presidential election in West Berlin two days ago. The election had been the target of repeated Communist threats and warnings.

Soviet forces in East Germany and the East German army began extended maneuvers between Berlin and the West German frontier last Saturday. They are concentrated along the main autobahn, a 110-mile road that is Berlin's main access.

It was understood the maneuvers will continue until Monday. It was a question whether the harassment would continue until then or even beyond.

Mayor Klaus Schuetz told reporters in West Berlin that so far he had no evidence that the repeated closings of the autobah had adversely affected the islated city's economy.

Gold Price Soars Again In Paris

PARIS (AP) — Gold soared to another record high on the Paris free market today as labor unions pressed ahead with plans for a nationwide strike next week to back their demands for big wage increases.

Despite indications that the government was trying to dampen the speculative fever on gold, the price for an ounce bounced up to $48.31, compared to $47.92 yesterday. Since last Friday, the ounce price has gone up $2.08 as Frenchmen worried over the future of the franc sought a haven for their liquid funds.

Gold prices were on a merry-go-round all over Europe, with prices up everywhere.

By midday, gold was quoted at $43.45-$43.65 in Zurich, from yesterday's close of $43.15-$43.45. Dealers said volume might come close to the 11-12 toons traded yesterday.

The morning fixing price in London was $43.60, compared with $43.23 at yesterday afternoon's fixing.

The Frankfurt market opened at $43.14-$43.45, then climbed to $43.50-$43.70.

The British pound, French franc and U.S. dollar weakened.

In Frankfurt, the dollar opened at 4.0050 marks, down from yesterday's closing at 4.0150. Dealers said the Deutsche Bundesbank was forced to absorb "considerable quantities" of dollars. Sterling opened at 9.5680 marks, down from 9.5950.

The gold and monetary situation will come up for discussion at the regular monthly meeting of the Western world's leading central bankers in Basel, Switzerland, this weekend. But the meeting is not expected to yield any immediate action.

Word that the Bank of France has ceased supporting French bank notes reached the Zurich currency market, and the interbank rate for conversions of amounts exceeding 50,000 Swiss francs promptly declined to 82.3-82.4 Swiss francs for 100 French francs, compared with an average price of 83 yesterday.

124 Koreans Saved

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — A U.S. Army helicopter made nine trips to the roof of a burning 13-story apartment house in Seoul today to rescue 124 Koreans trapped there.

The UH1B Huey helicopter was piloted by Maj. Rex Turner of Ozark, Ala. The co-pilot was Leo LaMontagne of Vallejo, and the doorman was Spec. 4 Stanton Wildung of Redwood City.

Turner said Wildung entered the building once and went down the 12th floor to rescue a woman hanging from a window. The Koreans fled to the roof because the fire on the third floor knocked out the elevator.

The blaze did heavy damage to some 60 businesses occupying space on the lower floors, but there were no casualties.

Cummings Divorce

LOS ANGELES (AP) — After 24 years of marriage, actor Robert Cummings is filing for divorce. He accused his actress wife Mary Elliott of extreme cruelty in the suit filed yesterday.

Cummings, 58, asked that his wife be given custody of four children — Mary, 20, Sharon, 18, Laural, 14, and Anthony, 12. Another son is Robert, 23. The complaint said the couple married March 3, 1945, and separated Oct. 31, 1967.

Actor's Sons Balk

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Sterling Hayden's sons Christian and Thor say they are ready to go to jail rather than submit to military service against their beliefs.

Thor, 19, refused induction at the Oakland Army Center on Wednesday. Christian, 20, refused to report for a pre-induction physical examination yesterday in Los Angeles.

Christian sent a registered letter saying he was conscientious objector and would not serve even in a non hostile capacity.

Defecter Balks

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A U.S. Army Sergeant who defected to East Germany March 1 at Berlin has refused to meet with American officials behind the Iron Curtain to explain his actions, according to the State Department. The department said they had asked soviet authorities in East Berlin to arrange a meeting with Sgt. Thomas E. Kavanaugh, but received word Kavanaugh did not want such a meeting.

Reds Busy In Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — A number of North Vietnamese and Pathet Lao movements in Laos were reported in the past 24 hours, a defense ministry spokesman said today.

In southern Laos, two North Vietnamese and Pathet Lao battalions attacked Ban Na Lao, while three battalions hit Souvanna Hilii 25 miles away. Fighting was continuing at Ban Na Lao, the spokesman said.

Truman Takes Stroll

Truman stopped to talk at the post office. The postmaster is Edgar G. Hinde Jr., who holds the same job his father held as a Truman appointee.

Truman was hospitalized for almost a week undergoing treatment for intestinal flu and, after he recovered, receiving routine tests.

Dope Crackdown Set

ANKARA (AP) — Backed by a loan from the United States, Turkey announced new measures today to control narcotics smuggling and illegal opium cultivation.

The $3 million U.S. loan, made last year, has been used to train and equip narcotics agents and to help farmers develop substitute crops.

Bipartisan Offer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Rogers C. B. Morton of Maryland, who will become Republican national chairman next month, says he would be willing to discuss political convention reform and nonpartisan fundraising with the Democrats.

But, Morton said in an interview yesterday, no arrangements for joint studies have been made and he has not been approached directly on the subject.

"I don't think there should be a wall against communication at any level," he said, adding that within the Republican party "we are already talkin about delegate selection. I think we are ahead of the Democrats in that matter."

Post To Otepka?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sources close to Otto F. Otepka say he may be offered a post on the Subversive Activities Control Board, a move that could settle the five-year-old controversy that began when he was fired as the State Department's chief security evaluator.

No one would confirm or deny the reports, but Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., said he had heard of the proposal and would "give attention to it." He denied sponsoring the suggestion.

Otepka was fired on grounds he provided secret information from department files to the Senate internal security subcommittee.

Sun-Moon Pull Cause Of Quakes?

PASADENA (UPI) — When the sun and moon are in line with the earth, their combined gravitational pull may be strong enough to trigger earthquakes, a geophysicist said today.

Dr. C. Hewitt Dix of the California Institute of Technology said the pull might have touched off the destructive 1952 Kern County quake, the strongest in Southern California in 95 years.

Dix said there is no single factor that triggers earthquakes but he pointed out that the sun and moon were in almost a perfect line with earth at the time of the main Kern County shock.

The quake had a magnitude of 7.7 on the Richter scale. It claimed 14 lives and caused an estimated $60 million damage.

Dix said the ground moves up and down about eight inches in strong tidal action, but for the pull to set off an earthquake the ground must already be under enough stress so that a small additional strain is sufficient to set it in motion.

At the instant of the main Kern County shock, Dix said, both the sun and moon were in line over the Sahara in North Africa, causing a tidal bulge of several inches.

At the same moment, the pull compressed the earth in California.

"Both were in a position to exert maximum effect on the White Wolf Fault on which the quake's epicenter was located," Dix said. "The fault line pointed almost directly at the sun and the new moon."

Judge Blocks Chromosomes Insanity Plea

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It takes more than a double dose of male chromosomes to prove a man is legally insane when he commits a violent crime, a judge has ruled.

Raymond S. Tanner, who previously pleaded guilty to charges of kidnaping, beating and raping a woman in suburban Van Nuys, had sought to enter an additional plea of innocent by reason of insanity.

His attorney, Howard Meyerson, contended that because Tanner has one more male chromosome per body cell than most men, he could not prevent himself from committing the rape.

Superior Court Judge Maurice T. Leader heard geneticists argue about the behavior of such "XYY" males for six weeks, before ruling yesterday that there is no clear link between the chromosomal abnormality and behavior.

The prosecution and the defense agreed that Tanner, 33, has an extra Y, or male, chromosome—a thread-like strand that carries the blueprints of human heredity.

The prosecution maintained Tanner's genetic make-up had little or nothing to do with the assault—arguing it was more likely because Tanner came from a home with a brutal father and an indulgent mother.

Meyerson said Tanner's body chemistry was such that he was subject to ungovernable desires and was thus legally insane.

Judge Leader said research in the field of genetics is 30 years behind the point where it can be used in the courts. Until more research is done, he said, a ruling on insanity would "open a Pandora's box to show that anti-social criminal activity by aggressive individuals should be permitted merely because of the XYY syndrome."

Nearly half of all Christmas trees sold in California in 1968 came from the State of Washington.

Slaying Of Surfer Linked To Marijuana

HONOLULU (UPI)—The slaying of a California surfer as he slept in a beach cottage was a cold-blooded prod to get his friends to give money and marijuana to the killers, police said Thursday.

William H. Pond Jr., 19, of Costa Mesa, was shot Tuesday night as three frightened friends looked on.

Police said the friends, Ted H. Rogers, Steve Shula and Dave Dannon, were told they'd get the same if they didn't cooperate. They then turned over $700 and an undisclosed amount of marijuana, officers said.

Pond apparently knew Shula, 18, and Rogers, 19, in Newport Beach before he came to Hawaii Feb. 27, police said.

Officers said Pond was asleep when the gunmen entered the cottage at Sunset Beach, a popular surfing town across the island from Honolulu.

When the youths denied they had any drugs or money, one of the assailants walked to where Pond was sleeping on a cot and shot him "as a sample of what the others would get," a detective said.

The youths said the gunmen carried long-barrelled pistols and were unmasked.

Police indicated the amount of marijuana involved was "considerable." About a half pound of bulk marijuana, possibly dropped by the assailants as they fled, was founud outside the cottage.

Hearing Held On Car Theft

Robert Bruce Lane, 28, former Marinite who now lives in Tacoma, Wash., was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for two counts of car theft. The case was continued for one day for a report from the probation department regarding bail.

Lane was held in Marin County Jail in lieu of $5,000.

Lane was arrested by Mill Valley police Wednesday while driving a car allegedly stolen in San Francisco earlier in the day.

He is also charged with stealing a car Feb. 13.

State Students Charged After Shooting, Bombing

COMBINED AP & UPI

A Negro student at San Francisco State College was charged today with firing into an occupied building, possession of loaded guns and having guns on campus after a shooting incident at the strike-troubled school last night.

Police said at least six pistol shots were fired, several into Merced Hall, a student residence building. Others broke a cafeteria window and a street lamp.

James L. Kennedy, 21, was arrested in Merced Hall, where he lives. Police confiscated a .38 caliber revolver and a .25-caliber automatic and ammunition.

Another Negro youth remained hospitalized in critical condition after a bomb blast in a college building Wednesday night.

At the University of California's Berkeley campus, 60 policemen were routed from the basement of Sproul Hall yesterday when a highway patrolman accidentally dropped a tear gas cannister. (Other campus troubles, page 19.)

The injured San Francisco State student, Timothy Peebles, 29, of East Palo Alto, was identified as a member of the Black Students Union.

Police said he was blinded, his hands nearly ripped off and his chest crushed when a bomb exploded prematurely in a locker room of the Creative Arts Building of the 17,000-student campus long troubled by a strike of minority group students.

The explosion was the third at the school since the start of a student strike Nov. 6. Peebles was the second person injured. A security guard was hurt Feb. 16 in an explosion at the administration building.

"It's only a matter of time until someone loses his life," San Francisco Police Chief Thomas Cahill said.

The Berkeley campus was reported calm, although some 150 students staged a noon-hour snake dance through the central campus area. The tear gassing incident occurred among a contingent of police who have remained on the campus since wild melees broke out two weeks ago.

ty by power of the Executive Council.

But, said Scott, Conrad was told by Garber that he was ineligible after the Black Student Union demanded the election be halted because of an illegal ballot. The union said the ballot was illegal because no space was alloted for women's sophomore representative. They also charged some people voted more than once.

Scott stated that, when Garber was informed of the illeglaity and asked to halt the election, he refused.

"We of the TWLFA feel that Dave Garber's refusal to bring the election to an immediate halt indicates a collaboration on his part and ot other students, specifically goons from the athletic department acting as bodyguards to influence the outcome of the election.

"We feel," Scott continued, "that all of the above statements strongly indicate that Dave Garber is a racist and has endorsed racist policy. . . . His opposition to any move by minority groups on the campus clearly indicates that he is not qualified to keep the office that he now holds."

Asked to explaijn the "goon squads," Scott said that a group appears at meetings where black students might come "to try to influence the outcoming decision."

He added that Garber and the administration are involved in the tactic of coercion and intimidation. The squads are from both the athletic department and judo wrestling team.

Asked if blacks have been physically touched by the squads, Scott said, "they never actually do anything physically but black students have been trying very much to keep it cool in this respect."

Dr. Louis Herkenhoff, acting president, said later he has no intention of removing Garber from his office.

He explained that the press conference "jumped the gun." and was called before any attempt was made to contact anybody at the college. They are using the media to publicize something that is pretty illegitimate (the demands)."

Herkenhoff said the student executive council, when it heard yesterday of irregularities in the ballot, called a meeting for 3 p.m. today.

Herkenhoff said that his staff is trying to get information together on the election which has now been rescheduled for Monday and Tuesday.

The Black Student Union made six demands last fall and, of these, Scott said, three have been met.

They are, black studies should be taught by black teachers; change the experimental black studies program to a transferable program and a black students liaison worker should be placed on a full-time salary basis and added to her role the role fo financial aide coordinator.

tectives and returned after lengthy legal proceedings to face a murder charge in King's death.

He is accused of shooting King from ambush from a rooming house across the street from the motel, but has denied it.

On his return, Ray has been held in a specially armored and air-conditioned cell at the Shelby County Jail under tight security. He first was scheduled to go on trial in November, but fired Arthur Hanes, former Birmingham, Ala., mayor as his lawyer on the eve of that trial.

He then retained Percy Foreman, nationally-known criminal lawyer from Houston, Tex., and the trial was postponed until March 3. Foreman was granted a second postponement until April 7, on grounds that he had not had time to prepare a defense in the complex case.

The Huntsville newspaper quoted a source close to the case as saying the guilty plea "is the only way Ray can escape the death sentence" and win a 99-year term.

The Times said its source reported that such a sentence would have to be imposed by the jury. However, plans are for the jury to be empaneled and each juror will be asked if he would abide by the recommendation of the court, the source was quoted.

The costliest shelling of a town killed one child and wounded 12 other South Vietnamese civilians at Dalat, a Central Highlands resort 140 miles northeast of Saigon, spokesmen said.

War communiques reported no major ground fighting in progress. They said U.S. soldiers killed a total of 104 Communists, northwest of Saigon and in the Highlands, in battles Thursday.

mained substantially the same, Dean said. These include:

Ayala Cove which, along with the East Garrison, will be one of the two main entrances to the park, will have mooring facilities for 40 boats, a service dock for private and official boats, picnic facilities including a group picnic area in the eucalyptus grove, snack bar, bike rental area, ticket booth for the elephant train and at least one restored historical building.

The North Garrison will have overnight camping facilities for 500 persons, including group camping areas, some simple building in which hot meals can be served to campers by a concessionnaire and barracks for park personnel.

Wooden platforms with roofs will be constructed for campers, although, Dean said, he is considering incorporating some unsheltered camping areas for families interested in roughing it.

Point Blunt will be developed with picnic areas off the loop road adjacent to the old Nike missile base which may be restored "so that when an elephant train rounds the corner an electric eye will activate a missile and it will rise out of its silo."

Dean also said the beach adjacent to the Coast Guard facility on the point could be developed for use by private boaters approaching from the bay.

At the West Garrison some of the historical buildings will be restored including the general's house, which will include a museum; the mule barn; chapel, and hospital.

Other restoration, Dean said, might include replacement of gun batteries ("We may have to use wooden gun barrels if we can't find authentic guns"), flag poles, real mules and "perhaps even people dressed in authentic costumes of the era wandering around."

Alcatraz Gardens will be developed as a family picnic area.

Dean said a maximum of 10,000 persons would be permitted on the island at any one time.

He also said embarcation points for the park have been considered for Berkeley, Richmond, Alameda, San Francisco, Jack London Square in Oakland, Fort Baker, the naval net depot on the Tiburon Peninsula and the City of Tiburon.

However, he said, "The city says it doesn't want to become a parking lot for Angel Island and if it still feels that way we just won't include it as an embarcation point."

The state will not leave the island undeveloped, Dean said, because it believes every segment of the population should be able to enjoy a park. "But in order to do that we must develop the island properly, so we won't ruin it, he said.

He cautioned that no economic feasibility study has been made of the proposed preliminary plan. "If it won't go (financially) then we will have to revise our plans." The state hopes for an average one-third return on its investment from all state parks, he said.

Comments from the audience were mainly critical with one man saying, "The state is trying to make a common place of Angel Island. Get 500 or 1000 people camping there and you'll get a lot of garbage."

Joseph C. Marshall, Tiburon planning commissioner, suggested the state use horse or mule drawn wagons instead of "those Mickey Mouse elephant trains."

Completion of the island's recreational development is tentatively scheduled for 1975, he said.

The commission took no action on the proposed plan but said it would consider a resolution outlining any objections at its March 20 meeting.

Five Fined For Drunken Driving

Five persons have been sentenced in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving.

Judge Alvin B. Goldstein ordered Francis Delano Raffenelli, 33, of Healdsburg, to pay a $350 fine and placed him on one year probation. He was arrested March 21, 1968, on Highway 101.

Dale Rollo Frost, 33, of 1566 South Novato Boulevard, Novato, was placed on six months probation and fined $125. He was arrested Oct. 29 on Lincoln Avenue in San Rafael.

Calvin Charles Gaare, 38, of 136 Harvard Avenue, Mill Valley, who was arrested Feb. 3 on Highway 101, was fined $240 and placed on six months probation.

Edward Anthony Sarmento, 28, of 61 Canal Street, Apartment 9, San Rafael, who was arrested Sept. 24 on Highway 101, was fined $150 and placed on six months probation.

Justine Virginia Recluse, 45, of 42 Los Alondras Court, Novato, was fined $150 and placed on six months probation. She was arrested Feb. 16 on Highway 101.

Judge Hadden W. Roth sentenced Frost, Gaare, Sarmento and Mrs. Recluse.

ROUTE

Reed, adding that many people thought that Sleepy Hollow-Terra Linda was not the only possible route.

"I think it's essential to have several east-west connections in order to avoid turning a single route into a major traffic artery," he said.

Kettenhofen acknowledged the point but noted that in casting about for a major solution to the problem, city councils and civic groups had blocked piecemeal action which would at least alleviate the congestion created by need for an east-west route in Marin.

"I think we need a connection between Sleepy Hollow and Terra Linda as well as an east-west route," he said.

While both men avoided getting into discussion of the controversial Highway 17 extension, Reed said that the San Anselmo City Council has been in favor of some kind of east-west connection for more than two years but felt that there would have to be some agreement with other county agencies.

"The local agencies must decide this thing among themselves before taking this to the state level," Reed said. "Otherwise, it'll be just like the last time. They'll set us against ourselves and we'll end up with nothing."

APOLLO

the Apollo 10 crew to orbit the moon with a LEM in May, with Apollo 11 to try the landing in July. The officials said there was a possibility of skipping Apollo 10 and moving to the Apollo 11 mission, advancing it to a June launch.

Today's hazardous rendezvous mission began at 4:40 a.m. PST when they disengaged the lunar module, or LEM, from Apollo 9 after a brief hangup when the docking mechanism didn't unlatch immediately. It released on the second try.

The two vehicles maneuvered close by initially, because, for the first time, men were orbiting the earth in a ship that can't get them home. The LEM was built to operate in space and on the moon but cannot re-enter the earth's atmosphere.

After making certain all systems were working, McDivitt and Schweickart took off, firing a series of jet bursts that placed them in a 156-mile high orbit, 10 miles above Scott's command module.

At the higher altitude, the LEM took longer to make a circuit of the earth and gradually fell behind, reaching maximum trailing distance of 113 miles about 8:37 a.m. PST.

The gap between hunter and hunted narrowed gradually as McDivitt and Schweickart executed maneuvers similar to those that astronauts will have to make in launching themselves from the moon.

After early checks showed the $41 million spider was working as planned, McDivitt fired the ship's big landing engine, controlling its power with a hand throttle much like those found on railroad locomotives. Controllers reported the 25-second burst went perfectly.

McDivitt and Schweickart slithered into the lunar module without their bubble helmets and gloves, showing the new confidence they have in their ship. Previously they wore pressurized suits in case an atmosphere leak should develop.

But the only emergency oxygen supply available for McDivitt was a container able to keep him ablive about 30 minutes, called an ops for oxygen purge system.

If docking were not possible, but the two spacecraft could get close together, the plan called for Schweickart to wear the backpack and McDivitt to hop across with the ops.

Nurses Seek 10 Per Cent Wage Hike, Other Benefits

County nurses, whose salaries range from $650 to a maximum of $1,008 for the supervisory public health nurse, are asking for a 10 per cent pay raise for the new fiscal year.

The California Nurses Association, representing 15 county nurses, made the request in a proposed agreement submitted to County Administrator Alan Bruce.

Among the new benefits requested:

Any work required beyond the normal 40-hour week should be compensated by time off at the rate of one and one-half hours for each hour of overtime.

If the cost of living index for the Bay Area, as published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, shows an increase of more than 2.5 per cent for the last quarter of 1968, salaries should be raised by 5 per cent on Jan. 1, 1970.

Any nurse required to have an automobile as a condition of employment shall be reimbursed $30 per month for up to 250 miles of use. Beyond the 250 miles, the nurse will get 12 cents per mile.

Each nurse shall be entitled to five days leave per year with pay to attend professional or educational activities in the nursing field.

The nurses group is the fourth bargaining unit to present demands to the county. The others are the Marin County Employees Association, which has 645 dues-paying members; Social Workers Union Local 535, AFL-CIO, representing 70 employees, and Probation Workers Union Local 535, AFL-CIO, representing 60 employees.

Judge Orders Medical Exam

A medical examination was ordered yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for a 23-year-old man who told the judge he knew he was Jesus Christ because he had read the Book of Revelations and understood it.

Judge Peter Allen Smith asked the man, who had been arrested for hitchhiking on the freeway, "Do you claim you're the Saviour or are you just using the name 'Jesus Christ'."

The man replied that he had already saved the world.

Judge Smith finally elicited the information that the young man had been named Patrick Hyde 'in another life" but questions about his parents only brought the response that they were "Joseph and Mary."

Out Of Hospital

Sgt. Gerald B. McClean, 37, of 132 East Kelly Drive, Hamilton Air Force Base, was released yesterday from the base hospital after treatment for an overdose of pills taken about 10 p.m. Tuesday, according to base officials.

Anti-HHH Marchers' Plight Told

CHICAGO (AP) — A police sergeant testified that two groups of Democratic National Convention delegates carrying signs which said "Dump the Hump" had to be rescued from angry South Side mobs last Aug. 29.

Sgt. Raymond O'Malley appeared yesterday in the Circuit Court trial of 13 delegates and campaign workers arrested during the march. Among the defendants charged with disorderly conduct are writer Murray Kempton, a New York delegate, and Patricia Saltonstall, a cousin of former Sen. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts.

O'Malley testified that one of the groups was beset by angry whites in Mayor Richard J. Daley's own 11th Ward. Police had to round up the delegates, put them in squad cars and drive them to safety, he said.

Another group of delegates opposed to presidential candidate Hubert Humphrey was harassed by thousands of angry Negroes in a second South Side neighborhood, the police officer testified.

The city has presented five witnesses in the first week of the trial and each testified he believed the march constituted a threat to Chicago's security.

ART REVIEW

History Of Kline's Work Is Outstanding

By LAURA DEVENDORF

SAN FRANCISCO — Franz Kline's abstract expressionist canvases," . . . are among the strongest and most important statements made by an artist during the exciting decade of the 1950s," said John Gordon, Curator of the Whitney Museum.

It was Gordon who assembled the 70-piece Kline retrospective being exhibited through March 30 at the San Francisco Museum of Art in the Civic Center.

The exhibit traces the late artist's development through the figure drawings and somber landscapes of the early 1940s, through the abstraction of subjects in the early 1950s, to the ultimate huge, calligraphic images into which Kline's work finally evolved.

These last massive canvases, especially the ones in black and white, assign Kline his importance. Looming like brooding monoliths, they have a dark explosive presence which results both from Kline's dramatic scheme for breaking space and from his dynamic brushwork.

The latter is a highly charged, aggressive application of black paint in strident pulls and delicate textures, on surfaces that look wet and dry and dense and thin and that all together seem the very essence and quality of blackness.

Thei backgrounds are equally the quality of whiteness — clear, clean and inner-lit with a hint of dawn or spring-touched tones or elsewhere, grayed and grim. The contrasts heighten their aura. They are deeply, darkly emotional and in all of them there is an exquisite agony of excitement.

Kline's ink studies for his larger works have the same form. And in the exhibit there are also several canvases in which the blacks become splinters and chars over underworkings of color. But none express his compelling combinations of brute force and personal delicacy as do the black and white oils.

These works are something to marvel at, drawing the eye again and again into their brutal structures — there, to make new discoveries of nuance and mood within the paint itself.

The Kline exhibit is open without charge Tuesday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.; Saturday from 10 to 5 p.m. and Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m.

The city of Einnipeg, in order to preserve the downtown shopping district, is planning to cover seven blocks to provide year-around air conditioning for shoppers.

Youth Is Cited In Drug Probe

A 16-year-old Novato boy was cited to juvenile authorities yesterday on suspicion of possession of stolen property and narcotics violations after police were called to his home by his mother.

Police reported finding in his room a phonograph belonging to the Novato Unified High School District, 11 reportedly stolen records, a substance thought to be marijuana, another possibly hashish and a pipe for smoking narcotics.

The youth, John C. Wright of 1566 South Novato Boulevard, was released to the custody of his mother, Bernice, after also being cited as beyond parental control, according to police.

Youth Center Reopening Set

Sausalito's renovated Youth Center at the old Star of the Sea Church, at Harrison and Bulkley avenues, will open at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow after needed repairs.

Then in November, the Sausalito City Council appropriated $500 for building repairs and authorized the hiring of a part-time director for the center at $220 a month through June.

The Sausalito Teen Club had been meeting at the old church building last year but because of its dilapidated condition, the youths were seeking a permanent location.

No other station wagon can carry this tune.

If the Big Bands ever come back, they just might do it in a Volkswagen Station Wagon.

After all, what other wagon could take on 9 guys, instruments and 15 pieces of luggage at the same time?

What other wagon could do all that while averaging 23 miles to the gallon and only using pints of oil?

Where else could a piano player (with his piano and without the rest of the band) fit through a side door?

Or how about the bass giving out with a great big Blues number through a great big hole in the roof?

Then there's the winter circuit. (The VW is the only wagon around with rear engine traction and an engine that doesn't dig antifreeze nohow.)

New Mental Health Law Seminar Topic

The uncertainties created by California's new mental health law will be discussed tomorrow at a day-long seminar at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo.

The seminar will begin at 10 a.m. and will feature talks by State Sen. Nicholas Petris, D-Oakland, co-author of the new law; Dr. Herbert Bauer, mental health director for Yolo County; Marin County Superior Court Judge Joseph Wilson and Valerie Bradley, research analyst for the state Assembly.

The program, open to the public, is designed for mental health professionals, law enforcement officers, public officials, attorneys, physicians and social and health agency personnel.

The new mental health law — which goes into effect July 1 — provides greater protection for the civil rights of persons who are committed to state mental institutions. It also abolishes the "indeterminate" commitments of persons to mental health facilities.

The seminar is being sponsored by the Marin Association for Mental Health. Moderator for the seminar will be Dr. Alvin S. Haag, president of the county association.

Two Booked As AWOL Suspects

Two soldiers were booked into Marin County Jail early today by Corte Madera police on suspicion of being AWOL from the Presidio of San Francisco.

Arrested were E2 Allen Rick Sciarra, 19, of Healdsburg, and E4 Charles Wesley Smith, 20, of Cloverdale.

Officer Martin Van Drunen saw the men at about 2:45 a.m. walking under Highway 101 underpass at Nellen Drive carrying two tires. Their stories varied as to where they were going and Van Drunen checked the Army and found the pair AWOL.

Van Drunen said the soldiers' car had broken down in Sausalito, and they were trying to find a place to repair the tires. They had been given a ride from Sausalito to Corte Madera by California Highway Patrol officers, police said.

Lipman To Seek Mayor's Post

Petaluma City Councilman Robert S. Lipman announced yesterday that he will seek the mayor's office in the June 10 municipal election.

Lipman, who is completing his first four-year council term, says he intends to take out candidacy papers on March 27, the first day of filing. The filing period closes April 17.

The candidate, who will be 31 next month, is employed as public relations director at Sonoma State College and also operates a free lance public relations service. He lives at 1217 West Street.

Incumbent Mayor Helen Putnam said her political plans had not yet been made and that she would study Lipman's objectives before making any statements.

City Red-Faced Over Pot Poster

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The director of tree planting for San Francisco admitted today the foliage depicted in a winning "Plant-a-Tree Week" poster isn't exactly what he has in mind.

The first award blue ribbon went to a poster which pictured pot, embarrassed offcials admitted.

"They're not the sort of trees we recommend for street planting," said Brian Fewer, city tree planting director.

The 17-year-old high school youth who painted the poster, which was displayed in the lobby of a public building until its true nature became known, said he "did it to find out where people are at."

School Chief Halts Tests; To Apologize

A testing team from Tamalpais Union High School District was ordered out of Martin Luther King School in Sausalito yesterday. Sausalito Supt. Philip W. Schneider later said the test halt was a mistake and that he would apologize to the high school district.

Test administrators had given about half the school's eighth graders a series of three tests when Asst. Principal James T. Toliver Jr. called a halt to the tests, on orders from the superintendent's office.

James T. Janicula, the high school district's director of pupil planning, said the tests are those which have been given for several years to pupils entering high schools the following fall. They test reading, mathematics and mental ability and are used by counselors in deciding pupils' initial course in high school, he said. He emphasized the tests are not used to "track" students, to make final decisions or lay out "the whole future course" of a pupil in high school.

Martin Luther King Principal Robert Thomson said he scheduled the tests a month ago.

Schneider, asked why the tests were stopped, said "I stopped them. I didn't know what was going on . . . it turns out these were the normal tests the high school gives, I just hadn't been informed and didn't know about it."

Schneider said a secretary at Martin Luther King called his office when testers arrived and asked what was going on. Since he knew nothing of the tests and could not leave a meeting to investigate, Schneider said, he ordered if there were any doubts about it to stop the tests.

He will reschedule the remaining eighth grade tests, he said.

Rec Budget Is Dropped To $72,289

Corte Madera Park and Recreation commissioners approved a proposed 1969-70 budget Wednesday of $72,289.

The current budget is $112,665. Reason for the large drop is that last year's budget included $48,000 for improvement of the town's corporation yard.

Commissioners also recommended a $8,587 summer recreation program budget under a joint program with Larkspur. This compares with the current $8,420 budget.

The special park tax is currently 15 cents per $100 assessed valuation and Arthur N. Morrison, director of public works, said this figure is expected to remain the same.

About $35,000 of the budget is realized from the park tax and the remainder from the general fund tax, Morrison said.

Capital improvements in the proposed budget are $28,900, compared with the current $72,069; maintenance and operations is proposed at $42,188, compared with $40,596 currently.

The 1969-70 budget includes $3,000 for converting a storage center at 500 Tamalpais Drive to a teen center; turfing Town Park, $9,400; path paving in Town Park, $4,800 and a playground gazebo in the park, $500.

Commissioners also agreed that the proposed teen center should be opened Oct. 1 through mid-May of 1970 at an average of 25 hours per week.

They gave the Corte Madera Chamber of Commerce permission to hold an Easter egg hunt in Town Park at 11 a.m., April 5.

Impounded U.S. Airman Recovers

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — The Khmer press agency said today that Laird Osburn, a member of the crew of an American L19 plane shot down Feb. 12, has been released from a Phnom Penh hospital "completely recovered."

The agency said that Osburn is now being held at the royal naval base at Chroui Changwar, near Phnom Penh. It is believed the other three crew members were being held there too.

Tearful Court Appearance By Accused Kidnaper

The Honduras-born woman was formally charged with complicity in the kidnaping last Dec. 17 of Georgia co-ed Barbara Mackle, 20, rescued after 86 hours buried underground in a box near Atlanta. Miss Hackle's father paid $500,000 ransom, most of which was recovered.

Also charged in the case is Gary Steven Krist, 23, captured five days after the kidnaping, who was scheduled for a Georgia court arraignment today.

Her arraignment was on a package of federal charges which included extortion, interstate transportation in aid of racketeering enterprises and aiding and abetting extortion.

A hearing on extraditing Miss Schier was scheduled for next Wednesday.

Daylight saving time first went into effect in California on April 30, 1950.

Nixon Gives Three Medals Of Honor

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon bestowed the nation's highest award—the Medal of Honor—today on three Army men who he said "fought for the cause of freedom and peace" in Vietnam.

The presentation was a first for Nixon, and he said it was the highest honor for him thus far as President.

In a colorful East Room ceremony, the President presented the blue-ribboned medals with a handshake to Sgt. 1/C Fred W. Zabitosky, 26, of Trenton, N.J.; S/Sgt. Joe R. Hooper, 29, of Saugus, (Los Angeles County), and Sp/5 Clarence E. Sasser, 21, of Rosharon, Tex.

Nixon said the three "have added to the honor of America by what they have done," risking their lives for their fellow men in courageous acts.

He noted that all three were under 30 and said that there is a tendency to emphasize what is wrong with the younger generation in America sometimes.

But, he said, "These three young men demonstrated to us that we can be very proud of the younger generation. They are magnificent."

Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor read the citations crediting the men with outstanding heroism and performance under fire in January and February 1968.

Among other things, Zabitosky rescued the pilot from a burning helicopter which crashed during a fire fight.

Sasser, a medical aid man, was cited for his treatment and encouragement of wounded men during a battle even after he was wounded in the shoulder and both legs.

Hooper, a squad leader, led an assault on a heaviy defended enemy position on a riverbank. The citation said he "singlehandedly stormed three enemy bunkers, destroying them with hand grenades and rifle fire, and shot two enemy soldiers who had attacked and wounded the chaplain."

He also rescued a wounded man under fire and "neutralized the final pocket of enemy resistance by fatally wounding three North Vietnamese officers with rifle fire."

121 Teachers Face Releases

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Sacramento school district has notified 121 teachers and 23 other employees that they face losing their jobs in June because of budget cutbacks.

In his letters yesterday, Supt. Paul B. Salmon linked the cuts to the failure of voters to approve a $1.11 tax override Feb. 25.

"Dr. Salmon labeled it tragic and I think it's true—not only for the teachers who are to be released but also for the children who'll get reduced services," said Assistant Supt. Robert N. Hanson.

Salmon's notices were sent to 92 junior high school teachers, 29 senior high school teachers. Others included 14 school nurses, two music teachers assigned to visit several schools, the district's medical consultant.

Bagley's Plan For U.C. Regents Suffers Setback In The Assembly

SACRAMENTO (AP)— Legislators — unhappy with both University of California administrators and regents — have refused to act on a measure to dump Gov. Ronald Reagan and other political figures from the board of regents.

Instead, the Assembly Government Administration Committee took under submission the proposed constitutional amendment by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

Bagley charged yesterday that Reagan, Democratic Assembly leader Jesse M. Unruh and Superintendent of Public Instruction Max Rafferty, a Republican, were making political capital out of their position on the regents.

"They use the university," said Bagley.

But Assemblymen Carlos Bee, D-Hayward, and Leroy Greene, D-Sacramento, replied that present regents and administrators had failed to stop campus disturbances —and the people now want their elected officials to step in.

"The man on the street doesn't approve of red paint," said Bee, referring to last weekend's vandalism at the University of California at Berkeley in which red paint was spattered on buildings.

And Greene, referring to regents, said, "the kinds of people we have had so far have not been able to handle the problem." He wondered whether the Legislature should have the power to confirm or reject the governor's appointments to the board.

The measure would remove from the regents the governor, the lieutenant governor, the speaker of the Assemply and the superintendent of puplic instruction. It would also require open meetings of the regents — something opposed by the university.

The elected officials are "ex officio" members — by virtue of their elected positions. Most regents are appointed by the governor for 16-year terms, although Bagley's proposal would reduce their terms to 12 years.

Bagley said Reagan, Unruh and Rafferty have, at various times, brought their political feuds into board meetings.

"The board works well in times of crisis," he said. "Then it blows apart. It blows apart because political office holders can't resist expressing themselves in flowery terms, designed to elicit applause."

Bee, however, said inaction by the university leadership forced a position "where we have had to move in."

Bagley's measure would also require the regents to open their meetings to the public — a provision opposed by the university.

Chairman Carl Britschgi, R-Redwood City, told Bagley, "You don't have the votes." But Bagley predicted he could muster enough support to win committee approval later. If the legislature approved, the measure would have to go before the voters.

In other higher educational developments:

Reagan signed a measure appropriating $900,000 to hire faculty for an unexpectedly high enrollment at the state colleges.

The Senate finance committee approved two measures that would require dismissal of students and faculty found guilty in campus disturbances.

Charge Of Bay Pollution By Water Project Denied

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A state water official says it's "absolutely not correct" to say that operation of the $3 billion state Water Project will pollute the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta with salt water.

"We're operating under a law that tells us the opposite," said Robert G. Eiland, assistant chief of the state Water Resources Department.

He was asked for comment yesterday on a charge by Rep. Jerome R. Waldie, D-14th District, that water officials are planning pollution of San Francisco Bay and the delta.

Waldie, from Contra Costa County, also said in Washington that the water department is in the "ridiculous role" of selling the state's water resources to Southern California.

Waldie contended that planned diversion of fresh water out of the delta would permit ocean water to intrude into present fresh water areas.

Eiland said the proposed peripheral canal to carry water from the north around the delta and into the California Aqueduct actually will help preserve quality of the delta water.

"We have to build the project," Eiland added. "We have to consider the whole state. We can't build a project based purely on views of a small area."

Waldie called for prohibition of salinity intrusion, defining it as pollution. "The diverters of fresh water become polluters," he said.

Norman B. Livermore Jr., state resources secretary, said Waldie is exaggerating.

"He appears to be dead set against the peripheral canal plan and he's in the minority on that." Livermore added that the delta is "a very valuable asset that has to be watched. It's not going to be destroyed."

Heir's Death Is Under Probe

NEW YORK (UPI) — Columbia University and the police were conducting separate investigations today into the death of Fairleigh Dickinson III, heir to a pharmaceutical fortune, who authorities suspect may have died from an overdose of drugs.

The 19-year-old Columbia University freshman, whose grandfather founded Fairleigh Dickinson University in Rutherford, N.J., was found writhing in pain in a dormitory room Wednesday. He died en route to a hospital.

Police said the 6-foot-3 bespectacled English major apparently died from the effects of LSD and opium. Detectives quoted friends of the youth as saying Dickinson had taken a sugar cube coated with LSD and then inhaled opium fumes.

Rail Employees Vote To Strike

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Employees of San Francisco's Municipal Railroad voted early today to strike Sunday if their wage dispute with the city has not been settled.

City officials have already granted Muni employees a 5 per cent pay increase, but union officials complained that unless a 17.5 per cent increase were granted some 133 Muni supervisors, the supervisors would make less than their operators.

The strike decision came at a union meeting attended by more than half of the transportation facility's 2,000 workers.

New Chairman For Library Panel

The Mill Valley Library board last night unanimously elected Mrs. Eugene Hecht chairman to complete the term of Helen Dreyfus, who resigned on leaving the city.

The board also discussed the city's request for county funds for the Mill Valley Library's service to county borrowers, but took no action.

Annenberg Admits Wife Gave Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Walter H. Annenberg, ambassador-designate to Great Britain, told senators today he had not contributed personally to President Nixon's election campaign but his wife had given $2,500.

Annenberg, Philadelphia publisher and philanthropist, said he had never made any political contributions to anyone's campaign.

Under questioning by Chairman J. W. Fulbright, Annenberg said he thought it was "unsound for an independent editor to be a contributor to any cause that involves a special pleading."

Later in the hearing, he explained his wife had made the political contributions to the Nixon campaign.

The committee also conducted hearings on the nominations of John S. D. Eisenhower, son of the former president, to be ambassador to Belgium, and Jacob D. Beam, now ambassador to Czechoslovakia, to be ambassador to the Soviet Union.

Eisenhower was asked about his recently published book, "The Bitter Woods," a history of the Battle of the Bulge during World War II. He assured the committee there was nothing in it the Belgian government would find offensive.

Fulbright said the committee would act next Tuesday on all three nominations.

Sirhan Tells Of Night At Ambassador

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sirhan Bishara Sirhan says he's "not sorry, but not proud" of having killed Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and claims the details of the assassination are a blank in his mind.

The defense said yesterday it had 17 more witnesses to present to the jury trying Sirhan for first degree murder for the slaying early on June 5, 1968.

Sirhan's three and one-half days in the witness stand became more a forum for invective against Jews and Zionism than an explanation of why he killed the presidential aspirant he claimed to love and admire."

"I don't remember," Sirhan kept saying when questioned about the murder or about the notebooks in which he wrote of his plans to kill the senator.

"Are you glad he's dead?" asked Lynn D. Compton, the prosecutor.

"No, sir," said Sirhan, "I'm not glad."

"Are you sorry."

"No, sir, I'm not sorry, but not proud of it either because I have no exact knowledge of having killed him."

Except for the times when the subject of Jews or Zionism was brought up, Sirhan testified calmly. But he fidgeted, toyed with the microphone cord and appeared to be concentrating on defense attorney Grant B. Cooper leaning against the rail halfway across the room.

Sirhan told of having some gin drinks at a post-election party in the Ambassador Hotel and, "feeling quite high," going to his car where he had left the .22-caliber revolver he had used on a gunnery range that afternoon.

But, he said, he felt too drunk to drive: returned to the hotel to find some coffee, and didn't remember picking up the gun.

"As a result of what has happened, you know you must have picked it up," said Cooper.

"I must have sir."

Sirhan said he poured himself coffee from a big urn and was talking with a pretty girl.

"What happened next?

"I don't remember."

"What was the next thing you did?"

"The next think I remember, sir, I was being choked."

After Kennedy was shot, following a speech proclaiming his victory in the California Democratic Presidential primary, Sirhan was subdued by a half dozen members of Kennedy's party and hotel personnel.

Negro Tells Of Korean Capture

CORONADO (AP) — A Negro crewman on the USS Pueblo says North Koreans gave him liquor and told him to "participate in the Negro upsurge" when he got home.

Willie Bussell, 23 of Hopkinsville, Ky., told a Navy court of inquiry yesterday that officers in his North Korean prison were curious about Negro life in the United States.

"The duty officers would call me off to one side and ask me how things were," he said. "I told them the way it was."

Bussell, said being a Negro won him no leniency and told of being threatened with a bayonet for talking with a shipmate during exercises.

The court summoned Communications Technician 2.C. Angelo Strano, 23, of Hartford, Conn., a Pueblo crewman, and a resistance and escape specialist, Capt. John Strane, to testify in closed-session today.

When they finish, the Navy said, the president of the court, Vice Adm. Harold G. Bowen Jr., will leave for a Honolulu conference with the admiral who convened the investigation.

Bowen will confer all day tomorrow with Arm. John J. Hyland, commander in chief of the Pacific Fleet, who called the court into session seven weeks ago. Bowen plans to return Sunday.

Communications Technician 2.C. Ralph McClintock demonstrated to the court yesterday how he mocked North Koreans at one of their news conferences by reciting a stilted sing-song confession laced with sarcasm.

The North Koreans didn't realize they were beng mocked, because they weren't familiar with America idiom, McClintock, of Milton, Mass., said.

Nixon To Florida

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon will fly to Florida tonight to spend a long weekend at his home in Key Biscayne, returning Monday night.

Mrs. Uris' Death Is Ruled Self-Inflicted

MARGERY URIS
Found dead in snow

After hearing a full day of testimony yeasterday, the panel deliberated about 20 minutes before finding that 26-year-old Mrs. Margery Uris, whose body was found Feb. 19, died of a self inflicted bullet wound.

The decision confirmed earlier investigators' reports that the death was an apparent suicide.

Uris, formerly of Larkspur, testified yesterday he and his wife of six months had quarreled and that he told her, "we're through," shortly before she died.

There had been earlier spats since their marriage last September, Uris testified, but added they always had been settled quickly.

In the last dispute, he said he told her, "We're through. Go sleep downstairs."

But, he said, "what really got me" was Mrs. Uris' reply to his order. "I've made other plans," he quoted her as saying.

"She was calling my bluff," said the 44-year-old author of such successful novels as "Exodus," "Topaz," "Battle Cry," and "Mila 18."

"When she walked by me she said 'Goodby. Enjoy the presents." He said his last words were: "Marge, if you don't tell me where you're going, it's the worst mistake of your life."

The reference to presents involved presents she had given Uris and his son earlier in the day.

Mrs. Uris—model, artist, silversmith—had been described as "one of the beautiful people" of this Rocky Mountain ski resort. Their fashionable home overlooked the town.

Uris told the panel, "We were happier than any couple I knew," but conceded he had talked with his attorney the day of the shooting about a divorce.

Assistant Dist. Atty. John Wendt asked if he was serious about the divorce. "Not really," Uris replied. "It was kind of a bluff."

He said it was starting to snow when his wife walked to the door. "She had an anguished look on her face," he said. "She hesitated as though she didn't know where she was going or if she wanted to come back into the house.

"It was a test of wills, I guess," Uris said. He said then he heard three shots.

He said he thought Mrs. Uris was firing at the house "to show me she was good and mad."

He said he kept guns in the house "because there had been a threat on my life after I wrote 'Topaz.'" That novel dealt with international intrigue involving France and the United States. He said the threat was made "by agents from a foreign country who arrived in Aspen."

The autopsy showed one .38-caliber bullet caused a superficial wound in Mrs. Uris' cheek and another entered her mouth and penetrated the brain. A third bullet struck her purse, found lying by the body.

Two Richardson Bay Plans Hit Opposition

Gate, while dumping around the clock, would see only about 50 per cent flushed out the bay, reported Commissioner Bertrand H. Voss, representing the corps.

Commissioner Harry A. Bruno, of Oakland, however, said that most of the silt flushed out of the bay never reaches the open sea, but settles on the bar outside the mouth of the bay. Noting that the shipping channel through the bar has to be dredged, Bruno said dumping mud in the bay "is not very good economy."

None of the other commissioners, however, supported his implication that the mud should be dumped at sea.

Frost said dumping at sea would hike the cost of the project to as much as $2 million, thus it no longer could be financed.

Marin County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney, presenting the county's application for the dredging and dumping permit, said it will be "of inestimable importance" both to the county and Mill Valley, which is spending about $200,000 on its harbor, he said.

Frost testified that the project "will not significantly affect wildlife."

Even if approved by BCDC, he said, the project could not begin until the county got a permit from the corps to dump at Alcatraz. Army regulations require a special permit to dump more than 100,000 cubic yards there from a project in one year. Dredging would take from six month to a year, Frost estimated.

Maintenance dredging of the canal would cost about $30,000 a year, he said.

Pressures to use mud spoils for fill in the bay will increase unless the Alcatraz dumping is approved, cautioned Marin Supervisor Michael Wornum.

The only objection came from two property owners along the canal, George Kappas and Allexis Tellis, both arguing that a master plan for the canal area should precede dredging.

"You're being asked to bail out the City of Mill Valley," said Kappas' attorney, Hugh G. Lawrence. Kappas, who opposed his inclusion in the assessment district, lost about 125 feet of his "dock" when the canal was aligned across its tip.

The dredged channel would be 150 feet wide south of the Richardson Bay Bridge, and 100 feet wide north of the bridge. It would be eight feet deep at mean lower low water. The waterway is not navigable now at low tide.

The high-rise development, proposed by Sausalito Associates, had received an indefinite postponement of a vote after an October hearing. Yesterday, they presented a slightly modified plan.

Their master plan previously envisioned an 850-room, 16-story hotel, a 130-room motel about 10 stories high, a "boatel-motel" facility with shops up to four stories high, a restaurant, cocktail lounge, gas station, "transportation center" for boats and helicopters, and an eight-acre lagoon.

The plan was amended to reduce the fill, formerly almost 17 acres, by 1.5 acres, to cut the number of rooms in the high-rise hotel from 850 to 550 rooms, and to lower it from 16 to 14 stories.

It was the lagoon that was the center of the new controversy, with attorney Lawrence protesting that Kappas owned a piece of the tideland in the lagoon. "We are furnishing some of the open space," he declared.

Also objecting was David B. Gold, attorney for adjacent landowner Donlon J. Arques, who insisted that "serious legal questions" remained until all landowners got together on a plan so each could share in the area's commercial development. "We don't want to be the bird sanctuary of the entire area," Gold said.

The commission instructed its staff to look into their objections and report back at the March 21 meeting, when more testimony will be heard before the fill application is voted.

The only proponent of the project other than the developers' representatives was Rev. Samuel L. Banks Jr. of Marin City, who said it would provide jobs for his community's residents. Also, he said, "I ask to be delivered from the unsightly dump" now on the bay.

Batteries Stolen From Parked Cars

Batteries from two cars parked in San Rafael were stolen yesterday, San Rafael police said today.

They said batteries were taken from the car of Charles Harvey Mielenz, of 19 Terra Linda Drive, whose car was parked near the Eileen Feather Figure Salon, and from the car of Janet Wardlah Everson of 101 Granlee Road, whose car was parked in a rear carport at 1530 Fourth Street.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Rumors Unfounded But Still Link Ondine, Other Ventures

Rumor, which has a nasty habit of misconstruing fact, has for some time tied Ondine Restaurant in Sausalito with Restaurant Mirabeau in Oakland.

It is now going to step further and including the Mirabeau which is due to open in Seattle in May.

You might say there is a distant relationship — but it is several times removed. The corporation, Ondine Enterprises, Inc., owns and operates only one restaurant, the one in Sausalito. Senior partners are George P. Gutekunst, president; Fred A Martinez, secretary, and Alfred Roblin, treasurer. There are also two junior partners, Joseph De Natale and Roger Chanteloube, both vice presidents. De Natale's brother Frank, by the way, if the name sounds familiar, is manager of Bob's of Marin in Corte Madera.

The confusion lies in the fact that Messrs. Gutekunst and Roblin also happen to own nonparticipating shares in Le Lac Enterprises, Inc. This company owns and operates Mirabeau, Oakland and will own and operate Mirabeau, Seattle.

Naturally the two men have a healthy interest in their investment and they have given liberally of their restaurant knowledge to get the two establishments on the road. But neither they nor Ondine are running them.

AND SPEAKING of rumors, there's another one making the rounds that the owners of Taberna in San Rafael have sold out.

No one seems to know where the story originated, but coowner Bob Czyz assures me it has no basis in fact. He and his partners Jeanne Neill and Roland Ledtke have made no deals, there is no transaction pending nor is one contemplated.

JACK IN THE BOX drive-in restaurant, which for weeks past has been trying to complete its paving work between downpours, has finally made it.

This is the new enterprise on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, San Anselmo, between the Drake Market and the Red Hill Shopping Center. It opened for business this week.

IT MUST HAVE BEEN a bit unnerving for John Weiland of Blue Rock Inn, while languishing in the hospital recently after an operation, to receive a letter from his two bartenders Bill Anderson and Pete Le Frois.

Such letters are generally reassuring of the sender's wishes for an early recovery, but this one was calculated to speed up the process even faster and bring John back to work.

It enclosed a color photograph, very realistic, of his two well-wishing employees posed at the bar under a new sign announcing the grand opening of Pete and Bill's Place (formerly the Blue Rock), with the assurance that all bottled mercandise for the first night was on the house.

If that event was ever held, however, there are no telltale clues. Inventories were in order on John's return. But I have a sneaking suspicion he's still looking for incriminating evidence.

NEW ENTERTAINMENT attraction at the hungry i in San Francisco. Bobbie and I, has two of its principals from Marin County.

Bobbie, the featured vocalist, is Bobbie Burch from San Rafael. The musical trio back-up here consists of Ken Fischler at the piano (he also sings); Rod Eliott, electric bass player; and Mike McKinley on drums. They have recorded on Imperial, a Liberty Record label. Rod is the other Marinite, also from the San Rafael area.

Bobbie and I has been at the San Francisco nightspot about five weeks and is scheduled for another seven weeks, playing six nights a week.

OTHER SAN FRANCISCO NOTES: Richard Ferraris and his combo play nightly at the Starlite Roof of the Sir Francis Drake Hotel. . . . Songstress Morgana King and the comedy team of Ford and Reynolds opened last night at Bimbo's Theater Restaurant and will appear through March 15.

APPEARANCE of Walter Van Vechten, waiter at Rubini's, on the Rich King Show over KFOG Radio had to be postponed. It is now scheduled for this Sunday at 10 p.m.

BLACK HATTER chef Pierre Bitterer, who used to be at the Pandora, is now chef at the Mark Hopkins in San Francisco. But of more interest to Marinites perhaps is the fact that he is now lecturing on cooking Thursdays from 10 to 11:30 a.m. at the Jewish Community Center in Santa Venetia. He is a Santa Venetia resident. Prospective registrants should call the center.

PIERRE BITTERER
Teaches cooking

STARTING THIS WEEKEND, Gatsby's in Sausalito is featuring Jeamie Hoffman with Nate Johnson on bass and Al Pimentel on drums.

The trio will play Wednesday through Saturday night and from 6 p.m. on Sundays for the next two months.

CAFE BON VIN, which gets mentioned in this column so frequently because it is the only restaurant I know that is built on continual menu changes and new combinations, will start its Thursday night programs on March 27.

Every Thursday night a winemaker will lead a discussion and tasting of his best wines, followed by a banquet which features at least one of his old family recipes. Cost is $8.50 for the complete evening. Dinners will be served at individual tables, not provincial style as on Wednesday nights. Reservations are limited to 50 and should be made early.

Several reservations are already in for the first Thursday event, when Louis Martini will bring several of his wines and give his audience an insight to the effects of bottle age. This should be of particular interest to anyone with his own wine cellar.

If you're lucky, on Fred Chery's Sunday brunch, you may be able to get "Blini a la Russe" —crepes with fresh caviar and sour cream. This is not the salty caviar in jars but freshly caught and promptly refrigerated until actually served.

ORGANIST JEAN DENNING of San Rafael, who was last appearing at the console at Sabella's on Monday nights, is now teaching organ for Sherman Clay in San Rafael.

Jail Sentence For Novatan

Bradford Eugene Bishop, 21, of Novato has been sentenced to serve 40 days in Marin County Jail for battery and possessing marijuana, LSD and a hypodermic needle.

Judge Harold J. Haley of Marin Superior Court also placed Bishop on one year probation.

Cal Expo Cure: Private Industry

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — General Services Director Andrew R. Lolli says the state should turn the job of operating the debt - ridden California Exposition over to private enterprise.

Lolli said Cal Expo should not be abolished even though it finished its first season last year with a $1.5 million deficit.

"It should go into the hands of private industry as soon as possible," Lolli said. "The sooner it goes there, the better."

He made the observation yesterday at a "state-of-the-agency" news conference held by all department heads in the agriculture and services agency.

Novato Pollution Ban On Regional Agenda

I-J Special Report

OAKLAND — A cease and desist order against the Novato Sanitary District to stop it from polluting the Petaluma River and Novato Creek will be considered for approval by the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board in its all-day meeting Thursday in the Contra Costa County Administration Building, Martinez.

Also on the agenda will be a staff recommendation on whether the Bolinas Community Public Utility District's schedule to build joint sewage facilities with the Stinson Beach County Water District meets the regional board's standards.

Also on the agenda are requirements regulating waste discharge by the Marin Debris Co. on the San Rafael tidelands and progress reports on time schedules by the San Rafael Sanitation District and San Quentin Prison to meet the regional district's standards on discharge of wastes into the bay.

The meeting, which begins at 10 a.m., originally was to have been held in Oakland, where the district is headquartered, but was shifted to Martinez.

Senate Supports Stanford Fines

STANFORD (AP) — Stanford University's academic senate voted 26-1 last night to endorse President Kenneth Pitzer's "prompt and effective" action against 29 militant students.

The students, who disrupted a trustees' meeting, were fined a total of $1,900, but have vowed they will not pay.

Pitzer took the action on the recommendation of the judicial council, a student-faculty group, which also had urged the students be suspended.

The Academic Senate had urged "the entire academic community to support the president on this matter."

In accord with the council's recommendation, students who fail to pay at heast half the fine by March 31 will not be permitted to enroll for spring quarter classes.

Three Drunken Driving Fines

Three persons have been sentenced in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving.

Marion Snook Palmer, 45, of 3 Barbaree Way, Tiburon, was ordered to pay a $125 fine and placed on six months probation. She was arrested Feb. 1 on Tiburon Boulevard.

Marion Louise Ackerman, 55, of 2505 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Fairfax, who was arrested Jan. 6 on Highway 101, was fined $150 and placed on six months probation.

Kenneth Richard Barrows, 46, of San Francisco, wsa fined $125 and placed on six months probation. He was arrested Monday on Highway 101.

On Feb. 22, 1856, California's first railroad began operation between Sacramento and Folsom.

New President At San Fernando

NORTHRIDGE (AP)—A philosopher who is an expert in public address will be the new president of San Fernando Valley State College, assuming office in mid-June.

The appointment of James W. Cleary, 41, was announced yesterday by Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke's office. He succeeds Malcolm O. Sillars, acting president since Feb. 14 who replaced ailing acting president Paul Blomgren.

Cleary, who in 1963-64 studied the administration of the University of California system on a fellowship, took a doctorate of philosophy from the University of Wisconsin at Madison where he is vice chancellor of academic affairs.

Woman Hurts Back In 2-Car Accident

Lillie M. Williams, 44, of Richmond, was treated for back sprain at Marin General Hospital Wednesday after a two-car collision on Highway 101 in Corte Madera, the California Highway Patrol reported yesterday.

The highway patrol said the Williams car was struck from the rear at 5:15 p.m. by a car driven by Mary F. Brady, 50, of 23 Harding Drive, Novato.

New Arts Facility Will Open

The Sausalito Arts Association will open its new facility at Bayside School April 1 with an experiment in total environment theater, produced by Interexperienced Ltd., as one of the attractions.

At the moment Bruce Harlow, organizer of Interexperience, is looking for nonprofessional dancers who would be interested in taking part in the project, persons he called "expressive enough to interpret this thing in their own way."

According to Harlow, a large plastic, domelike cave is being built, inside which visitors will be totally surrounded by the show. The plastic dome is set up for back projection by two standard 35 millimeter projectors and a pair of 16 millimeter movie projectors.

The psychic assault will be further augmented by the presence of a local rock group called the Textures, backed by six conga drummers and 15 performer-dancers.

Tryouts for dancers will be held at Bayside School, Nevada and Wateree Streets, Monday at 8 p.m.

Hearing Is Set In Arson Case

Craig James Gomez, 19, a former volunteer fireman, has been bound over to Marin Superior Court yesterday on charges of arson and entry to commit arson in connection with the fire Jan. 5 at Sausalito's Central School.

He was ordered Wednesday to appear in court on March 18.

Gomez, who is a former member of the Sausalito Volunteer Firemen's Association, now lives in San Francisco.

He was arrested after witnesses reported seeing him near the school at the time the fire broke out at 2:44 a.m. in a supply room.

Poverty War Board Trims Staff To Fit Tight Budget

One employee has been trimmed and another may have to go from the staff of the Economic Opportunity Council because of a tight budget, the EOC board of directors learned Wednesday night.

Eloise Brown of Marin City, chairman of the planning and program committee, reported that committee members met Tuesday and decided to trim family counselor Lillia Bernard from the staff.

The driectors asked the personnel committee, headed by Gilbert Medeiros, and the budget and finance committee, chaired by Adelaide P. Wilson, to see if another cut can be made.

Victor H. Carey, EOC executive director, said the cuts were needed to stay within the anticipated $159,000 budget for 1969-70. Last month, Carey and Mrs. Wilson asked the county supervisors to increase the budget by $15,000, which represents about two jobs, but the supervisors rejected the raise.

The EOC directors received two resignations last night. Both Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. and Paul K. McMullen of San Rafael said they cannot serve on the board because of conflict in dates with other duties. Assistant Administrator Thomas F. Campanella will serve in place of Arrigoni as representative from the board of supervisors.

Students Can Win Fair Premiums

Marin students age 6 to 16 may earn premiums plus special cash awards at the Marin Art and Garden Fair July 2 through 6 by planting their fruit, vegetable and cut flower entries and marking them with "Plant Now" flags by April 30.

The flags are available at fair headquarters in Ross, Egger and Sons Nursery, Mill Valley and Kentfield; Santa Venetia Nursery; West End Nursery, San Rafael, and Sunnyside Nursery, San Anselmo. Only entries marked with flags will be eligible for the special awards, fair officials said.

Nurseryman's Topic

"Tuberous Begonias" and "The Nature and Problems of Soils" will be discussed by George Coleman, owner of the Cove Nursery in Tiburon, at a public meeting of the Redwood Shade Garden Club at 8 p.m. next Friday in Whitaker Hall, St. Stephen's Church, Belvedere.

Grape Boycott Not 'Disaster'

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California's table grape boycott hasn't done anybody any good but it still has not affected the industry seriously, the Agriculture and Services Agency reports.

Earle Coke, secretary of the agency which covers everything from the state fire marshal to tax-collecting board — made the report yesterday in his "state of the agency" message.

Coke told a news conference the boycott "was not the disaster it could be" and didn't seriously hurt the table grape industry. Members of the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee (ALF-CIO) organized a nationwide boycott effort when table grape growers refused to negotiate with them.

More Bodies Expected To Be Unearthed

PROVINCETOWN, Mass. (AP)—Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis said today "I expect more bodies to be found" in an isolated beach of Cape Cod sand dunes where rude graves already have yielded the corpses of our girls.

Antone Costa, 25, an unemployed carpenter and one-time taxidermist, was arrested on a murder charge soon after the hacked bodies of two girls from Providence, R.I., were unearthed two days ago.

An attorney entered a plea of innocent for the accused man yesterday and District Court Judge Gershom D. Hall ordered him committed to the Bridgewater State Hospital for a mental examination.

Dinis said he based his belief that a number of additional slayings had been committed on the fact that several missing person reports on Cape Cod girls were still unsolved.

Real Estate Board Lists Scholarship

Applications for the 12th annual Archie Culpepper Scholarship for a graduating high school senior will be accepted through school counselors until April 9, Daniel F. Deedy, executive manager of the Marin County Real Estate Board which sponsors the award, reported.

The scholarship, named for a past president of the board, is for $500.

Canadians Discover Terrorists' Bomb

MONTREAL (UPI)—The biggest bomb planted here in 10 years of terrorist activity was discovered under an overpass at the city's busiest intersection last night shortly before it was set to explode.

Authorities said the bomb, consisting of 141 sticks of dynamite, would have blown up the overpass and injured hundreds of people. They said it was 10 times more powerful than one that injured 27 persons at the Montreal and Canadian Stock Exchanges Feb. 13.

Fill Nod Sought

The College of Marin will make application to the Larkspur Planning Commission Tuesday to fill 19 acres of land south of the college's existing physical education facility. The meeting is at 8 p.m., at city hall.

AWOL Soldier Held In Killing

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Police said they arrested an AWOL soldier yesterday in connection with a Mission District slaying.

Detectives identified the arrested man as Nathaniel Whitman, 22, who had been stationed at the Presidio of San Francisco.

The body of the slain man, William Herrera, 49, was found in a parking lot Wednesday. Police said Whitman and Herrera had quarreled over a woman.

There are 3.5 million miles of highways, roads and streets in this country whose construction and maintenance are supported mainly through state and local gasoline taxes and motor vehicle fees.

SPRING HOUSECLEANING DELAYED

California's recent series of storms has abated, but the owners of this home south of Tahoe City face a monumental task of snow shoveling to get it out from under the near-record pack which has formed in the Sierra. Lack of tracks in the neighborhood would indicate that its occupants have removed to a warmer clime, at least temporarily. (AP Wirephoto)

Survey To Be Taken On Family Life Film

Old Adobe School District trustees last night approved a questionnaire which will be distributed to parents and may determine use of the "Time of Your Life" KQED-TV film series.

The controversial KQED series had been part of the district family life education program, but was suspended when many parents complained about sections teaching sex education.

Supt. Dean Magowan said the questionnaires were prepared by professional pollsters so that the questions would not tend to bias answers. The survey results will be analyzed and discussed at a special board meeting on March 27. A time and place has not been set.

Magowan said the questionnaires will be distributed to parents of fourth, fifth and sixth graders next week. The school parent-teacher organizations will be responsible for the mailing and receipt of the survey.

The Old Adobe School District trustees also:

NEW SCHOOL — Received a report from Magowan that new subdivisions in the district may add 500 to 1,000 homes by next school year. The board asked architects to speed plans for a fourth school.

FURNITURE — Awarded bid for desks and chairs for the addition to La Tercera School to Holsinger, Inc. The chairs will cost $7.55 each and the desks, $18.

EXTENSION — Granted a 55-day extension for construction on La Tercera School made necessary by inclement weather. The building will be completed in early June.

BONDS — Set March 20 at noon at the Bernard E. Eldredge School for the sale of $60,000 in bonds to help finance a six-classroom addition to La Tercera School.

PARKS — Indicated its willingness to cooperate with the Petaluma Recreation Department and city council in planning city parks adjacent to school sites.

GIFT — Accepted anonymous gift of an 8 mm camera and equipment.

LEAVE — Granted leave to teacher Virginia Kay for the remaining school year due to illness.

ABSENCE — Approved two-month absence of trustee John Thompson who will be in training on the East in connection with his job as customs inspector.

Date Corrected

The Tamalpais High School District discipline Study Committee will next meet at 4 p.m., March 18, and not April 18 as reported incorrectly in Wednesday's Independent-Journal. The meeting will be in the Redwood faculty lounge, Redwood High School.

Fire Panel Discusses Radio Device

The San Rafael Fire Commission discussion last night on plans to purchase a $1,500 device to record radio and telephone calls to the fire department.

The matter was postponed for further cost study and to determine whether purchase could be included in the department's budget request for the next fiscal year, according to John T. Goodale, city administrative assistant.

The San Rafael Fire Commission also:

WELCOME — Greeted Dr. Rafael G. Dufficy, new commissioner appointed by the city council Feb. 17.

RESIGNATION — Accepted with regret the resignation of Capt. Gaylord Bornfield, department training officer, who will become Marinwood fire chief.

TRUCK — Authorized commission chairman Harry M. Williams to act in the commission's behalf in making a recommendation to the council after bids are opened Wednesday for a new snorkel truck.

BUDGET — Set 7:30 p.m. April 10 in the conference room of the city manager's office in city hall for the budget session.

CONFERENCE — Granted permission to Chief Vance Trivett to attend the California Fire Chiefs Association conference May 20-23 in Sacramento.

Search Called Off

The Coast Guard has called off its search for Mrs. Laurie Kinley of Berkeley, who fell overboard while sailing on San Francisco Bay with Jonathan Schinn, also of Berkeley, Wednesday afternoon.

Marijuana Charge By Grand Jury

Siegmund Stephen Ross, of 110 Florence Avenue, was ordered to appear Monday in Superior Court for arraignment. He was freed from the county jail after posting $3,750 bail.

Mill Valley police said they checked Ross's home yesterday about 2 p.m. for a possible burglary after seeing a stranger leave the residence in a car with an out-of-state license.

In the house they saw what appeared to be marijuana.

The officers returned to the house with a search warrant, they said, and found a bag of about five and a half ounces of marijuana as well as small quantities of LSD and hashish.

Ross was arrested when he returned home about 5 p.m. The stranger was identified as a friend who was visiting him.

Treated For Pill Overdose

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Socialite and television personality Pat Montandon was treated at an emergency hospital last night for an overdose of sleeping pills.

She said she took the pills at her Russian Hill apartment in order to overcome a siege of coughing. Instead, she became sick, telephoned a friend and was in a dazed condition by the time police battered in her bedroom door and summoned an ambulance.

'Monster' A Whale

TAMPICO, Mexico (AP) — The Marine Biology Station here said yesterday a huge carcass washed ashore near Vera Cruz was that of a whale weighing possibly 35 tons. Fisherman who found the carcass had touched off reports that it was a "sea monster."

Grand Jury Indicts Six On Drug Counts

The Marin County Grand Jury last night indicted eight persons whose cases were already in Marin Municipal Court, thus binding them over to Superior Court.

All were ordered to appear in Superior Court Monday for arraignment.

Four young people who were arrested Nov. 15 in an expensive San Anselmo house which officers said held a chemistry laboratory capable of producing LSD were charged with various drug offenses.

Andrew Samuel Perri, 19, was charged with offering to sell LSD, and Hamilton Bassett Henry, 21, with possession of LSD and marijuana for sale. David Charles Haye, 21, and Mary T. Rosenbaum, 20, were charged with possessing LSD.

All live at 156 Crescent Road, San Anselmo, except Perri, who gave his address as San Francisco.

Also indicted on drug charges last night were Michael John Friel, 22, and Valerie Jane Monsour, 23, both of 26-A Atwood Street, Sausalito, who are charged with possessing marijuana at their apartment on Feb. 2.

Zola Mae Van Dolah, 20, of San Francisco, was charged with four counts of cashing checks allegedly stolen from the Atlas Paper Co. of San Francisco. She was arrested Feb. 7 after she reportedly cashed one of the checks at the Emporium in Northgate.

Benny Jones Jr., 28, of San Francisco, was indicted for the Nov. 28 burglary of the Smith's Clothing Store in the Corte Madera Shopping Center.

Enterprise To Change Ports

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The homeport of the nuclear-powered carrier USS Enterprise will be changed from Alameda to Norfolk, Va., on July 10, the Navy announced yesterday.

The Enterprise will steam to Norfolk to be overhauled and refuled beginning Aug. 15. It will be the third fueling of the 85,000 ton ship, commissioned in 1961.

The carrier currently is on sea trials off Honolulu following repair of a Jan. 14 explosion on the flight deck that killed 28 members of the ship's 5,400 man crew.

Youngsters Watch Birth Event In Zoo

The population at the Corte Madera Shopping Center petting zoo went up by one yesterday afternoon when Lola the goat gave birth to a kid while a group of visiting school children looked on.

Both the mother and the kid, named Hollie, are doing fine.

Injuries Minor In Auto Wreck

Two men received minor injuries yesterday in a two-car collision at 5:05 p.m. at Los Ranchitos and San Pedro roads, the California Highway Patrol said.

Terry E. Elliott, 19, of 159 Merrydale Road, Los Ranchitos, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a bruised forehead and chest and his passenger, Robert Leach, 22, of 60 Vendola Drive, Santa Venetia, was treated for cuts and bruises.

The highway patrol said a car driven by Alice M. Brandhorst, 46, of 65 Los Ranchitos Road, pulled into the intersection in front of Elliott's car. She was cited for failing to yield the right-of-way.

THE WHITE TILES with little black dots have a fascination for Mrs. Fred Acciari of San Rafael and she has taught all ages to play. Here she entertains her grandsons, Brad, 2, left, and Scott Plumley, 5. Her domino enthusiasm led her to organize St. Dominic's Chapter of the Social Service Auxiliary of Marin, teach the members, and finally present a public domino tournament as a benefit. The second tournament is set for March 16. (Independent-Journal photo)

DOMINO BUFF

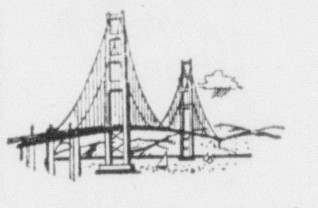
Woman's Hobby Sparks Tourney

Synonymous with the game of dominoes in Marin is the name Evelyn Acciari. To Mrs. Fred Acciari of San Rafael goes much credit for the perpetration of the game of dominoes in Marin County.

A domino buff herself, it was she who masterminded the first Open Domino Tournament sponsored by the St. Dominic's Chapter of the Social Service Auxiliary in March, 1968.

With Mrs. Arthur Fay, she founded St. Dominic's Chapter and was its first chairman.

Gathering together about 20 members of the auxiliary in which she had been active since 1954 to enjoy a monthly afternoon of dominoes, she formed the St. Dominic's Chapter to aid the purposes of the Auxiliary to the Catholic Social Service Agency of Marin. Its founding stimulated the establishment of other chapters within the Social Service Auxiliary, drawing together members with like interests such as bridge, sewing and crafts to aid the Social Service Agency.



Those of the group who did not know how to play dominoes soon learned under Evelyn's patient tutelage.

WHEN SHE FELT she had exhausted her knowledge of the game, Evelyn arranged for the members and their husbands and friends to take a series of lessons from Dominic Armanino, author of the book, "Dominoes." Wishing to increase her own knowledge of the game, Evelyn took the lessons along with the beginners.

During the third year of the chapter's existence, "Mrs. Domino," as she is called by her friends in her pet charity, felt the group was prepared to sponsor a tournament opened to the public for the benefit of the Catholic Social Service of Marin.

Evelyn proposed, planned, penned and petitioned and, with her 20 friends, parlayed a thought into an event that caused one of the participants who follows the International Domino Association Tournaments, to remark, "This is the best organized and best run tournament I have ever attended."

Mrs. Acciari was born Evelyn Giusti in Walnut Grove. She married Fred Acciari, a frozen food distributor, in 1932 and they lived in San Francisco until moving to Marin County in 1950. They have one daughter, Mrs. Daniel Plumley of Petaluma, and are the grandparents of Scott and Brad Plumley.

Soon after moving to Marin, Evelyn became interested in welfare work and joined the Social Service Auxiliary as an outlet for her energies and desire to help others.

Dominoes is not Ev's only interest nor the tournament the only event she has organized.

Always working in the interest of the Social Service Agency for the help that it gives to those in need, Evelyn was the chairman for the first, now famous, "Rags to Riches" rummage sale given by the Social Service Auxiliary held in the old skating rink building in San Rafael.

She organized the volunteer clerical aid in the Social Service Agency offices, which eliminated need for much paid office help and kept the agency expenses down.

Quietly going about her volunteer work, Ev has put in so many hours that she left off counting years ago. She has done detailed statistical and factual reports for the Agency as well as for the Auxiliary.

Before moving to Marin, Evelyn Acciari was active in the Mother's Guild of Notre Dame de Victoires, where her daughter attended school and served as its president.

St. Raphael's Mother's Guild, Marin Catholic Women's Club, Girl Scouts and the former Catholic Youth Organization program in Marin also profited from Evelyn's energies and abilities to organize and carry out successful events.

HOW DID SHE become interested in dominoes?

Evelyn found time on her hands after her daughter completed school and was married. She decided to take up golf, partly because of her husband's interest in the game. After deciding that golf was not for her, Evelyn was introduced to the game of dominoes, also through her husband's fascination of the game and became bewitched with the manipulation of the white tiles with the little black dots.

She is a member of the International Domino Association and participates in the various tournaments around the Bay Area, when her grandsons, Scott and Brad, do not demand her time.

Not satisfied with resting on her laurels, Evelyn is reservations chairman and advisor to this year's public Domino Tournament chairman, Mrs. Walter Goldman.

The committee, under Evelyn's guidance, has addressed and mailed 917 invitations to the St. Dominic's Chapter Mixed Tournament to be held March 16 at Dominic's Restaurant in San Rafael.

OPEN TO TEAMS of mixed or matched couples, seating starts at 10:30 a.m., and four games will be played before lunch and play will continue after lunch.

Other members of St. Dominic's Chapter assisting with the tournament are Mmes. James O'Donnell, co-chairman; Edward Ravizza, publicity; William Zavosky and Harold White, awards; William Del Monte, hostesses; Mert Hipsley, scorers; Alfred Quilici, arrangements; Ravizza and Arthur Ballantine, hostess aprons; Edward Martens, tray tables; Arthur Fay, printing.

By MOLLY MARIN

Tiburon Peninsula Club members will meet the club's new tennis professional, Michael Hook, and his wife Sunday evening at a cocktail party and supper.

The Hooks and their three children formerly lived in Pebble Beach, where Michael Hook was tennis pro at Del Monte Lodge. The family has purchased a home in Tiburon.

The Wests and the Nicholses attended Monday evening's opening of the Royal Shakespeare Company performance of "Much Ado About Nothing."

MANY MARIN families attended the fourth annual concert of the San Domenico Singers yesterday at the DeYoung Museum in San Francisco.

Mr. and Mry. Stan Gaizutis came from Reno to attend the concert at which their daughter Joanne was a soloist.

HOUSE GUESTS of the Perry Brocks in Sausalito are Mrs. Brock's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Schlueter of St. Louis, Mo., who will be with them for two weeks. Mrs. Brock's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Leo G. Peck, have also been visitors and have just left for their home in St. Louis.

A CHAMPAGNE dinner was given at the home of Mrs. Lidia Watkins in San Anselmo to honor Mrs. Betty Barrera on her retirement from her position as head nurse of American President Lines. Guests included Messrs. and Mmes. Constantine Iordache and Knut Laurlund, Mrs. Hildegarde Hirschfield, Mrs. Burton Hirschfield, Miss Anna Calhum, Lucien Iribarne, and Mrs. Watkins' children, Mario, Alicia and Gloria Watkins.

St. Anne's Service League Elects Mrs. E. B. Hillis

Mrs. Eldred B. Hillis, a 15 year member, has been elected president of St. Anne's Service League of St. Paul's Episcopal Church in San Rafael. She has previously served as president of the Church Women and as treasurer.

The service league plans for the year call for charity work, a salad luncheon in April and the annual Pine Cone Festival in November.

Mrs. Hillis is also active in the San Rafael Women's Improvement Club, Golden Star Rebekah Lodge 112, San Rafael; and San Rafael Chapter of Eastern Star. She is a nursing graduate of Franklin Hospital in San Francisco and has an R.N. degree.

The Hillises have been Marin residents for 25 years, and they are parents of Robert B. Hillis and Mrs. David A. Seeger.

At home Dorothy Hillis' interests included sewing, knitting and doing decorations. She also enjoys the weekly meetings of the church league and its service work for the church.

MRS. ELDRED HILLIS

Other new officers are Mmes. L. L. Lieb, honorary president; Robert L. Reentsjerna, vice president; Harry Pepoon, treasurer; J. A. Dodds, recording secretary; and Neal Madson, corresponding secretary. Mrs. George M. Krough is publicity chairman.

Discipline Leads To Degree

By BETTY FROST

The history of Marin from 1800-1900, emphasizing the county's economic development from ranch life into a suburban community, is the subject of Mrs. Melbostad's paper for the master's degree in history. For the past three years she has been studying for the advanced degree at Dominican College.

"But I am not a researcher, and have no ambition to write a history of Marin," she protests. She did her practice teaching at the College of Marin, and calls teaching "my most rewarding experience."

With the necessary units achieved, and the thesis behind her, Mrs. Melbostad must pass a comprehensive history test. Then she will be eligible to teach history at the college level.

"I feel like I was all tooled up and obsolete already," she quipped. "I'm the wrong age, the wrong sex and the wrong color, but I still hope to teach somewhere."

To get her degree was both an accomplishment and an exercise in discipline for Gloria, who had a lot of juggling to do in order to meet the needs of her family, and discharge her obligations as trustee for the Tamalpais High School District Board.

She got up at 5:30 a.m. every day to work on her college projects before the family was up, but didn't burn any midnight oil. "Anybody who knows me knows I'm in bed by 9 o'clock," she said.

Her husband, a manufacturer's representative in the lumber business, she terms "very understanding." The boys, Richard, 13, Billy, 11, and John, 8, were also cooperative. Rocky, a large, friendly Airedale, completes the household.

"I have no time for organizations any more," the small dark-haired woman said. "I do enjoy playing tennis, and play at the Mill Valley Tennis Club when I have the opportunity."

"Most Marin histories are big on people," Gloria explained. "But I was interested in Marin's economic development. Transportation was a real problem for Marin always. In 1869 the Sausalito Land and Ferry Co. established the ferry connection between Sausalito and San Francisco which pulled Marin into the urban area."

What she calls "a baby industrial age" started the towns. For example, Tomales was a potato and dairy center, Bolinas and Ross Landing transported lumber from their ports. Later Marin became a resort and summer home area, then the residential area of the present.

Persual of original documents has given her a different slant on Marin's early families. Sad was the fate of the Mexican land owners who had to prove their rights to the old grants against the claims of squatters. "Often land lawyers, who took fees in land, were the only ones who gained at the end of years of litigation," Mrs. Melbostad found. Particularly poignant was the plea of the widowed Senora Reed that a Spanish-speaking guardian be appointed for her children. Capt. William Richardson, John Reed, and J. B. R. Cooper, all major Marin land holders under grants from the Mexican government, each had married into aristocratic Spanish California families. During the ranchero phase of Marin's history they dressed in the Mexican style, and their children were raised speaking Spanish and oriented to the Latin culture.

Despite enthusiasm for her thesis subject matter, the Mill Valley woman insisted that she was not ambitious for any more research projects. "People sometimes wonder about my compulsion about education. I had a good education myself and am grateful for it," Mrs. Melbostad said. "I want all young people to have a similar positive experience."

A native of Pasadena, Gloria was educated in schools there and was graduated from Barnard College, Columbia University in New York City.

The Melbostad family has lived in Marin for 14 years.

RESEARCHING Marin County's economic history for her master's thesis took Mrs. J. R. Melbostad deep into the yellowing pages of original documents. Here she checks facts in the files of the bound volumes of the Marin County Journal at the San Rafael Public Library. Mother of three boys, Mrs. Melbostad has spent three years studying toward the master's degree at Dominican College to qualify as a college history instructor. Rising at 5:30 each morning she attended to her studies before the family was up. (Independent-Journal photo)

Children Continue Christmas

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—A group of 26 sixth graders believe that the gift of holiday giving should be a 12-month thing. Each week, they contribute to a fund which goes to two orphans for spending money.

Mrs. Eva Townsend, teacher at Jackson Park elementary school in suburban University City, Mo., said someone in the class suggested, "Let's not stop just at Christmas, let's do something throughout the school year."

"I left it all up to the children," said Mrs. Townsend. The students contacted an orphans home and were told that they might contribute spending money to a boy named Tim and a girl named Sherri.

The idea, explained Mrs. Townsend, a Negro, was for the class to "adopt a boy and a girl in an orphan home."

Student Laura Compton said, "People should realize that other people aren't always as lucky as they are . . . they should help them, not ignore them or pretend that it doesn't really matter."

Jean Vogel, 12, put it this way: "Both Tim and Sherri don't have any parents or anyone to look up to . . . I think it was a great idea."

Gene Johnson said he felt that "if we start helping individuals, maybe some other people will do this also." Student Cindy Kalman said, "To me man could not have gotten as far as he is today if we didn't help each other."

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Since When Is Second Woman Given Title Of 'Step-Wife?'

DEAR HELEN:

Before we left the wedding chapel, my second husband informed my six-and eight-year-olds that his brother was not their uncle, and that he was their step father. Never were they to call him anything that means "father." He also told his brother's child that I am her step-aunt, and to his brother he referred to me as his "step-wife."

When his three children are with us, it's bedlam, and I am not to interfere. They never even say "Thank you" after staying here for a week!

Then when he takes the children home he spends a whole afternoon with his ex-wife, discussing things (he says), while the kids stay in another room.

When I complain about his spoiling his children, he says blood is thicker than water and a wife shouldn't be very close to her husband because they are not of the same flesh and blood.

I'm thinking of taking a vacation with my two the next time his three come to "his" house for a vacation. Also, feel that if they are here for a month or so, then we should keep the support money (which my husband sends to his ex-wife) for the duration of their stay. After all, we're feeding and clothing them while they are here, and they eat like food was going out of style.

Also, my husband never spends a red cent on my children. All they get comes from their real father. They are even charged monthly for food, car gas, their share of utilities and rent, which goes into the bank. In other words, their support money goes into his pocket. Does this marriage have a future?—STEP WIFE

DEAR STEP:

This marriage has five strikes against it, plus a husband few women could take. I wouldn't give it much chance! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I am a man who's been married for 18 years. Every Wednesday I bowl with my co-workers (mixed crowd). We finish at 9 p.m. and have a few drinks and breakfast. I'm usually home by 4 a.m., sometimes 5 or 6. The same crowd goes to company dinners, etc.

My wife objects, as she says I only take her out about once a year, to the company Christmas party. Also I have had a few affairs in the past, but all this is changed and I love only her.

Please convince her my Wednesday nights out are innocent and should continue. — MISUNDERSTOOD HUSBAND

DEAR HUSBAND:

I'm not convinced, myself.

If your Wednesday nights are pure wholesome bowl, bar and breakfast sessions why don't you take your wife along? She survived the company Christmas party, so she might even like your friends. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I am making no comment on "Outdated" who wonders if a virgin bride is an anachronism, but her letter brought to mind what my sister said at a bridal shower. The girls were wondering too, and she answered, "Well, I'm glad my husband didn't practice on me!" — MRS. H.D.

DEAR HELEN:

Hope I'm not too late with this message:

If your readers want to know where to send their old Christmas cards, I can recommend: R. D. Devasigomony, Evang. Tabernacle; No. 49, Stanley Nagar; Madras, 21, South India.

Brother Devasigomony is a poor national Christian evangelist who serves full time as a minister without pay. The people coming to his little hut-like church walk 10 miles to worship. He needs printed material and particularly religious-type cards for use in Sunday School. Mark the package "Used cards, no value," and postage will not be great. — HARRY

'ASK GERRY'

Press Aide Mainly Protector

By HELEN THOMAS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For newswomen covering the White House, the magic phrase used to be: "Ask Liz." Now it's: 'Ask Gerry."

Liz meant Elizabeth Carpenter, the witty and sometimes sharp-tongued press secretary to Lady Bird Johnson. Gerry is Gerry Van Der Heuvel, quiet, soft-spoken press secretary to Pat Nixon.

LIZ AND GERRY have a lot in common. Both are former newswomen who started their careers during World War II as reporters for United Press, now United Press International. Both covered the White House beat before becoming press secretary to the First Lady. Both are past presidents of the Women's National Press Club.

They differ strikingly in appearance and personality.

LIZ IS on the plump side, and has never been accused of timidity. Gerry is a slim, pretty blonde who is naturally reticent.

THE DYNAMIC Mrs. Carpenter, who now is writing a book about her experiences, is a hard act for anybody to follow, and no one knows it better than Gerry Van Der Heuvel.

THE PHONE never stops ringing in her office and the mail keeps pouring in. Every newswoman in town wants to interview Mrs. Nixon and her daughter Tricia.

So far, Gerry has primarily played a protective role. She has had little information to give out and she has tried to draw a strict line between the Nixon's public and private lives. The latter, she holds, is none of the press's business.

DESPITE THE STRAIN of finding herself on the opposite side of the fence from her ex-colleagues, she says of her new job:

"I love it."

She has a staff of three secretaries —three fewer than her predecessor —and plans to hire more help. She says she is "working a full 11 days a week."

"JUST BEING in the White House is a great thrill," she said. "It is a nice feeling to be a part of this house . . . looking out through the window at the south lawn . . . the historic atmosphere."

Mrs. Van Der Heuvel said that every First Lady has to draw a line between her public role and her natural right as a private person.

"There will probably be gray areas where her private and public life overlap," she added. "In that case the public role is bound to win out.

"BUT THERE will be times," she continued, "when you are going to have to rely on my judgment and Mrs. Nixon's personal feelings about spotlighting her actions."

She said she believes that the public "wishes to observe good manners in manifesting its interest in the First Lady."

Fashion Favoring Blondes This Year

By JANE ROGERS
London Express

London — Some girls (particularly brunettes) may say bitterly that its always a good year for blondes, but there's no doubt that '69 in particular is going to be a vintage year for the girl who has fair hair, whether it comes straight from a bottle or simply grew that way. All the colors are slanted her way, the new look in make-up is hers and hairstyles too.

TAKE CLOTHES for instance. The new shades are pale apple green, (the color of mint) soft baby pinks, fluffy blues. And who looks best of all in them? You've guessed it, the girl whose coloring is delicate and whose hair is one of those thousands of shades that come under the generic term blonde.

The cool uncluttered look that goes this season is a coat dress, tailored, buttoned and belted and made in a plain fabric like wool gabardine of terylene in the new diagonal weave. To go with it: matching shoes in pastel colors, pale stockings (they're almost white but not quite, have patterns knitted into them) and short white gloves for a prissy, straight-out-of-the nursery look. If your legs can stand the extra attention, then white knee-socks are in as an alternative to stockings, are paired with strapped shoes rather than lace-up shoes for a slightly more feminine look.

THIS IS NOT going to be the summer of the bronzed brown girl, but of the pale but not wilting lily. The way things are going at the moment, make-up will tend to be rather China doll in effect, with a pink and white face rather than an olive one. Olive-skinned girls who couldn't look pale and interesting if they tried will find that a clear pink powder rouge applied not just on the cheekbone but on the chin, the tip of the nose and the hairline as well (Don't overdo it though) will give their faces a much more delicate pinkish appearance, especially if they tone down their eye make-up.

Ever thought of going blonde? Its not such a frightening process as it seems, even if your hair is quite dark, for the hair manufacturers have speeded up and perfected bleaches to the point where anyone can use them safely.

WORRIED ABOUT just how blonde you can go? Then pick a rinse that will lighten your hair by gradual stages, each time you do it, so you can decide exactly when to stop.

Worried about the business of "touching up the roots" of your hair? then choose a shade that is only a little lighter than your own hair and you can use a shampoo-in lightener — when your hair needs re-doing, it is simply a case of using another of the shampoos. Incidentally if you are going from really dark to really blonde, it will pay you, in the long run, to buy a hair-piece to match. When the dark roots are showing and you haven't the time or the money to dash straight to the hairdresser you can clap on your hairpiece and still look fine.

STRAIGHT SHINING blonde hair always looks good, but newer now is the wavy look. Hairdresser Robert Fielding says: "Hair should be treated as part of an entire fashion look, and I feel that waves are more complementary to the fashion clothes around." He keeps the hair fairly short, adds a baby-face make-up to put over an innocent look.

New crazy way to go blonde, temporarily for the girl who doesn't want to wear a wig, won't bleach her hair — buy several skinny blonde plaits (they're on sale in most hair boutiques) and loop them like "earphones" on either side of your head. With your own hair smoothed back, whatever its color, they make a good coiffure for a party. If you are nervous you can spray your own hair to match, just for the evening.

Gardening Hints To Be Given By Prominent Horticulturist

"A New Approach to Shade Garden Care" will be the subject of Gordon Baker Lloyd, one of the West's best known horticulturists, at the Women's Garden Club at 1 p.m., Monday at the Country Club in Novato.

Lloyd has the oldest radio show on gardening in America, now in its 35th year. Heard on KGO, he has also been a statewide teacher in horticulture.

GORDON LLOYD

Author of two books on gardening, he will describe and show the various types of shade plants that can be grown in this area and types of soil preparation watering and feeding. He will illustrate his program by sketches in his practical and humorous approach to the subject, according to Mrs. Arthur Lindauer, publicity chairman for the Garden Club. A question and answer period will follow his talk.

Lloyd has his headquarter in Sierra Madre but he travels 10 days a month in this area and has eleven classes in the Bay Area with an attendance of nearly 500 members each month.

His wife, former television partner in their "Gordon's Garden" television show, will also be a guest.

MRS. WILLIAM ANDREWS, new president of the Decorations Guild of the Marin Art and Garden Center has appointed chairmen for the guild.

Appointed were Mmes. Irving Randall of Ross, staffing; A. E. Backman of San Rafael, instruction; Norbert Mages, Lucas Valley, membership; Richard Murphy, San Rafael, natural material gathering; J. J. Navas, San Anselmo, social housekeeping; Ralph Kauer, San Anselmo, dried material housekeeping; Harold Bickerdike, Fairfax, pricing; Elizabeth Elsen, San Rafael, paint; David Coffman, Tiburon, inventory; Dion Ramsey–Raisan, San Rafael, sugar plum tree; John Morrison, San Anselmo, telephone; and Wilbert Griffith, Novato; publicity.

The executive board meeting will be held at 10:30 a.m. Monday at the center.

Officers elected to serve with Mrs. Andrews are Mmes. John C. Smith, first vice president; Mages, second vice president; Coffman, secretary; Bickerdike, treasurer; and William Partridge, corresponding secretary.

THE CONGREGATION of the United Methodist Church of Mill Valley is planning a fellowship dinner for Monday.

The dinner will honor members of both the vocal and bell choirs of the church, and they and their families will be special guests at the pot luck dinner to be held in Fellowship Hall starting at 6:30 p.m.

Assisting with food are Mmes David Francis, Thales MacDermand and Luke Hicks.

NEW OFFICERS for the United Presbyterian Women of Westminster Presbyterian Church, Tiburon have been elected.

Mrs. J. Benton Bostick is president; Mmes. Homer J. Hixon, vice president and program chairman; Paul Steward, secretary; Joseph L. Dean, treasurer; and George White, nominating committee chairman.

Other board members are Mmes. Bruce Hixon, Milton L. Stannard Jr., Frank Macdonald, Walter Long and Howard Heginbotham.

THE REV. GEORGE P. CARTER, pastor of the United Methodist Church of Mill Valley, will present "Thoughts for Lent" Tuesday at the Luncheon meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service at the church.

"What do you need to know about Jesus to be ready for Easter?" will be the main question explored.

The business meeting conducted by president, Mrs. John Beck, will convene at 11 a.m. Luncheon will follow at noon, and the program will begin at 1 p.m.

Hostesses for the day will be Mmes. Earl Linman, Herbert Heberling, Paul Jenison and O. E. Lovett.

DR. YVETTE FALLANDY, chairman of division of humanities and professor of French at Sonoma State College will be guest speaker at the general meeting of the Novato Branch, American Association of University Women at 8 p.m., Monday at Sinaloa Junior High School in Novato.

DR. YVETTE FALLANDY

"Can American Colleges Learn From the May-June Student Revolts in Paris Last Year?" is the topic Dr. Fallandy has chosen.

"A look at other peoples troubles sometimes helps us with our own," Dr. Fallandy says. With a view of what can be learned by Americans by the French government's experience, she will outline the causes, events and results of the student riots which nearly toppled Charles De Gaulle, said Mrs. Stewart Dickson, program chairman. The public is invited to the meeting.

Dr. Fallandy received her Ph.D in romance languages and literature at the University of California in Los Angeles and has made many trips to France — her most recent was just following the student riots.

Hair Styles Are More Changeable

By DIANA POULOS

HAMMOND, Ind. (AP) — Today a woman can change her hairstyle almost as quickly as she can change her dress. She can switch from long, flowing locks to a headful of curls in a matter of minutes, using a wardrobe of wigs and hairpieces.

No longer are wig wardrobes limited to the fair ladies of the jet set. The majority of women today can afford some type of hairpiece from a wig, a demi wig, a fall, a postiche or a wiglet.

T. M. Cook, one of the owners of a Hammond beauty school, believes a good, human hair wig need not cost hundreds of dollars.

"There is a machine-made, human hair wig which sells for under $50, including styling, and I would put it up against a wig which costs $500 or $600," he said.

When purchasing a wig or hairpiece, Cook offered the following suggestions:

Examine the wig carefully, feeling the texture of the hair. A wig should feel nearly as soft and smooth as your own hair. "Most good wigs are made with European hair and should be marked as such," he said.

Examine the wig to see if it is machine or hand made. "I believe you get better results with a machine made wig," he said. "The accuracy is better with this type."

Examine the mesh cap to which the hair of the wig is sewn. The cap should be fitted by pinching and sewing the mesh together. "Some wigs are fit by pulling an elastic band together and tying it," Cook said. "This type of wig can leave gaps in the fit."

Basic accessories for a wig include a wig block (often made of styrofoam), styling pins and comb, wig base, and hair spray. "Wig spray can be used but hair spray works as well," Cook said. "Also, many people buy a wig case to use when carrying their wig to and from the beauty shop or with them on trips."

When the wig is not in use it should be kept on the wig block to keep its shape. "With normal use a wig should be cleaned at least twice a month," he said.

Cook does not advocate cleaning your wig yourself. "A wig is normally cleaned with a special dry cleaning solution which contains carbon tetrachloride," he said. "If a wig is washed, it will take a long time to dry. It is much quicker to use the cleaning solution on it."

MR. AND MRS. KENNETH LEE BECKER (Lorraine Hilliard) were wed March 1 at the San Rafael First Presbyterian Church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hilliard and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Becker, all of San Rafael.

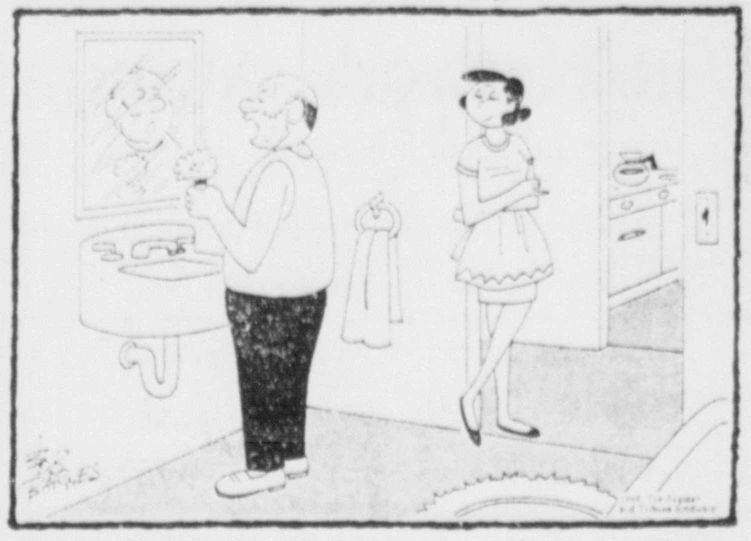
THE BETTER HALF By Bob Barnes



"I'm getting bored with shaving myself...you couldn't spare the time to go to barber's college, could you?"

Barber Bowls

From as early as the 15th Century, the barber used shaving bowls of china, silver, earthenware or brass, usually very ornate and decorated with intricate designs. Bowls were designed with a half-moon indentation at the edge to fit a customer's neck.

Drake Students' Films Win Network Airing

By DEBBIE HENDRICKS

Three films produced by students of Drake High School will be shown as part of a one-hour NBC special, "The Young Communicators," on March 16 at 4 p.m. on channel 4.

The films, produced under the supervision of Drake teachers Robert Johnson, Peter Monahan, and Richard DeConti, will be "Good Day Sunshine," by junior Mark Adler; "Faces," by seniors Jim Ahola and Grant Darrow; and a five-minute segment of "The Idaho Tests."

"Good Day Sunshine" illustrates and interprets the Beatles' song of the same title with animated drawings and pictures synchronized with the music.

"Faces" deals with war and violence, comparing man and ants, showing the cruelty in both.

The story of the many who conform and the odd-ball who bumbles through is the basic concept of "The Idaho Tests," which spoofs the standardized testing procedures.

Impossible Years Set By Players

"The Impossible Years," a comedy by Bob Fisher and Arthur Marx, will be presented by the Ross Valley Players beginning April 25. The production will run for four weekends, through May 17, with curtain time 8:30 p.m.

Blocks of tickets for groups are available by contacting the Ross Valley Players.

Miner Rescue Going Slowly

LARK, Utah (AP) — Rescue workers said today they were at least 24 hours away from reaching William Jones, the miner trapped underground since Saturday.

The rescuers were drilling a two-inch "guide" hole through to the enclosure where Jones is entrapped.

The two-inch hole, drilled at a 45-degree angle, was expected to take two to four hours to complete, after which it would take an estimated 20 hours for a 20-inch diamond bit to carve its way along the same route.

Simultaneously, other rescue workers, using hand tools, were circumventing the rockfall trapping Jones by digging a route officials said would take three days.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies currently being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from the California and National Parent-Teacher Association magazines and the Film Report of the Film Estimate Board unless otherwise noted. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael Library.

FAMILY

"Fantastic Voyage" — Extraordinary science fiction adventure stands in a class by itself. Miniaturized men are injected into a man's blood stream in order for them to perform brain surgery. A wealth of imagination and detail. Fascinating entertainment.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Bullit"—Crackling cops and killer thriller. Filmed in San Francisco with terrifying auto chase. Violence goes all out in blood and gore for shock effect.

"Buona Sera, Mrs. Campbell" — For their 20th reunion, three fliers and their families return to an Italian village. Each flier has been paying generous child support to an Italian woman for her illegitimate daughter. Risque comedy.

"Charly" — Poignant dramatization of a fictional case history of first human subject of a new type of brain surgery on a mentally retarded young man. Thought provoking, sensitive performances from the cast.

"Heart is a Lonely Hunter" — A rather sad story about a deaf-mute who in his loneliness touches the lives of many. Compassionate tale is tenderly told and played with rare perception.

"Lady in Cement" — Private eye Tony Rome again copes with murder. Crime is treated as comedy, language is gutter foul, action is brutal with lots of violence.

"St. Valentine Day Massacre" — This is a re-creation of gangland on Chicago's north side in 1920's. Atmosphere is permeated by the vulgarity, violence and cruelty that characterized that era.

"Yojimbo" — Melodrama skillfully acted in stylized Japanese fashion. Story of hatred and brutality offers occasional satire and comedy and a touch of sympathy lightens the aura of greed and cowardice.

BORDERLINE

(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Petulia — Trite story of illicit love told in very modern style. Sophisticated comedy with confused ethics.

ADULTS ONLY

"Born Losers" — Hoodlum motorcycle gang takes over a town for a revolting orgy of rape. Sadism and violence shown in detail.

"Born Wild" — Plot of inane melodrama deals with anti-Mexican prejudice in a California High School is a lame attempt to conceal true purpose of movie — exploitation of sex and sadism in teen-age set. (Parents Magazine.)

"Candy — A 17-year-old girl wanders through a series of sexual adventures with the strangest assortment of characters ever presented on the screen. Massively dull, ugly pornography.

"Faces" — Two middle-aged people find their marriage empty and seek satisfaction elsewhere. Dialogue is pretentious and there is much profanity and sex.

"Joanna" — An amoral girl goes from one affair to another with any man that comes along until she falls in love with a black man. Emphasis on nudity and frank love scenes. Impressive acting.

Civic Leaders To Hear College Panel

A panel of six officials from Sonoma State College will discuss "Sonoma State College — Its Impact on the County" at the Sonoma County Mayors' and Councilmen's Association meeting hosted by Rohnert Park at 7 p.m. Thursday at Chesney's Carriage House.

Campus Unrest Ranges From Studies To Beards

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Campus controversies over subjects ranging from programs for black studies to beards on football players continued today at colleges and universities around the nation but the protests were nonviolent.

This was the campus picture:

NEWARK, N.J.—The faculty of Rutgers University voted 95 to 40 to repudiate an agreement on admissions policy eached between protesting Negro students and the school adminisration.

The agreement, which ended a three-day occupation of the main classroom building last week, called for the school to admit all Negro applicants from Newark high schools who were in the top 50 per cent of their class.

The faculty supported the current admissions policy, criticized by the protesters as "racist," which states that Rutgers will "consider seriously" applications from disadvatanged New Jersey students in the upper half of their class.

WALTHAM, Mass.—A new sit-in began at the Brandeis University administration building to back the demands of Negro students seeking an Afro studies center. The university announced it would charge 76 students who held a similar sit-in Thursday with trespass.

CHAPEL HILL, N.C.—A group of 245 faculty members petitioned Gov. Bob Scott to remove state troopers sent to the University of North Carolina campus to maintain order during a strike by food service employes. A clash between students sympathetic to the strike and others seeking to eat supper closed one dining hall Wednesday.

CORVALLIS, Ore.—The Oregon State University faculty senate declared that no student should be disciplined because of their mode of dress, beliefs or hair style. The campus turmoil arose 10 days ago when a Negro football player was dropped from the squad for refusing to shave his beard. The school's 47 Negro students have threatened to quit en mass.

MADISON, Wis. — Three University of Wisconsin students arrested during a window-smashing protest last week were suspended by the board of regents. The protest followed a rally to support black student demands for a black studies department.

SEATTLE—A parade organized by the Students for a Democratic Society to protest the University of Washington's Reserve Officer Training Corps program drew 500 to 1,000 marchers. Across the campus about 2,000 to 2,500 turned out for a rally by the Associated Students of the University of Washington and heard a talk on "Dissent."

MINNEAPOLIS—More than 600 University of Minnesota students marched on the office of Hennepin County Atty. George Scott demanding that the dismissal of charges brought against three black students in connection with th January takeover of a campus building.

BOULDER, Colo.—Two rallies at the University of Colorado focused on demands for amnesty for eight persons charged with violating the state's new law on campus violence during an appearance by S. I. Hayakawa, acting president of San Francisco State College.

JACKSON, Tenn.—Lane College, closed Sunday following a student boycott and several fires on campus, will be reopened Wednesday. Students at the predominantly Negro school were demanding addition of Afro-American courses and an end to compulsory chapel attendance.

BRONXVILLE, N.Y.—A spokesman for Sarah Lawrence College said the administration was still waiting presentation of demands from 70 students who have seized the administration building. Earlier the protesters demanded a rollback in a $350 tuition increase, but they were turned down.

PLAINFIELD, N.J.—The Plainfield Board of Education said it would reopen public schools Monday with some changes designed to end racial confrontations at the schools. The schools were closed this week after racial free-for-all in the high school last Friday.

Monterey School Chief Cleared

SALINAS (UPI) — Edwin C. Coffin III, Monterey County superintendent of schools, was found innocent last night of six counts of willful misconduct in office.

A superior court jury deliberated five hours before ruling the accusations brought by the county grand jury were untrue. The main charge accused Coffin of double billing for airline tickets totaling $253.

The grand jury made the charges last November in a type of civil proceedings that hadn't been used in Monterey County for more than 30 years.

If a guilty verdict had been returned, Coffin, 46, superintendent for six years, would have been removed from office.

Muscovites Protest To Border Clash

MOSCOW, (AP) — Thousands of banner-waving Soviet workers and students marched on the Red Chinese Embassy today and hurled rocks and ink bottles in a protest stemming from a border clash with China in the Far East. The demonstrators smashed windows.

At about the same time the Soviet government announced it had protested massive demonstrations around the Soviet Embassy in Peking.

A report of the protest by the official news agency Tass said two diplomats and Tass correspondents "were insulted and subjected to acts of violence" there.

The Soviet protest, delivered to the Chinese Embassy in Moscow, demanded protection for Soviet diplomats and warned that "further reckless actions on the part of the Chinese authorities may lead to complications, the responsibility for which will rest wholly with the Chinese side," Tass said.

The Moscow demonstration came after three days of anti-Soviet mass marches in Peking. The Soviet demonstrators, brought to the area in hundreds of buses, paraded past the embassy chanting, "Shame to the clique of Mao Tse-tung," and other slogans.

After about two hours, the demonstrators had turned the main residence hall of the embassy compounud into a multi-colored wreck. Almost every window in the building was broken. Dozens of ink bottles had been smashed against it, leaving spots of blue, brown, black and red ink.

The main embassy building, sitting further back from the street, escaped damage. The large embassy compound was built in the days of happier relations between the Soviet Union and China and is much larger than needed by the small diplomatic staff now maintained here.

A line of some 200 militiamen in front of the embassy kept the crowd from surging onto the embassy grounds. A policeman with a bull horn kept repeating, "Comrades, please don't throw anything at the windows."

But the demonstrators, who had been driven to the scene in buses, had come armed with milk bottles, stones, and ink bottles.

Golda Meir Agrees To Take Top Spot

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel's ruling Labor Party endorsed Golda Meir for prime minister today, virtually assuring her the job. The former foreign minister said she would accept, even though the prospect "terrified" her.

In a statement to the party's central committee, Mrs. Meir made it apparent she will retain the cabinet of Prime Minister Levi Eshkol who died Feb. 26 after a heart attack.

This indicated that Moshe Dayan, a political rival of Mrs. Meir will stay on as defense minister.

The central committee endorsed Mrs. Meir by a vote of 287-0 with 45 abstentions, mainly from supporters of Dayan, who had reportedly hoped to win the prime minister's post.

Mrs. Meir favors Deputy Prime Minister Yigal Allon over Dayan. But political observers say she will need the popular Dayan to continue as defense minister to keep up public morale.

The one-eyed defense minister said earlier this week he would be willing to serve under Mrs. Meir if she was chosen by the party committee.

Now 70, the former Milwaukee schoolteacher will be Israel's fourth prime minister and probably its last governent chief from the generation of immigrants who founded the Jewish nation. After her, the leadership is expected to pass on the native-born Sabras, like Allon and Dayan.

Mrs. Meir smoked incessantly as she sat in the third row, wearing a navy blue dress. Dayan sat unnoticed well back in the hall and left when the meeting was half over. A spokesman for him, Shimon Peres, told the delegates that the Dayan faction would accept Mrs. Meir and added "we are saving our decision" on whether the defense minister would bid for the top post in November.

Although Labor Party leaders had asked her last week if she would accept the post, Mrs. Meir withheld her decision until the central committee voting. Privately she expressed fear that the strain of leadership might prove too much for her health.

Pinhas Sapir, secretary-general of the party, told the party caucus today that "Golda is suited for a public mission. She has the ability to lead and the authority in the country and the labor movement. And she is accepted by almost everybody."

Amid the political activity, the war between the government and Arab terrorists continued. Police blew up several small houses owned by two Arabs in Old Jerusalem after caches of arms were found in the buildings.

Coin Collection Reported Stolen

Farrington L. Jones reported to San Anselmo police yesterday that someone entered his home at 25 Park Way, apparently through an unlocked door, and stole his coin collection from the bedroom.

No value was placed on the collection, police reported.

Nixon's Debt Ceiling Plan Gets Setback

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has been dealt the first legislative setback of his six-week-old administration—refusal by the House Ways and Means Committee to refigure the national debt ceiling as he requested.

Instead of a redefined limit giving the Treasury $17 billion in new borrowing power, the committee approved yesterday a temporary $12 billion increase.

It will get the Treasury through some tight squeezes anticipated for next month and late summer. But in political terms it means the new administration will have to come back to the Democratic-controlled Congress early in 1970 to ask for another increase and face quizzing on its economy record.

The arrangement Nixon sought was expected to postpone debt limit problems at least two years and possibly indefinitely. In the past, Republicans have teamed with conservative Democrats to keep Democratic administrations returning annually to Congress when they wanted to raise the ceiling.

The present limit is $365 billion. The committee approved a $12 billion increase through June 30, 1970.

For readers the Space Agency (NASA) has provided the most likely times for the first landing attempt. These "windows" are the days when the Apollo spacecraft can reach pre-selected sites on the moon. The best "window" days include: April 18-24; May 17-23; June 16-22; July 15-22 and August 14-21. While most space experts talk of a June, 1969, landing, some predict it could come as early as April. The more cautious believe it will not come until August. Keep the "windows" in mind when you send in your best guess.

Federal Aid Help Key To Crime Rate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Crime and delinquency cannot be significantly reduced until there is "massive federal intervention" in aid to state and local governments for correction programs, the chief of Maryland's prison system said today.

Joseph G. Cannon, commissioner of the state's Department of Correctional Services, said in testimony prepared for the Senate juvenile delinquency subcommittee that his own state's system has "inadequate programs, inadequate space, inadequate supervision and inadequate education and vocational training."

He said prison supervision today is perhaps less effective than it was two years ago because of "salary scales that have not kept abreast of salaries in law enforcement and other areas."

The subcommittee, which has heard vivid testimony of brutality and perversion in the nation's prisons, ended its week-long public hearing today with Cannon the final witness.

The head of New York State's Division for Youth, Milton Luger, told the subcommittee Thursday it would be better if most juvenile delinquents never were caught and put into correctional institutions.

"Too many of them get worse in our care," he said.

"With the exception of a relatively few youths," Luger said, "it is probably better for all concerned if young delinquents were not detected, apprehended or institutionalized."

Injuries Are Minor In One-Car Crash

Jerome F. Fuetsch, 22, of 17 Corte Ramon, Greenbrae, was treated at Marin General Hospital yesterday for a bruised nose and eyebrow after a collision on Shoreline Highway in Manzanita, the California Highway Patrol reported today.

The highway patrol said a car driven by Durward B. Baker, 42, of 668 Hawthorne Drive, Tiburon, made a left turn onto a Highway 101 on-ramp in front of Fuetsch's car at 7:25 p.m.

Union Oil Expresses Optimism On Halting Santa Barbara Flow

COMBINED AP & UPI

SANTA BARBARA — Officials at the Union Oil Co. reported yesterday they were "reasonably optimistic" that the flow of oil from their offshore rig in the Santa Barbara Channel will be stopped soon.

They said the black crude had been seeping into the channel at the rate of 1,000 gallons per day, while the company poured special cement into the well so it will seep into some of the fissures on the ocean floor and stem the seepage.

The oil difficulties began when a seperate well on the same offshore platform blew out Jan. 28, causing a huge oil slick which coated a long stretch of Southern California coastline with the gooey crude.

Brisk offshore winds, however, yesterday blew the latest slick further out to sea to spare more damage to the beach areas.

Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel has told the oil company to resume limited drilling operations in the hopes this would relieve some of the pressure on the sands of the ocean's floor, to which the seepage is attributed.

In San Diego yesterday, a exper ton environmental health said the oil spills had so far caused little immediate damage to marine animal and plant life.

But, Dr. Wheeler J. North, an associate professor at California Institute of Technology in Pasadena, said there was a possibility that the oil seepage could cause long-range damage to such life.

North, in his remarks before the fourth annual Offshore Exploration Conference, said the crude oil involved in the Santa Barbara Channel leaks did not have the toxic effects of refined oil. It was refined oil which did much ecological damage to Baja California in 1957 when the tanker Tampico broke apart there.

In Sacramento, the chairman of the state Water Resources Control Boards says he wants to make certain there is no repetition of the oil well leak — either on state or federal lands.

Chairman Kerry W. Mulligan said, however, his board will take no action until officials in the state resources agency complete a study of offshore oil well drilling and producing safeguards.

"We'll sit tight a couple weeks anyway," Mulligan said following a board meeting yesterday.

The board had been asked by the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board implementation of procedures to assure that current and future leases and permits for such drilling operations will not cause water pollution."

College To Put Harlan Offices In Portables

Marin Junior College District trustees agreed last night that temporary office buildings for faculty and administration should be placed on the main parking lot along College Avenue.

The buildings are needed because Harlan Hall, which houses many offices, is scheduled to be demolished this summer.

Planning Director Dale A. Fleming noted that placing portables on the parking lot would result in the loss of 84 parking spaces, but would concentrate the offices in a central location.

The portables later could be moved to the north campus at Novato for classroom use, Fleming said.

On the basis of two estimates, one at $236,600 and the other at $248,200, Fleming reported that average cost of providing the needed space through portables would be $242,200. The average cost for trailers would be $193,200, he noted.

The Marin Junior College District Also:

SABBATICAL LEAVES — Granted sabbatical leaves to Dikran Martin, psychology instructor; Gerald Burroni, history; Robert Essig, data processing; James Stanley, electronics, and Leonard Weiss, English for the 1969-70 college year, and to Weaver Meadows, business, and Alfonzo Molina, biology, for the spring semester of 1970. The vote was 4-2 with Board President Theodore C. Wellman and Robert E. Oliver dissenting on the grounds that policy limited leaves to six persons, rahter than seven. The faculty felt that the two half-year leaves should be counted as one. The board called for a study to clarify the policy on sabbatical leaves.

RESIGNATIONS — Accepted the resignation of Roy Clark, grounds supervisor, effective May 1, and the resignation of Mrs. Pamela I. Meek, library clerk, effective Feb. 28.

HIRING — Approved the hiring of Mrs. Donna Bertch, library clerk, at $436 a month, effective March 3.

BLEACHERS — Authorized the sale of the existing athletic field bleachers, 4,800 seats, after a report that it would cost $45,000 to relocate them at the new athletic field. Trustee Harry J. Moore, vice principal of San Marin High School in the Novato Unified School District, abstained, noting the Novato district might be interested in obtaining the bleachers.

ENROLLMENT — Received a report from Irwin P. Diamond, dean of students, that final enrollment for the spring semester was 5,394 up 937 from the spring of 1968 and 12 higher than the fall semester, which traditionally has the highest enrollment. The spring enrollment boom has been attributed to student unrest and overcrowding at other colleges.

YOUTH CORPS — Received a report from Acting President Louis H. Harkenhoff that the district is participating in the Marin County Neighborhool Youth Corps program under the Economic Opportunity Act offering part-time jobs to college-age younths who otherwise would be unable to stay in school. There is one youth working in the maintenance department under the program, Herkenhoff said.

EQUIPMENT SALE — Authorized the public sale of two dump trucks, a stake truck, two welders and a 37-passenger bus ruled no longer suitable for use because of high cost of maintenance.

HIGH SCHOOLERS — Received a report that 27 seniors from Marin high schools attended college credit courses during the fall semester.

PERSONNEL CENTER — Authorized the purchase of equipment for the Student Personnel Center including bookcases, shelves and cabinets, at a cost of $3,776.

PARKING CHANGE — Approved changing the faculty parking lot at Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and Laruel Avenue to a lot for general parking.

ADULT EDUCATION — Received a report from Eugene Farrar, assistant dean for community education, that enrollment in the adult education program was 2,354 during the winter quarter, down 401 from the previous year.

CLOSED SESSION — Met in closed session to discuss rehiring probationary teachers for the 1969-70 school year, and reconvened in open sessin to adjourn, but took no action.

MEETING CHANGE — Rescheduled its April 17 meeting to April 16 so it could meet immediately after the district's 77-cent tax override election on April 15.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned until next Thursday at 8 p.m. at Room 72 in the Fine Arts Building for a short business session and a workshop on a preliminary 1969-70 budget.

Elizabeth M. Deedy was absent.

Bon Air Thieves Loot 18 Autos

Eighteen automobiles in the Bon Air apartment area of Larkspur were broken into Wednesday night, police said today.

Items stolen included a sewing machine, a man's suit, a camera, and small change, police reported.

The first resident to report was Mrs. Rita Heffron of 45 Via Belardo, who said her car window was broken, the glove compartment rummaged and candy and cigarettes taken.

Burglaries were from cars in apartments on Corte Lenosa, Via Casitas and Via Belardo, according to police. About half of the cars were locked and these had windows broken.

Miskimen Hits Charter Snag, Seeks Annex

San Rafael City Councilman John A. Miskimen wants to buy a waterfront home at 185 Oak Drive in Bayside Acres, outside the city limits, but the city charter requires that councilmen live within the city.

He took his problem to the Local Agency Formation Commission last night, asking that the lot be annexed to the city of San Rafael.

The commissioners, headed by Chairman Hugh G. Marchant, balked because such an annexation would bring one sliver of land into the city, with the only connection over water.

Commissioners continued the matter until April 10 and asked Miskimen to canvass other owners on Oak Drive to try to induce them to annex to the city.

The commissioners approved the following annexations:

San Francisco hotelman Melvin M. Swig's 22-acre lot on Lucas Valley Road opposite Mount Shasta Drive to Upper Lucas Valley County Service Area (for fire protection) and to Marin Municipal Water District.

Four lots in Novato to the Novato Sanitary District. They include 16.5 acres on the east side of Sutro Avenue near Dominic Drive, a quarter-acre lot on Center Road near Eucalyptus Avenue, a quarter-acre lot south of Virginia Avenue near Simmons Lane, and a half-acre lot at the corner of Vineyard Road, Trumbull Avenue and Sun Lane.

The commissioners decided to meet hereafter on the second Thursday of each month, instead of the first Thursday. Meetings are held at 8 p.m. in the board of supervisors' chambers at the Civic Center.

The missile, launched by a team of Air Force and industry personnel, soared to a predetermined target area in the Pacific, the Air Force said.

Junior College Cautioned On President Hiring Haste

By FRANK FARRARA

Faculty members last night urged the Marin Junior College District board to touch all bases before appointing a permanent College of Marin president.

Louis H. Herkenhoff has been acting president since April, 1968, when former president William K. Ramstad resigned after criticisms by faculty and students.

Before the board last night was a recommendation from the Academic Senate on procedure for advertising for applicants and screening them.

Trustee Donald K. Felt suggested the board defer action on the recommended hiring procedure and have a closed session next Thursday to consider "an obvious alternative, selecting our present acting president as president."

It might be that "all or most of the board would have in mind that alternative," Felt said.

The proposal was immediately challenged by Gerald Burroni, history teacher, who said the board shouldn't leap into picking a president and limit its choices.

The issue is of wide interest, and one of the most important of the board's tasks, he noted.

Trustee Harry J. Moore said he would want to hear the response from faculty and students before he would go into a closed session.

"It isn't uncommon to promote from within the ranks," Felt said. I don't see anything illegal, immoral or stupid about this approach, unless a lot of others, we feel important to the community, feel to the contrary."

Harry Gilbert, vice president of the Associated Students, said all facets of the campus community should have an opportunity to express their opinions so there is not a divided campus. "You need a united campus and hasty selection of a president is not the answer."

Felt dropped his suggestion of a closed session and the board deferred action on the hiring procedure recommendation until March 20.

They also agreed that a committee representing students, faculty, administration, non-review the proposed procedure and report back by March 20. Trustees Robert E. Oliver and teaching employees and trustees Charles W. Gray were appointed as the board's representatives to the committee.

In addition to his good academic record, Mrs. Palmer said, Magill has been active in athletics and music. He was a member of the swimming team and was drum major for the Novato High School band last fall. He is a semifinalist in the National Merit and California scholarship programs.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Magill of 450 Ridge Road, Novato.

Ehrlich Says Shooting Due To Woman

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The attorney for policeman Michael O'Brien, charged with manslaughter in the shooting death of a Negro truck driver, blamed a chief prosecution witness for causing the slaying.

Attorney Jake Ehrlich told jurors in his final summation yesterday O'Brien would not have been forced to shoot George Baskett in an alley brawl Sept. 29 if Mrs. Elizabeth Hawkins had not gotten a gun.

The shooting climaxed an argument between O'Brien, off duty at the time, and a resident of the mainly Negro area of Brush Place over a minor traffic accident.

Mrs. Hawkins testified earlier she got her pistol because O'Brien had pulled his revolver and she did not know he was a policeman.

Ehrlich repeated his charge that "politics" was to blame for the release from jail of Mrs. Hawkins, her husband and son, all of whom live on Brush Place.

The three were immediately booked for assault after the incident but charges were later dropped and O'Brien charged.

Ehrlich said the district attorney's office and local politics in general were responsible for the Grand Jury indictment of O'Brien. The defense attorney Wednesday implied that Mayor Joseph Alioto was using the trial for political gain.

He said O'Brien, 28, was beaten with a stick by Baskett and was backing off when the shooting occurred.

"I would have shot him there and then," Ehrlich told the panel of seven men and five women.

Girl Breaks Hip; Dashes Into Auto

A 10-year-old Petaluma girl was reported in satisfactory condition today at Hillcrest Hospital with injuries suffered when she was struck by a car at 3:25 p.m. yesterday on Gossage Avenue, north of Magnolia Avenue, Petaluma.

The girl, Victoria J. Forman, 1265 Gossage Avenue, suffered a broken hip and numerous cuts, according to the hospital. The California Highway Patrol said she left a school bus and ran across the street into the path of a car driven by Elaine D. Lewis, 22, of 755 Gossage Avenue.

FEATURED THIS SATURDAY

Special events at Golden Gate Baptist Seminary next week will mark two anniversaries. One will be the 25th anniversary of the founding of the school. And the other, the 10th year of its location on its present scenic campus on Marin's Strawberry Point. For tomorrow's I-J Marin Magazine, editor Don Keown has written the 25-year story of the seminary, and the much-longer story of the Southerrn Baptist denomination in Northern California.

Once a month the staff at Marin General Hospital are hosts for what must be one of the county's most unusual teas. They call it the "Mothers' Tea." And the guests are the expectant mothers who soon will be having their babies in the hospital. The purpose is to help them in their preparations and to acquaint them with what to expect when the big day arrives. The Marin Magazine reports tomorrow on the unusual event.

Future Of Bolinas Lagoon Hangs On Election Tuesday

One of Marin's priceless assets — Bolinas Lagoon — will be on the block Tuesday when the 698 voters in Bolinas Harbor District decide whether the district or the entire county will have control over the lagoon's future.

The issue is a simple one — whether to dissolve the district or not — but the ramifications behind it are endless.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors, disenchanted with the district board, ordered the election last year after conservationists and others objected to district policies, particularly two matters:

1. A $22 million lagoon development plan by consultant Norman T. Gilroy for a 1,600-boat marina, hotel, heliport, restaurants and shopping mall;

2. A district request last year to dredge 60,000 cubic yards of mud from Bolinas Channel and a channel past Kent Island.

Adding to the supervisorial displeasure was the district's refusal to let the county audit its books for three years, and the time elapsed sice the district was formed in 1957 to make "substantial improvements" in the lagoon.

The district board holds that the lagoon threatens to silt in within a few years unless there is dredging and maintenance—and enough commercial activity to finance it. Conservationists say there is no proof of that, and say development will ruin the lagoon and destroy or drive away the wildlife.

Since the election was ordered, two groups have been formed — the Committee to Preserve Bolinas Lagoon, supporting the harbor board, and Citizens for a Sensible Bolinas Harbor, favoring dissolution.

The antidistrict citizens last week mailed voters a letter charging the district has spent $317,843 so far without correcting any lagoon problems. Attached was a list of all district checks paid since 1966, including $67,518 paid Gilroy.

Gilroy is coordinator for a series of lagoon scientific studies jointly financed by the district, county, federal and state organizations and conservation groups.

The county mothballed its lagoon master plan when the studies were ordered of the lagoon's wave action, offshore sand flow, bottom contours, ecology, topography and tide flows.

Then the district last year proposed dredging and the county bucked fiercely, objecting the dredging would invalidate the studies made to date by altering the lagoon's natural processes.

The harbor district says the emergency dredging is needed to correct heavy silting from the 1966-7 rainy season which has silted Bolinas Channel to make tidal flushing impossible and navigation possible only at high tide.

Dredging opponents, some of whom suspect it is aimed merely at providing a boat channel, include the Nature Conservancy, the Audubon Society, Marin Conservation League and the U.S. Department of the Interior.

The big marina plan, which conservationists hamstrung by buying Kent Island and giving it to the county as a wildlife refuge, was apparently stillborn anyway. Shortly after it was presented in 1966, the Army Corps of Engineers rejected the lagoon as a harbor of refuge, meaning no army money would be spent improving the lagoon.

In proposing the dredging, Gilroy said last year that failure to dredge might dry up the western lagoon, principal feeding ground for wildfowl on nearby Audubon Canyon Ranch, and change the ecology.

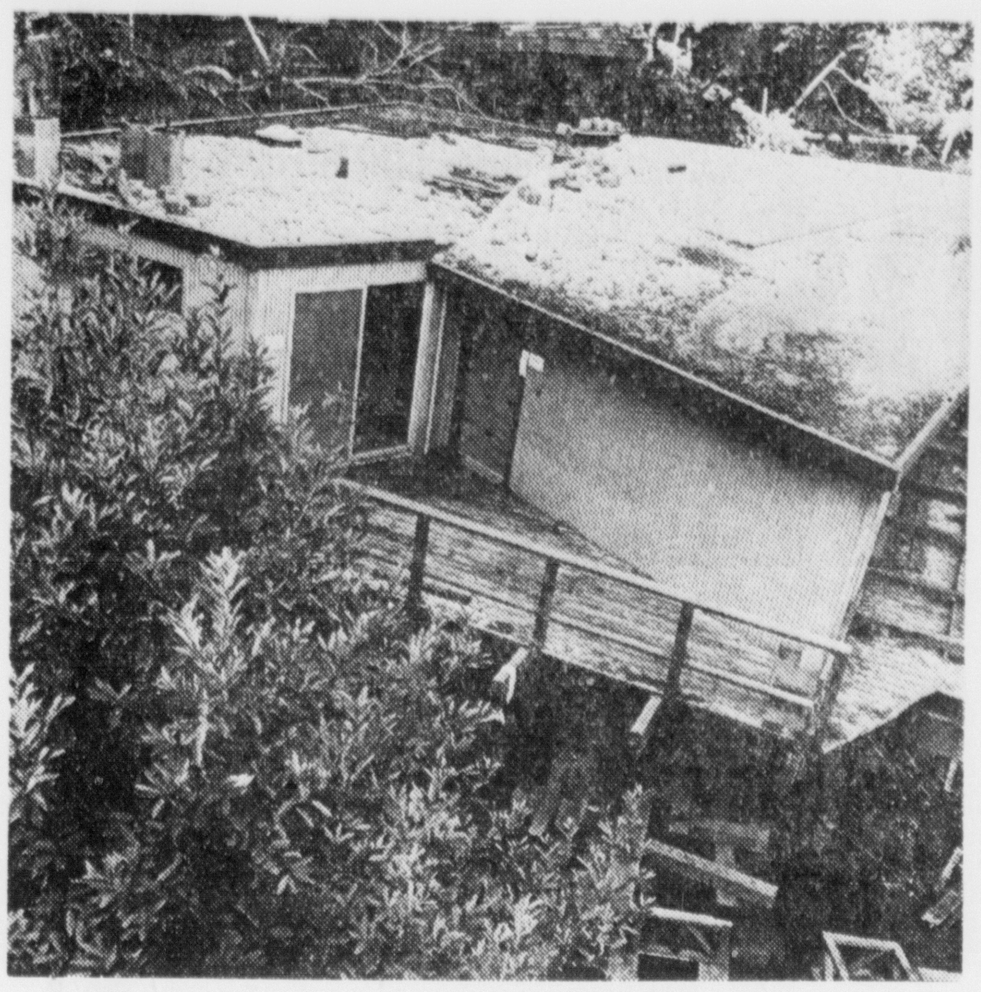
But last week ecologist Joel Gustafson, who conducted a study of the lagoon last year, said the proposed dredging will not reach far enough into the western lagoon to affect it

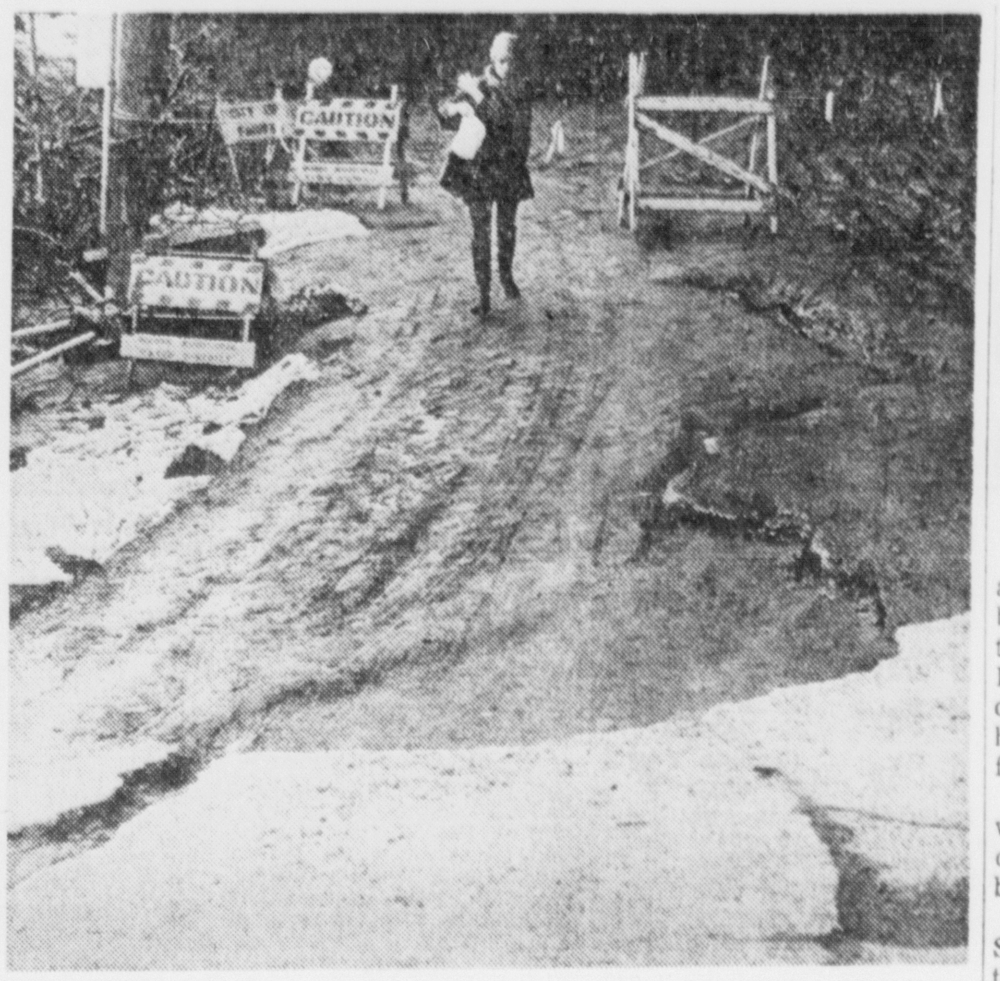
If the district is dissolved, according to terms set out by the county, its debts as well as its administration will be taken over by the county.

Since the harbor district got administration from the State Lands Commission, it may take special legislation to keep it from reverting to the state if the district is dissolved.

Board supporters say jurisdictional confusion will result from dissolution with the district in limbo pending state action.

On Tuesday the voters decide. Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. at the Stinson Beach Community Center and the Bolinas Community Building.





SLIDES THREATEN ROAD, HOUSE

Marijuana Arrest Held 'Harassment'

The Peace and Freedom Party of Sonoma County has charged the arrest of its leader, Ervin Hamilton Sutley, on marijuana offenses was "political harassment" by Cotati police.

Sutley, 24, of 490 Penngrove Avenue, Petaluma, was arrested Sunday on suspicion of possession of marijuana and possession of marijuana for sale. He was released on his own recognizance to appear for setting of a preliminary hearing at 1:30 p.m. Monday in Central Sonoma Municipal Court, Santa Rosa.

The Peace and Freedom Party, in a press release, labeled the arrest as "politically motivated" and demanded that the charges be dropped. Cotati Police Chief John Curtis denied the allegations and said he was not aware of Sutley's political affiliations until after the arraignment. He said he would not drop charges.

The statement said: "The Peace and Freedom Party judges a law and the use of laws solely on the basis of how they serve the people. We view the laws on marijuana as instruments to make people conform — of political oppression. It is for this reason that we have called for the repeal of all laws on drug abuse."

The statement intimates that the Mafia is responsible for most of the California drug traffic and charged that law officers are afraid to deal with that organization.

Sutley has been very active politically in the county. On numerous occasions, he has pointed out to people, in public, narcotics agents," the party said. "It is clear that his arrest constitutes political harassment and on these grounds we demand that the charges be dropped."

MARIN GRAND JURY

Two Legal Advisers Help Panel In Tasks

(Last of three articles)

The county grand jury, besides having its work split into two parts, gets legal counsel from two sources.

Criminal cases involving felonies are brought before the grand jury by the district attorney. The jury, in closed session, decides whether the cases justify holding the accused persons for trial.

The district attorney may, if he wishes, go another route with criminal cases, taking them to municipal court for preliminary hearings. It is largely up to the district attorney which route he follows.

In its investigation into the departments and agencies of government, the grand jury has the county counsel as legal adviser.

Whether dealing with criminal or civil matters, the grand jury holds its hearings in secret. Further, the law forbids any grand juror from disclosing any testimony presented before it.

There is an exception. The superior court may order the grand jury to hold public hearings when a matter under investigation affects the general public welfare or may involve corruption or dereliction of duty by public officials. Unless ordered by the court, however, the grand jury must not conduct a public investigation.

The district attorney and county counsel attend sessions of the grand jury in their roles as prosecutor and legal counsel. However, the grand jury also investigates their offices. When investigating them it may request legal help from the state attorney general's office.

No other public official participates in the grand jury's deliberations. All, including supervisors, county administrator, and on down the line, may be called before it as witnesses.

The law charges all public officials to cooperate with the grand jury. The extent to which they do so sometimes varies, and occasionally grand juries have harsh words for officials whose cooperation was regarded as less than whole-hearted.

As the end of its one-year term nears, the grand jury must issue reports of its findings in all its fields of investigation. It may issue additional interim reports at any time during the year. Practices on this vary from jury to jury, but the most active and most effective grand juries generally issue special reports during the year on special investigations they have conducted. Sometimes an early report is necessary to get a situation corrected without delay, or to urge passage of some needed legislation while the Legislature is still in session.

Special provisions of the law require the grand jury to investigate all jails and prisons within the county. This puts on the Marin County Grand Jury the duty to investigate the state's largest prison at San Quentin.

The grand jury as a pretrial tribunal in criminal matters was established in England in the 11th Century. In doing research for the grand jury manual which he prepared in 1967, Clifford S. Lund, foreman of that year's Marin County Grand Jury, discovered that it acquired civil investigative duties by the year 1290, being given "authority to inquire into the maintenanace of bridges and highways, the defects of jails, and whether the sheriff had kept in jail anyone who should have been brought before the justices."

Massie Gets Another Stay Of Execution

Convicted killer Robert Lee Massie, 26, has been granted a stay of execution at San Quentin Prison despite his insistence he wants to die.

The stay, ordered yesterday by U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, left Massie, who was to have been executed Wednesday, "mildly annoyed," according to Associate Warden James W. L. Park.

The stay will permit a battery of attorneys, representing Massie over his objections, to challenge his death sentence in the federal courts. The California Supreme Court ruled against a stay last month.

RIGHTS QUESTIONED

The attorneys, led by Paul N. Halvonik of the American Civil Liberites Union in San Francisco, contend that Massie's constitutional rights were infringed by the method used to select his jury, among other things.

They also cited the case of another convicted slayer — Melvin Davis Rees Jr., of Hyattsville, Md. — who told his attorneys to stop legal proceedings on his behalf.

Douglas' ruling gives the attorneys time to file a formal appeal of Massie's death sentence.

TWO OTHER STAYS

Massie now has received two reprieves and two stays since his original execution date was set for Sept. 26, 1967.

Massie was convicted of the 1965 murder of a San Gabriel woman during a robbery attempt in the driveway of her home.

Massie's stay leaves only four inmates of Death Row with fixed execution dates and one of them is facing a sanity trial to determine whether he is sane enough to be executed.

Jury Deadlocks On Holdup Case

Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court yesterday declared a mistrial in the case of Warren Wilson, 20-year-old Oakland man, when the jury split 7-5 on whether Wilson had been positively identified as the armed robber of a Sausalito store.

Wilson's case was returned to the court's calendar Monday for the setting of a new trial.

The jury deliberated almost five hours yesterday before returning to announce the split. When the judge ascertained that the jury did not feel it could come to a unanimous decision after further review of the testimony, he dismissed the jurors.

Wilson was arrested 10 days after a theft from a Sausalito clothing store and a wild shooting fray on Princess Street on July 30 of last year.

Sentenced To Jail

William C. Smith, 19, of San Rafael, who pleaded guilty to burglarizing the Western Boat Shop in San Rafael on Oct. 23, yesterday was sentenced to 60 days in Marin County Jail. Judge Harold J. Haley also placed Smith on two years probation.

Sanitary District Merger Foe Warns Of Future Costs

An opponent of absorption of the Novato Sanitary District by the North Marin County Water District asserted yesterday the combine would not save money in the long run.

Novato City Councilman J. Wayne Womack, who supports a plan for a future city takeover of the sanitary district, told a meeting of the Novato Chamber of Commerce directors, "You might save a dollar today but it would cost you $5 in the future."

Womack has asserted that merger of the water and sanitary districts would lead to expansion of service to West Marin and that present residents of the districts would have to pay for a system in West Marin.

However, Womack agreed with other officials who discussed the proposed merger before chamber directors yesterday that $9,000 would be saved at once in the cost of operating the sanitary district governing board and offices.

Arnold E. Heise, chairman of the water district board, said there would be other savings in the use of men and equipment, but Womack said the same amount of money would be saved in a city-sanitary district merger.

Another speaker, Thomas D. Hardcastle, chairman of the sanitary district board, said the water board acted too hastily in calling for an election to combine the districts. Residents in the districts will vote April 15.

He said that the sanitary district board always felt that it should be a part of the City of Novato.

(The water district can absorb the sanitary district because it entirely encompasses it, but the city cannot absorb the sanitary district because it does not have 80 per cent contiguous boundaries as required by state law.)

"Give the voters a choice for a merger with the water district or the city, or no merger at all," Hardcastle said.

Heise said that economically it would be more feasible to merge the sanitaty district with the water district.

"Essentially we perform the same type of work in engineering and maintenance of mains. The water district has its peak work load in the summer and the sanitary district in the winter. We could use the same men at the peak periods for each operation," Heise added.

"There are 398 cities in California and more than 300 of them handle their own sanitary facilities," Womack said.

Heise referred to a possible merger one day of the North Marin Water District with Marin Municipal Water District.

Womack said that Novato voters would not retain local control of their sanitary facilities under such an arrangement.

The Novato Sanitary District board and the Novato City Council have voted to oppose the merger of the sanitary district with the water district. The water district board initiated the action for the April 15 election.

Panel To Study Services Areas

The City-County Services Committee will try to draw a line between county services and city services, when it meets at 8 p.m. Monday in Room 420 of the Civic Center.

The apportionment of municipal court fines and forfeitures is also on the agenda. Each city now gets a portion of such fines and forfeitures, the amount varying between 11 and 30 per cent.

The committee is composed of Supervisors John F. McInnis and Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., Novato Councilman Douglas M. Merrill and Larkspur Mayor Alfred J. Malvino.

Patrol Plane's Crash Kills Five, Injures One

LEMOORE (UPI) — Five Navy men were killed and one was seriously injured yesterday when their four-eingine patrol plane crashed and burned while landing at Lemoore Naval Air Station.

The P3 Orion, a long-range craft usually used for anti-submarine surveillance, was from Moffett Field, south of San Francisco. It was practicing takeoffs and landings when the crash occurred.

Navy officials said there was no warning or indication of trouble until the big turbo-prop plane slammed into the east runway. The plane's propellers tore chunks out of the runway, and burning wreckage was scattered over a wide area.

Ramparts Claims It Won't Fold

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Ramparts Magazine isn't going to let a little thing like a $5.8 million dollar debt keep it from continuing to publish.

At least that's what its officers told a bankruptcy court yesterday.

It hopes to borrow $115,000 from new investors and anticipates getting $65,000 in advance renewals. Publishing ventures have brought in another $75,000 and so the magazine hopes to have over $250,000 by the end of June to start paying off its debts.

Bankruptcy referee Lynn Gillard agreed the company would not have to post a bond since publisher Frederick C. Mitchell said that would cause the magazine to fold.

Gillard ruled the magazine could continue to publish and that creditors could not take immediate court action to collect.

Professor Found Dead In Ditch

SAUGUS (UPI) — The body of Frank Metfessel, a retired professor at the University of Southern California, was found yesterday entangled in debris in a drainage ditch at the rear of his cabin.

The 67-year-old Metfessel was reported missing last Feb. 27 in the wake of the devastating rain storms which caused killer mudslides and floods throughout Southern California.

Sheriff's deputies said Metfessel, who had been living alone in the cabin for some time, apparently drowned when he fell into the rain-swollen ditch.

His body was discovered by Los Angeles County flood control workmen clearing storm debris from the drain.

Blast Ruptures East Bay Pipeline

MARTINEZ (AP)—An explosion ruptured a Standard Oil of California pipeline yesterday, dumping 4,000 gallons of crude oil into Alhambra Creek.

Contra Costa County sheriff's deputies said the pipe carries oil from the San Joaquin Valley to a refinery in Richmond.

A strike was settled Tuesday at the refinery. The cause of the blast was under investigation.

Surgeon's Wife Sues For Divorce

San Rafael neurological surgeon Robert D. Dunbar, 50, was sued Wednesday in Marin Superior Court for divorce by his wife of four years, Miriam Moore Dunbar, of Kentfield.

Mrs. Dunbar, who alleged cruelty, asked for all of the community property. She also asked $1,920 a month support, saying that Dr. Dunbar earns $6,300 a month.

They were married in 1964 in Los Angeles and separated in December 1967. There are no children.

USC's Offer To O.J.: Chance To Be Trojan

BUFFALO'S $600,000 BILL — What proselyting enticement did the University of Southern California offer for the super football services of Orenthal James Simpson?

The Coliseum? Pershing Square? Catalina Island?

"We told J. all we could offer him was the chance to become a Trojan," said super recruiter Marv Goux, assistant to head coach John McKay.

"And that's what I got," smiled America's greatest collegiate football player the other night in San Francisco where he was honored by USC's Bay Area Alumni Association at a banquet arranged by Ed Jones of Greenbrae.

JOHN McKAY

In recalling the spirited recruiting battle for Simpson after he blazed a glorious gridiron trail at Galileo High School and City College af San Francisco, the peppery 37-year-old Goux said he has been wrongfully credited for landing the prize. "I didn't do it," he said, "the University of Southern California did."

But Simpson, the number one draft choice of the Buffalo Bills of the American Football League, allowed as how "Coach Goux did a pretty good job (of recruiting). He phoned me one night to ask if I had made up my mind. When I told him I was packing my clothes and going to (University of) Utah he asked me to sit tight, he wanted to talk to me again. Before I knew it he caught a plane in L.A. and was at my house within a couple of hours telling me all about USC again.

Warning Finally Did It

"On another occasion, when I mentioned that I might be interested in going to Cal (Berkeley), he said: 'Well, remember, if you go to Cal you're going to have to play against USC and I'm the defensive coach. . . .' That did it!"

Simpson doesn't talk much about his headlined contractual negotiations with Buffalo, referring all questions to his manager Chuck Barnes and attorney Dave Lockton. "They're handling everything," he said.

But Coach McKay was quick to bring up the subject, tongue-in-cheekily. "We want $600,000 and the rights to sell Buffalo," he quipped. "But it looks like I'll have to settle for Niagara Falls. After 19 years of marriage, who needs Niagara Falls?"

Continuing, McKay told the alums: "People ask me if I think J. will make it in pro ball. Well, if they're still playing with 11 men, each equipped with two arms and two legs, yes, he'll make it.

"When J. first came to us he was slow and fat (laughter), but we trimmed him down and coached him into a pretty fair football career.

'You know, I used to be pretty well known until I started coaching stars," he grinned at O.J. "Now people say, 'Oh, yes, you're the man who coaches O.J. Simpson. Tonight, for example, a boy asked me for my autograph. When his father asked 'Who's that?' the boy said, 'I don't know, but I think he's the coach.' "

That Game With Stanford

McKay then went on to rehash heavily-favored USC's agonizingly close 27-24 victory over Stanford last Oct. 12, tickling the Trojan grads with his facetiousness. "I was surprised," he dead-panned, "that a girls' school could stay that close to us. Before the game I told the guys, 'There are a lot of people in the stands looking for a good game so let's make it close. But in the fourth quarter I gathered the guys around me and said, 'Look, I said let's make it CLOSE, but THIS is ridiculous! Then you kind folks sent down some trick plays, O.J. scored a couple of touchdowns and we managed to pull it out."

In a more serious vein, McKay described Simpson as a model of "humility, dignity and ability. There may be a better football player to come along some time, somewhere, but there will never be a better person."

Or richer, he might have added.

'Gimmick' Rally Slated Saturday

The North Bay Corvette Association is sponsoring a "gimmick" rally tomorrow, beginning at 6 p.m., starting at Campbell Bishop Chevrolet in Corte Madera.

Hot Rods Open New Sonoma Raceway

There will be more than a million doallars worth of machinery at Sears Point International Raceway in Sonoma County this weekend in the track's first official event.

It will be a National Open Drag Race under the sanction of National Hot Rod Association, and Jack Cameron, drag strip manager for the raceway, is expecting between 40 and 50 cars, putting the event in the million dollar category.

Leading the eight eliminator brackets and 50 different classes are Double A Fuel dragsters and Funny Cars (dragsters with fiberglass bodies resembling regular street model cars). Engines alone for cars in this class cost up to $10,000 and produce horsepower to the 1,500 and 1,600 range.

Cars will be competing for a total of about $25,000. Purse money is $15,430, with contingency money of another $10,000 or so tacked on.

The event is attracting drag racers from all over the west. Big John Mazmanian of Los Angeles will be bringing his widely-known Funny Car. The candy apple red paint job on his dragster cost about $1,000 alone. Another of the famous vehicles among drag racing circles Nelson Carter's "Super Chief" from Tulsa, Okla. Mickey Thompson of Long Beach will be there, as will Mike Miller of Seattle, Wash.

Among the top Double-A drag race drivers scheduled to compete are Don Garlits of Florida, Jerry Ruth of Seattle, Tom Larkin of North Hollywood, Jim Davis of Walnut Creek and Dennis Baca of Walnut Creek.

Redwood Loses Tourney Opener

By GARY TISCHLER

The Redwood High School Giants ran into bigger Giants last night.

Power-packed Castlemont High School of the Oakland Athletic League erased Redwood's Marin County Athletic League cage champs on the boards to tripper a hard-won 80-72 victory in a thrill-packed opening night of the 1969 Tournament of Champions in the Oakland Arena yesterday.

TOO TALL

Redwood died slowly and bravely but in the long run the Giants simply couldn't handle the stronger and bigger Knights where it counted the most — underneath the backboards.

In other first-round games, Sacred Heart of the San Francisco Triple A League brushed off Livermore of the East Bay League 61-45, Santa Rosa's Montgomery High School of the North Bay League nicked El Cerrito's Alameda Athletic League Champs 63-59, and Hayward of the Hayward Athletic League registered the upset of the night by shocking heavily favored St. Joseph of the Catholic Athletic League 69-62 in three overtimes.

VS. LIVERMORE

Redwood meets Livermore, a team that owns a 62-54 practice game win over the Giants, in the consolation bracket at 4:30 p.m. today. In another consolation game, El Cerrito tackles St. Joseph at 6 m. In the championship bracket Sacred Heart tackles Castlemont at 7:30 p.m. and Hayward and Montgomery tackles at 9 o'clock in a rematch of last year's TOC game won by Montgomery.

"We played a great game," Redwood coach Dick Hart said. "They just had too much height. I can't take anything away from our boys."

TENACIOUS

The shooting was there throughout the game, and the Giants, who had several chances to play dead and roll over, never let the tourney favorites off the hook, twice cutting 10 point leads down to size.

They had the Knights on the run early, spurting off to a seven-point, 11-4 lead in the early going as 6 foot, 6 inch transfer Pete Webb battled manyly under the boards and Skip Corsini drilled some key long shots.

But by the end of the first quarter, Castlemont, behind 6-foot, 7-inch center Robert Gums and 6-6 Norman Knowles, had brought the Knights back to within a point, 21-20.

LAST LEAD

Redwood had its last lead at 7:02 of the second quarter, when John Boro completed a three-point play with a 20-foot jumper and a free throw for a 24-22 edge.

Then the bubble burst as 6-3 guard Mike Quick, the Knights' top socrer, took over. Quick, with fluid faking and good moves, led the Knights on an 11-point spree, personally scoring nine points on twisting jumpers and that was the game as the Knights led, 33-25.

They extended the lead to 40-29 and seemed set to deliver the knockout punch when Bill Challender's wrong-way try at a fielder at the Castlemont basket seemed to set the Giants off.

FIVE POINTS

Webb twisted away for a fielder, Jerry Piro bagged a two-pointer and Jim Peters nabbed two points on a goal-tending call

Souped Up Baseball Gets Try

NEW YORK (UPI) — Will souping up the baseball put hitting back into the "national pastime?"

That's the question Commissioner Bowie Kuhn hopes to answer later this month when a new "rabbit" ball will be used in two exhibition games as an experiment.

The manufacturer, A.G. Spalding & Co. has produced a baseball with an improved center which is supposed to increase the resiliency by 10 per cent.

The world champion Detroit Tigers, one of the best hitting teams, and the New York Mets, one of the worst batting clubs, will be the first teams to try out the new ball at Lakeland, Fla., on Maarch 13.

The following day, the San Francisco Giants and the California Angels will use the same type of ball in a game at Phoenix, Ariz.

Marichal In Camp, But Still Unsigned

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — Signs of worry over the whereabouts of ace pitcher Juan Marichal vanished today as the San Francisco Giants prepared to open the exhibition season against the Chicago Cubs.

Marichal, a 25-game winner in 1968, arrived in camp last night.

He said he was in excellent condition and ready to go to work as soon as the matter of an increase in his $100,000 salary is settled.

First baseman Willie McCovey, although unsigned, has been in camp since Monday and has been working out.

The team had listed the two players as the only holdouts. However, it was reported yesterday that pitcher Bobby Bolin and infielder Cesar Gutierrez, both in camp, are also unsigned.

Javier Remains A Holdout

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Second baseman Julian Javier did an about face today and declined to sign a 1969 St. Louis Cardinals contract without further negotiations, the club reported.

Earlier the club announced he had signed.

Javier reported to the Cards training camp at St. Petersburg, Fla., last night.

A Cardinal spokesman in St. Louis said Javier agreed with General Manager Bing Devine at that time to sign his contract today.

"This morning, he decided after further thought that he would not sign but wanted to meet with Devine for further negotiations, the Cardinal spokesman said.

Meanwhile, first baseman Orlando Cepeda reported to the Cards camp and signed a contract.

A's Monday, Jackson End Holdout

MESA, Ariz. (AP)—The Oakland Athletics, their two big holdouts in the fold, have their last intrasquad game today before tomorrow's exhibition season opener.

Centerfielder Rick Monday, asking $27,000 and reportedly offered $23,000, and rightfielder Reggie Jackson, asking $23,000 and offered $18,000, came to terms yesterday.

Manager Hank Bauer said the two players, both All-Americans at nearby Arizona State University, will be kept out of exhibitions until "they catch up" in training.

The Joe DiMaggios defeated the Bill Posedels, 1-0, in an intrasquad game yesterday, with Dave Duncan singling in Ramon Webster with the only run.

Coaches Stand Fast On Hairy Issue

By GARY TISCHLER

Some 50 members of the Larkspur school's team were faced with a tonsorial choice this week and by Wednesday most of them had trimmed, although under protest.

The situation mushroomed after Gordon Pusser of Corte Madera, father of one of the members of the track team, protested to Redwood's rigid haircut rules at a meeting of the Tamalpais High School District board.

At that time, what Redwood athletic director Robert Troppmann described as "half of the track team" had signed a petition objecting to new track coach Gary Shaw's ruling that, in effect, said get a haircut or be dropped from the squad.

So far no one has been dropped for the haircut ruling, according to Troppmann, and most of the team is together again. But the whole issue has once again raised the question of long hair, rulings, jurisdiction and what constitutes a neat haircut.

Troppmann saw the situation as something of a small rebellion against the coaches and their authority.

"We had several meetings after we were presented with the petition," Troppmann said. "We stuck to our guns. We did not compromise."

Pusser, according to Troppmann, circulated a letter to members of the track team, urging them to stand fast, and if forced to make a choice between haircut and team, to submit under protest.

"He (Pusser) has a right to think what he wants," Troppmann said. "But the letter is something else again."

Shaw, in his first year as Redwood track coach, stepped into a hornets' nest, but he is basically working under general guidelines set for the entire Redwood athletic department.

The only reference to haircuts in training rules is that an athlete be "neat and well-groomed."

"That doesn't mean you have to get a butch or a real close cut," Troppmann explained. "It has to be neat, not past the collar, down in the eyes."

Troppmann sees the haircut ruling and any other training rule as part of the school's tradition.

"Tradition doesn't make it right," he said. "But it does count for something."

Troppmann feels the authority lies with the coach and that he has support in his and the department's position.

"I think we have our reasons for our rules," he said. "We should be able to tell the athletes what to do in this case. And not everyone feels as Mr. Pusser does. I received quite a few calls Tuesday night from parents supporting the coaches. And some of the other athletes have started petitions supporting the coach."

"This isn't a question of long hair hurting the athlete," he said. "I'm sure short hair won't make him run faster. But it is a matter of policy."

Not all coaches agree with the long hair ban. Bruce Grant, Tamalpais High School track coach, for one, says that there will be some long hairs on his team.

"It's not that important," he said. "This is part of the youth today. I don't think it will make a difference in their performance."

There is no Marin County Athletic League ruling on the matter of dress, appearance or haircuts. It varies from school to school, coach to coach. Final authority would appear to be with the individual coaches or athletic directors.

One such solution to the problem of haircuts could be some kind of uniformity throughout the league.

Redwood Cagers Downed

to cut it to 40-35 at the half.

It went nip-and-tuck in the third quarter, Redwood going for a last stab after Piro cut it to 42-44 with a four-point play that climaxed a seven-point spree.

But Castlemont, getting easy and power-packed baskets underneath, steadily pulled away, leading by 60-53 at the end of the third quarter and pulling to its first 10-point edge early in the fourth quarter.

The Giants kept scoring and pecking, but just didn't have enough to come close again. Castlemont's biggest lead was 76-65.

FOULS OUT

Jim Peters, who had 11 points, fouled out in the fourth quarter, taking a good part of the heart and gut of the Giant offense out.

Piro finished with 18 points. Webb, who got eight rebounds, had 15 points and Boro had 12.

The Knights had no such balance, but didn't need it with Quick winding up with 27 points, and Knowles with 24.

Webb scored on seven of nine shots from the field, as the Giants shot 40 per cent. Outmatched as they were on the boards, they would have needed to shoot 50 per cent to win.

UNDERDOGS

Montgomery, bearers of a 19-game win streak, were sparse underdogs in its game against an El Cerrito team that had bopped Richmond twice to gain the tourney berth.

The Vikings, with only 1968 all-tourney player Tom Fitchie doing a smooth job, trailed El Cerrito throughout much of the game. They were behind, 12-7 at the quarter, 29-26 at the half and by as much as 40-32 in the third quarter before they ignited.

Tom Fitchie, who shared scoring honors with Steve Tiedeman with 20 points, ignited a seven-point spree in the third quarter that made it 41-40. Two straight layups off steals put the Vikes ahead, 44-40, and from there it see-sawed, El Cerrito regaining the lead twice early in the fourth quarter, before Montgomery pulled away to a 58-51 lead.

CLUTCH SHOTS

Tiedeman nailed it down by sinking three straight clutch free throws in the final seconds.

The upset of the night gave Hayward, after two straight frustrating appearances a berth in the second-round champion round. The Farmers, a one-man team of Warren Morse (30.7 average) were behind by 11 points in the third quarter, but finally caught up to tie it at 55 all at the end of regulation.

After a pair of two-point overtimes, the dam broke for the hungry Farmers, as they scored on a series of free-throws to knock off St. Joseph, a team rated next to Castlemont in the TOC.

BAD NIGHT

Part of the St. Joseph collapse was the failure of highly-touted Joseph Vittatoe to come through. He hit on only three of 20 shots and wound up with eight points. Teammate Ken Gilliland, a superb 6-2 athlete, picked up some slack with 33 points on 12 out of 15 shots, but it wasn't enough.

Morse scored 22 for the Warriors, but he had help this time with two other Farmers in double figures. He helped to control the boards with 24 rebounds.

McCovey Sees Big Year For A Healthy Jim Hart

PHOENIX—Willie McCovey turned down an invitation to predict a pennant for the Giants this year, declaring that baseball was the kind of game that made predicting about a team a precarious business.

"Why," said the big first baseman who was home run and RBI champ of the National League last season, "it's even tough predicting what one player will do. Take Jim Ray Hart, for instance.

"I've been predicting for several years that Hart would lead the National League in hitting. He has all the tools and when he is in a hot streak nobody can stop him.

"I DON'T believe I ever saw Hart get a cheap hit. But I've seen many hits taken away from him at Candlestick Park by the wind and heavy infield. Sizzling grounders that are run down on Hart in Candlestick would be through fast infields for hits in other parks."

Hart still is McCovey's favorite to lead the National League one of these years. McCovey discounted Hart's dismal season in 1968. Instead he looked to four years of robust hitting by Hart from 1964 through 1967.

"DON'T TAKE 1968 as any indication of Hart's ability," said McCovey. "He was hurting most of the season last year — one injury after another."

In his rookie year of 1964, Hart hit .286, 31 homers, 15 doubles, six triples and drove in 81 runs; in 1965, .299, 23 homers, 30 doubles, six triples, 96 RBIs; in 1966, .285, 33 homers, 23 doubles, four triples, 93 RBIs; in 1967, .289, 29 homers, 26 doubles, seven triples, 99 RBIs.

HART'S BATTING record from 1964-68 certainly corroborates McCovey's statement that Hart never gets cheap hits. Indeed, he doesn't. Actually, every third hit Hart gets is an extra base smash.

In 1964 he had 162 hits in 566 ABs and 52 of the hits were for extra bases; in 1965, 177-for-591, included 50 extra base hits; in 1966, 165-for-578, 60 for extra bases; in 1967, 167-for-578, 62 for extra bases.

EVEN IN his first off season last year, Hart maintained the ratio of one extra base hit for every three he got. In 1968 Hart was at bat only 480 times because he played in only 136 games due to injuries. Of his 124 hits, 40 were for extra bases — 23 homers, 14 doubles and three triples. His 124-for-480 gave him a .2598 average, his lowest in five major league campaigns.

"EVERYONE KNOWS .258 is not indicative of Hart's ability." said McCovey. "With a little luck and good health this year, Hart just might have his best year ever. If we could be sure of that I wouldn't mind accepting an invitation to talk about a pennant."

Oaks Win Fourth Straight

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Oakland Oaks have run their winning string to four and cooled off the American Basketball Association's currently hottest club, the Miami Floridians.

Oakland trailed 65-50 at the half in Miami Beach last night, but outscored the Floridians 33-19 in the final period to win 117-113.

The Floridians led 35-22 after the first quarter and at one time had a 22-point advantage. Oakland went out in front to stay in the last minute. Warren Armsrong got a jumper that made it 115-113 with 39 seconds to go.

MARIN BOWLING HIGHLIGHTS

Woman Rolls Rare Score; Lights Out At Greenbrae

By RALPH CHATOIAN

In the Forget Me Nots League at Nave Lanes, that house of bowling near Ignacio, Nina bowled her average — three times. A 148 average bowler, she reeled off a 148 triplicate series.

I don't know what the odds on that are, but it's somewhat better than 2 to 1, I assure you.

Over at Greenbrae Lanes, management and bowlers alike are still screaming about being thrown into total darkness.

It seems there was a bit of power failure Wednesday night. It all started when winds knocked a tree limb onto a power line at 40 Via La Cumbre.

It was 6:39 p.m. and the 24 lanes were filled. Getting ready to start serious action were men and women in the Merry Mixers League and men in the Northern California Merchants League.

Bowlers waited around in the dark until about 8 o'clock and then packed up the ball and headed home. It was good they didn't wait. The lights at Greenbrae Lanes didn't come on again until shortly after midnight.

STRIKES TO SPARE — Mitzie Brown, a director in the Marin County Woman's Bowling Association, is now eligible for the Marin women's 600 club after tossing a 603 series in the Mixed Travel League at Country Club Bowl in San Rafael . . . Barbara Conrad went 78 pins over her average when she rolled a 221 in the Hits and Mrs. League at Greenbrae Lanes . . . Ron Moresco was star of the show in the St. Isabella's Men's League at Nave Lanes, rolling a 269 game and 663 series . . . Bea Hoffman wowed them in the Sleepers League at Country Club, 258 game and 587 series.

DOWN THE LANES Pat Kenney rolled an all-spare game in the Monday Washday League at Nave Lanes, ending with a 182 score . . . Al Gagnon, 154 average, rolling in the Hi-Lo's League at Country Club, had games of 190, 226 and 215 for a 631 series, quite a night's work . . . Jim Katz of the Thursday Nite Handicap League at Nave Lanes is still counting splits in his sleep: He had 18 of them in three games the other day . . . Lloyd Hines (167 avg.) did much better than the norm when he banged out a 242 in the San Quentin Mixed Fours at Country Club.

YOU DON'T SAY — Bud De Young thought he'd show his son (Terry, 200 average) a thing or two when he rolled a 234 line in the Mystery League at Nave Lanes, but when it was all over Bud was five pins short of a 600 . . . Ruth Brest bowled her first five, a 512 in the Friday Nite Leftovers at Nave Lanes, thanks to that 212 final game . . . Gloria Richardson converted the 6-7-10 split in the Keglerettes League at Country Club . . . Charlotte Burr of the Country Club Lucky Strikes League rolled her first 200 line, right on the nose, and that's 75 pins better than her average . . . Top scores among the youngsters came from Mike Smith, 583 series at Nave Lanes, and Don Rogue, 115 average bantam with a 171 game at Country Club.

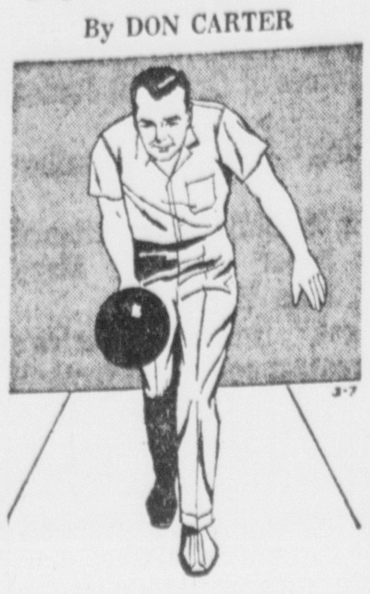
By DON CARTER



Sometimes the best ball you throw is your spare ball. What I mean is that the effortless way in which you might deliver the ball when going for an easy spare actually produces the rolling type of ball that gets strikes.

The reason? Often a bowler will try to get too much "stuff" on his strike ball and actually kill it. When all else fails, try to throw a ball with what seems like nothing on it. You may be surprised.

Clay Stripped Of Last Official Champ Recognition

NEW YORK (UPI)—Cassius Clay has been stripped of the last official vestige of his world heavyweight boxing championship.

The World Boxing Council, which had continued to recognize Clay despite his difficulties with the U.S. government, announced yesterday it was declaring the title vacant pending another fight involving Joe Frazier of Philadelphia.

Frazier is recognized as champion in five states and the council said it would bestow its crown on the winner of a fight between Frazier and a "suitable contender." Jimmy Ellis of Louisville, Ky., is the champion of the World Boxing Association.

Montana explained the council's decision was prompted by Clay's inability to defend his title. The World Boxing Council includes in its membership the Oriental Boxing Federation, the Latin American Boxing Federation, the European Boxing Union and the British Boxing Board of Control.

Winds Hamper Salmon, Striped Bass Anglers

There are lots of salmon off Marin's shores near Slide Ranch, Muir Beach and Duxbury Reef, but so far this week heavy winds have discouraged the party boats of Sausalito from venturing outside the Golden Gate. Calmer weather should provide good fishing out there.

On the striped bass front, there are fish in the bay but again we need less wind and some warm weather to put stripers in a biting mood.

JOE MELLO of San Rafael, braved the winds Tuesday, found a calm area south of the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge and caught a 108-pound sturgeon, his largest in 10 years of going after this kind of fish. His largest previous catch was an 82-pounder. Joe figured this was his 200th sturgeon.

WHILE ON the subject, San Pablo Bay has become a great sturgeon fishery in recent years. Did you know that this is the largest fresh water fish in the world Its family has two types, green and white sturgons found along the Pacific Coast from northwest Alaska to Northern California.

The green sturgeon is rarely found in fresh water as it usually stays in the ocean near the mouth of big rivers. I saw three in a net in Tomales Bay three years ago; they were small fish under 10 pounds with a noticeable green coloration. I have not seen any legal sized green sturgeon taken by an angler, though there was a report of an angler who had taken one at White House Pool at Pt. Reyes Station while fishing for steelhead this season. It is said that the flesh of this fish is far inferior to the meat of the white sturgeon. They reach lengths of seven feet and weights of 350 pounds.

The white sturgeon lives in the delta area of San Francisco Bay and throughout the bay itself. It can grow to a size of 20 feet in length and weigh as much as 1,000 pounds.

One specimen caught some years ago weighed 1,900 pounds and could have been 100 years old!

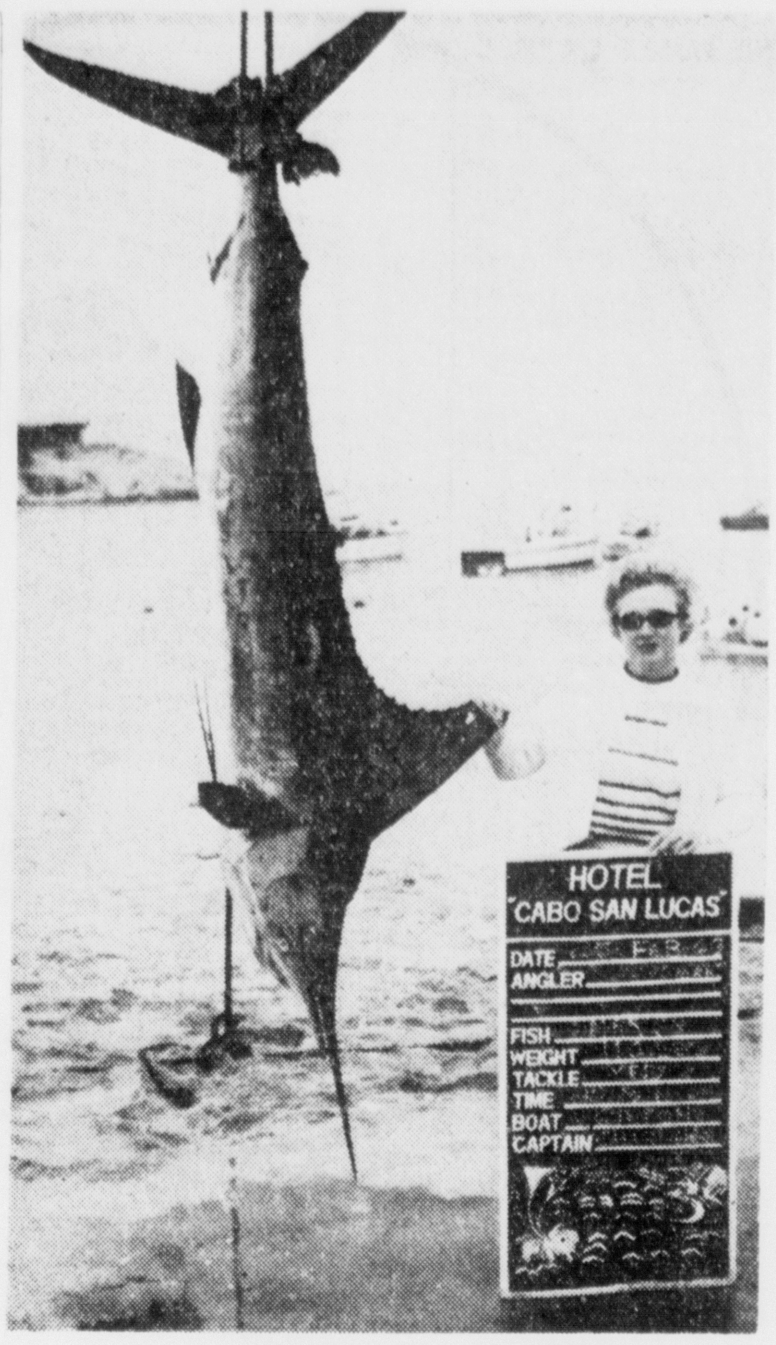
The favorite food of this fish is generally clams, shrimp, crabs and herring eggs, in that order.

Sturgeon spawn when they are about 36 inches in length and this is the reason for the 40-inch minimum size limit.

This year's fish and game regulations make it illegal to gaff undersized fish. Sturgeon spawn in fresh water and the eggs cling to the bottom, hatching out in three to seven days. In one month the fish are five inches in length and are covered with spines, a good protection at this stage.

HUNTERS BAGGED 638 bears in California this past season compared to 935 the previous year. Trinity with 92 was high county with Shasta and Siskiyou close behind. Mendocino County reported 10. Napa, Sonoma and Marin had none to report.

The bear tag sales numbered 33,000 and most were purchased by deer hunters who hoped to come across a bear while hunting deer.



THAT'S A LOT OF FISH

Mrs. William Smart of San Rafael proved to be a champion angler on a recent trip to Cape San Lucas, Baja, California where she subdued this 110-pound marlin in a battle that lasted only nine minutes.

New York University will take part in two basketball tournaments during the 1969-70 season. The Violets will play in the Marshall University Invitational at Huntington, W. Va., and the Holiday Festival in Madison Square Garden.

Warriors Host Bullets Tonight

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The San Francisco Warriors go on their final road trip of the year this weekend—a two game affair—but before they do, they'll host the Baltimore Bullets tonight, 8 o'clock in the Cow Palace.

The Warriors, who dropped the National Basketball Association's leaders Wednesday, 114-107, need only three more victories to clinch third place in the Western Division. They are 56-38 on the season, 12 games behind pace-setting Los Angeles but five ahead of Chicago and San Diego.

Godman Leads Pro Bowlers

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Jim Godman of Hayward held a 34-pin lead last night to pace the 24-game qualifying action in the Professional Bowlers Association $70,000 Miller Open.

The 23-year-old Godman finished the 24 games with 5,342 to stay ahead of Californian Jim St. John, who had 5,308.

After today's match-play semifinals, the best five entries advance to Saturday's nationally televised finals with $10,000 going to the winner.

Pvt. Weiskopf Ties For Golf Lead

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Pvt. Tom Weiskopf calls the shots on the golf course, but the Army is something else.

"Every Monday, no matter where I am on the tour, I have to go to those Reserve meetings in Columbus, Ohio" he says. "It's either that or go to Vietnam."

"I don't even want to talk about it."

But the 26-year-old blond belter from Bedford, Ohio didn't mind talking about his golf game yesterday. He took command of a 20-mile-an-hour wind and shelled the tricky Rio Pinar Country Club course with 68 to go into the second round of the $115,000 Citrus Open tied for the lead with the veteran Rod Funseth.

Weiskopf finished strong fith a 32 on the 6,849-yard par 72 layout while Funseth started with a 32 and scrambled for even par on the final nine. Both fired six birdies and just two bogeys.

Weiskopf pronounced his game—particularly his putting—in fine shape after five months active Reserve duty as a clerk-typist at Fort Polk, La.

The former Ohio State star was a natural to fill foursomes of Fort Polk brass because of the super star status he achieved last year as third leading money winner, with more than $150,000.

Weiskopf, runner-up by one stroke to Dan Sikes here last year, finished in a tie for 19th at two under par 286, good for nearly $1,400, last week at Doral, his first tournament after Army duty.

The 35-year-old Funseth, of San Jose, collected more than $27,000 last year but he hasn't won a tournament since the 1965 Phoenix Open.

Funseth and Weiskopf were among the early finishers, and their lead held up throughout the day as winds sent scores soaring. Less than half the field of 144 out for the $23,000 first prize managed par or better.

Lee Trevino shot a 74 and Jack Nicklaus fired a 70.

The field will be cut to the low 70 finishers and tied after today's second round.

Mrs. DiGrazia Wins Golf Tournament

Mrs. Ned DiGrazia shot a 75-9—66 to capture the captain's trophy at the Las Gallinas Women's Golf Club's tournament yesterday.

Mrs. Sam Calla was first in the nine hole sweeps with a net 33. She was followed by Mesdames Robert Ritter, 34, and Wesley Perez and Ned DiGrazzia.

ALMANAC

Today is Friday, March 7, the 66th day of 1969 with 299 to follow.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Venus and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1932 about 3,000 men rioted for jobs at the Ford plant in Detroit in the midst of the depression. Four were killed.

In 1936 Adolf Hitler ordered his Nazi troops into the German Rhineland, violating the Versailles Treaty.

In 1945 the United States 1st Army crossed the Rhine at Remagen, south of Cologne, as World War II drew toward an end.

In 1965 police broke up a Negro protest march in Selma, Ala. Forty civil right marchers were injured.

A thought for the day: Robert Ingersoll said, "Few rich men own their own property. The property owns them."

The Lightner Slam Double Calls For An Unusual Lead

When you make the opening lead against a slam, you tend to lead an unbid suit if possible. If all suits have been bid, you lead a suit bid by dummy rather than a suit bid by declarer. If dummy has bid two suits, you tend to lead the second suit on the theory that the suit a player bids first is usually stronger than the suit he bids secondarily. You disregard these rules, however, if your partner doubles the slam.

LEAD ISSUE

Almost 40 years ago, New York expert Theodore Lightner pointed out that there is almost no advantage in doubling a voluntarily bid slam if your only obejct is to increase the penalty form 100 to 200 points. It is more advantageous to use a slam double to steer your partner away from his normal lead.

Some experts use the double of a slam to require a lead in the first suit bid by dummy. Others, including Lightner, require only that partner make an "unusual" lead. Take your choice, but make sure that your partner and you see eye to eye on this subject.

HEART LEAD NEEDED

In today's hand East expects his partner to open a diamond (dummy's secondary suit) unless he is guided in the right direction. East's double asks West not to make his normal lead or asks West to lead a heart, depending on which school of thought the partners belong to. Even if East and West are not rigid about the meaning of the double, West should lead a heart rather than a club.

When West obediently leads a heart, East takes the first two tricks. South then claims the rest.

MUST BE HEART

If West led anything but a heart South would draw trumps, cash the king of diamonds and get to dummy to discard both losing hearts on the ace and queen of diamonds. South would score a vulnerable slam with an overtrick instead of going down one. The difference would be 1,560 points if East has passed, and 2,060 points if East had doubled the slam.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ 8 2
♥ A Q
♦ 7 5 4 3 2
♣ 6 5 4 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid 1 no-trump.

Your only high cards are in partner's suit, but you cannot raise with only two trumps. Since your hand is strong enough for a response, you must bid; and the only possible response is 1 no-trump.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER JAMES WIKEL, CPA

Sudden Income Increase May Make Averaging Worthwhile

Wikel

Was your income last year much more than you made in 1964, 1965, 1966 and 1967? If so, there is a chance you are elibible for income averaging.

The rules are complex, but it's worth looking into. If you are eligible, you may save many tax dollars by computing your tax under the income averaging rules.

To be eligible for the averaging provisions, you must:

1. Have either been a citizen or resident of the United States during 1968.
2. Your income must have been subject to United States tax during 1964, 1965, 1966 and 1967.
3. You must also provide 50 per cent or more of your own support to qualify.

This support requirement is not necessary. (A) if you are at least 25 years old during 1968 and have not been a full-time student for at least four years since age 21; (B) if over half of your adjusted taxable income for 1968 is substantially the result of work you did in two or more of the base period years, or (C) if you are self-supporting and married to someone who has been a dependent of another taxpayer, you can use averaging if 75 per cent or more of your combined adjusted gross income for 1963 is your income.

If you are eligible, be sure to study the rules carefully before making the computations. Get a Schedule G, Form 1040, from the IRS and follow the isntructions — step by step. They are confusing, but if carefully followed, will bring you out with the right answer.

Be sure to use this Schedule G and attach a copy to your tax return.

If there is any doubt, you should consult your tax adviser early or purchase the book "Your Federal Income Tax for 1969" for 60 cents from the District Director of Internal Revenue or from the U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Valuable Holding Results From Past Years' Thrift

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Years ago I bought two shares of Continental Assurance through payroll deduction. They have changed into 16 shares of CNA Financial. We're inexperienced and wonder whether to hold or sell. — L.N.

A. You own a holding company listed on the New York Stock Exchange, trading in the 50s. If you don't need the cash I'd hold for further longer-term gains. CNA ranks high among multiline insurance groups offering most types of coverage, including the new variable annuities. Acquisition of Tsai Management and Research (operating Manhattan Fund) should in time lead to package selling of insurance contracts and mutual fund shares for savings. Your youthful investment is well worth holding.

Q. Are debenture ratings of Baa (Moody's) or BB (Standard & Poor's) sufficiently high to be suitable for a prudent investor needing maximum return. I have in mind American Sugar. — W.A.

A. The ratings you mention for some debentures would make them suitable for a prudent investor but the yield might be lower than that from American Sugar 5.30s of 1993, trading around 78. Earnings of this company — a leader in the sugar industry — are in a downtrend and little has been done to offset this trend through diversification. I'd rather see you invested in one of my recent column recommendations of high-rated, high-yielding bonds.

DALLAS (UPI) — DPA, Inc. has announced a marketing agreement covering the sale and lease of computer disc drives manufactured by Marshall Data Systems of Torrance.

Market Hit By Setback At Closing

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market got a sharp setback today, although it did manage to trim some of its earlier heavy losses by the close. Trading was moderate.

"SAFEGUARDING YOUR TEEN-AGER AGAINST DRUGS"

What can you do if your son or daughter has a "drug problem"? Or if you suspect your youngster is mixed up with "mind expanding drugs" or tempted by them? Are drug-takers "cool" or simply naive?

One positive step is to read this series in the I-J, starting Monday, March 10, by the prize-winning science writer, Alton Blakeslee. This is the first time, as far as we know, that there has been a thorough roundup of information in this area. It has been endorsed by medical and law enforcement authorities. Dr. Dan L. Farnsworth of Harvard says Blakeslee's work represents a new high in responsible reporting of all aspects of the current drug problem in the United States. Blakeslee's research is painstaking, authoritative, and of impressive depth and breadth. The series is "must" reading for everyone concerned with the problem posed by drugs today.

Bolinas Lagoon Issue: Reason Vs. Emotion

A classic example of how emotion may replace reason in controversy over an important public issue is provided by Bolinas Lagoon.

Ever since architect Norman Gilroy unveiled a $22 million master plan for the lagoon's development nearly three years ago, the air has been filled with charges and counter-charges, condemnations and recriminations. And yet, both sides in the highly polarized dispute are really dedicated to making Bolinas Lagoon of permanent benefit to Marin County.

The air may be cleared somewhat by next Tuesday's election on whether to dissolve the Bolinas Harbor District. The people most affected by what happens to the lagoon — those who live in its vicinity — will at last have a chance to say whether they wish the district or the county to control its future.

PERHAPS BRIEFLY reviewing the history of the dispute may help set the stage for the election — and for some reasonable approaches to the problem involved, however the balloting turns out.

Bolinas Harbor District was created by the Legislature in 1957, and given 10 years to come up with a plan and begin "substantial improvements" to the lagoon — which then, as now, was steadily deteriorating from silting, sewage discharge, etc. Long a small craft harbor, it was becoming less and less useable for boats.

The district's problem was lack of funds. To get around that, it sought to have Bolinas declared a "harbor of refuge" so major federal money could be put into its improvement.

The federal bureaucracy required that the district first prepare a plan to show economic justification. Gilroy was given the job.

To show as much "economic feasibility" as possible, Gilroy drew up a plan calling for dredging of 2.5 million cubic yards to increase the open water area from 200 to 450 acres, and for a 1,600-boat marina, restaurants, heliport, motel and shopping mall as eventual developments.

THIS PLAN immediately brought the wrath of conservation groups, aided and abetted by the Marin County Planning Department. It would, they claimed, destroy the ecology of the lagoon. Not satisfied with that, some recently arrived planners discovered the San Andreas Fault and began quaking over earthquake hazards in Bolinas.

Then Nature Conservancy bought Kent Island — the keystone of Gilroy's plan — and presented it to the county, thus removing it from harbor district control. And after all the expense and trouble, the federal government refused to designate Bolinas as a "harbor of refuge."

The harbor district asked the Army Engineers to dredge 60,000 cubic yards from the lagoon because of silting. County officials promptly charged this violated a joint study agreement between county and harbor district, and a majority of the board of supervisors moved to immediately dissolve the district.

A bill by state Sen. John F. McCarthy extending the district's deadline for "major improvements" to 1971, and unanimous vote of the Local Agency Formation Commission to put the matter to a vote ended the immediate dissolution threat.

THAT BRINGS US to the election of next Tuesday. The question before the voters of Bolinas Harbor District is: Will they be better represented, and the future of the harbor and lagoon better served, by district control or county control?

The election, however, will not by itself provide a solution to the problems of Bolinas Lagoon. Until those most interested in the matter begin talking sense to one another, and working together for the mutual good, there can be no solution. If they don't, a few more years will find Bolinas Lagoon nothing but a monstrous, odorous mud flat.

Advisory Commission's Tax Plan Likely To Be Widely Unpopular

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO — (CNS) — Preliminary analysis of the report submitted by the Advisory Commission on Tax Reform, headed by State Controller Houston I. Flournoy, indicates it's a document which will be highly unpopular with the people and the state Legislature.

The plan, as submitted, apparently contemplates that the state is gradually taking over the financing of city and county government. In turn, the commission urges the state to seek more aid from the federal government, and in addition, to seek a substantial increase in state taxes through broadening the sales tax base by adding use taxes on utilities and certain services.

THIS DIRECTLY counters the statement of Gov. Ronald Reagan, made a number of times, that there will be no new taxes.

His commission proposes to siphon off some $375 million more out of the taxpayers' pockets through an expanded levy on services.

These include taxes on electricity, gas, water and telephone for $225 million; on cleaning, dyeing, laundry, barber and beauty shops and shoe repair for $65 million; on user-operated transportation such as auto repair, greasing, storage, parking and rentals for $45 million, and on recreation and amusement, including admissions to spectator amusements, club and fraternal dues, radio and television repair for $40 million.

The very big-hearted and considerate commission decided against expanding the sales tax to groceries, undoubtedly saving this one for the future.

FOR OVER two years, Governor Reagan has resisted all efforts to convert him to sponsorship of a withholding tax for payment of the personal income tax. Yet the advisory tax commission recommends the withholding tax, which puts another obligation on the private business of the state to act as tax collector not only for the federal government, but for California also.

The most disquieting problem confronting taxpayers isn't in the report at all. This problem already has been encountered, and the taxpayers have lost the race to local government. Specifically, it is what's going to prevent cities and counties next year from raising tax rates again, to more than eat up any savings that may accrue through state action.

It is small wonder that the plan is going to be highly unpopular on most fronts.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Rule By Minority Dangerous Course

San Rafael's Elementary School Bond proposal was settled on Tuesday, Feb. 18, at the polls by 37.9 per cent of the voting power.

It is very difficult to understand why that figure is so low. A voting figure is representative of the people's interest and involvement in their country, state and community. It is the primary tool of democracy. It is the voice of the people and the will of the people in action. It is freedom.

I find it amazing that so many individuals are willing to sit back and allow their future to be decided by so few. To plead ignorance is not a valid excuse for a great deal of time and money were expended to bring the issues of this bond proposal to the people. To claim a disgust with the upheavels existing in the schools is real and shared by many, but to allow it to plunge you into a state of apathy and rejection is not sound thinking. More than ever our schools need the voices of the mass. They are being attacked and need the support, interest, and concern of all they serve.

We have by our own volution become a nation ruled by minorities. This could be one of the reasons why we are in such difficulty. We allow these few to continue to dictate, control, and manipulate us into confused states of anarchy. Where are the voices of the people? Certainly, they are not all represented in that 37.9 per cent that showed up on Tuesday to exercise their right to vote . . .

Firemen Given Undue Credit

A word about ambulance service in Marin County.

On Feb. 1, the Independent-Journal had an article on the front page concerning a Sausalito woman killed in a fire. This article states . . . "and they treated Mrs. Smith for about 20 minutes before the ambulance arrived."

The figure of 20 minutes is quite upsetting in view of the fact that the Sausalito Fire Department has its own ambulance and it responded to the scene. Doctors Ambulance of Marin Co. keeps time logs and showed only tight minutes to arrive at the scene.

Firemen seem to receive nothing but praise for their efforts to revive the victim. Your article did not mention that, even though the fire department ambulance was on the scene before Doctor's Ambulance arrived, they did not take the woman to the hospital, but wasted several minutes waiting for a private ambulance to arrive from Mill Valley, and take the victim to Marin County Hospital.

The "mechanical device" mentioned in the article is the heart-lung resusator, and no fire department in Marin County has such a unit, whereas all of Doctors Ambulances do. The fire department took the credit. Why? Credit where credit is due.

In another article in the Independent-Journal, "Probe is asked into Ambulance Service Report." This article stated "the ambulance got mixed up and could not find the correct location. It was complete chaos." The Independent-Journal never published the results of this probe. The ambulance service was completely exonerated. As it turns out the ambulance was sent to the scene of the fire by the Marin County Communications Center. Fire Chief George Cavallero was in the chief's car at a completely different location than given to the ambulance. Yet still the ambulance crew was blamed for the delay.

On the whole, it seems the Independent-Journal has taken the view that the firemen are "angelic and heros" and whenever the ambulance crew is mentioned, they are always in the wrong. . . .

Marin County has some of the finest ambulance service in the Bay Area, and in some cases, far and above other counties. I feel the Independent-Journal should support these people enthusiastically rather than the present attitude they seem to have.

One Sour Note In Hub Discussion

Recent discussion at San Anselmo City Council on the proposed reconstruction of the famous Hub intersection probably didn't succeed in changing any minds, but it did result in a complete airing of both viewpoints.

Generally, the meeting was a good example of relevant, though sometimes vigorous, debate. I suspect that both the majority of the council (who favor the project) and the protesting residents (who fear a widening of Center Boulevard) came away with a better understanding of both sides of the question and more respect for each others motives — if not their conclusions.

However, one sour note was struck. A rather vague allegation of improper conduct or conflict of interest was made after filed statements by all councilmen and the city engineer showed that they neither owned nor intended to own any property involved in the project or any in West Marin.

To put this matter in a fair perspective, it should be noted that the person making the accusation was invited to make specific charges and failed to do so. When invited by a member of the audience to "put up or shut up" — figuratively of course — she decided to take the second choice.

THE DRUMMONDS

Clay Shaw Conspiracy Verdict Validates Warren Commission

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

And that conspirator turns out to be no conspirator at all. You can't have a conspiracy without conspirators.

Dist. Atty. James Garrison of New Orleans failed to provide his conspiracy charge against Clay Shaw and he failed to convince the jury to repudiate the Warren Commission for its findings that Lee Harvey Oswald acted alone in killing J. F. K.

The unanimous jury verdict of innocent for Shaw knocked out of court the only assassination "conspiracy" every taken into court.

THAT OSWALD never got into court is a large factor in the spread of the conspiracy theory. Oswald himself couldn't be tried because he was murdered before the case could be brought to court. So Oswald was never found guilty of President Kennedy's murder.

This is the prime circumstance which generated false rumors and honest doubt as to whether Oswald was the lone assassin. The conspiracy theory became rampant.

No matter how careful, competent or conclusive the investigation by the Warren Commission, the minds of many were open to the most miasmic theories because Oswald's guilt or innocence had never been established before a jury.

AT LEAST six books were written attacking the methods, the members and the conclusions of the Warren report, and three years after the assassination the Gallup Poll showed that 64 per cent of Americans believed the conspiracy theory or were uncertain Oswald acted alone.

Now a verdict, based on proceedings before court and jury, adds direct support to the central conclusion of the Warren Commission.

District Attorney Garrison virtually asked the jury for a verdict against the commission. He made this the centerpiece of his case against Shaw. He got the indictment against Shaw on the ground that Shaw conspired with Oswald to murder the President.

Garrison asked the jury to reverse the verdict of the Warren Commission that there had been no conspiracy.

The jury reversed Garrison.

It wasn't the Warren Commission that the jury decided was fradulent.

Garrison succeeded in getting Shaw indicted as the one whose guilt — if guilt was found — would prove conspiracy and disprove a central theme of the Warren report.

The jury rejected guilt, acquitted Shaw and thereby added weight to the validity of the Warren report.

THE COMMISSION'S judgment that Oswald shot President Kennedy has not been seriously questioned. But its other main conclusion have been seriously questioned and widely doubted — that Oswald had no co-conspirator, that he acted alone, that he was an agent of no foreign government, that he was an agent of nobody but himself.

The Nxew Orleans verdict adds significant weight to the Warren report because it rests on a court proceeding and a jury verdict which is the only way guilt or innocence can be established by law in these matters.

The court's rejection of conspiracy by the acquittal of Clay Shaw leaves the Warren Commission more persuasive than ever. The doubt wasn't over whether Oswald pulled the trigger. It was over whether someone else helped him either in planning or execution of the crime.

Oswald's part in the assassination is well documented. The New Orleans jury unanimously erased conspiracy the only time it was brought into court.

The work of the Warren Commission is standing well the test of time and trial.

Governors Keep Trying For More Federal Help

By RAYMOND LAHR

WASHINGTON (UPI) —State governors are moving ahead with their campaign for a greater share of the federal tax despite Nixon administration efforts to quench the demand for a while.

With campus violence monpolizing attention at its winter meeting last week, the National Governors' Conference neglected even to announce action taken to seek more federal help to deal with widespread state budget problems.

ONE REPORT was adopted with a provision reaffirming the conference's call for a share of federal tax collections to be allotted to the states without restriction on how it is spent.

A committee headed by Gov. Daniel J. Evans of Washington was instructed to devise a revenue sharing formula to try to sell to the Nixon administration and to Congress.

The conference also approved a report from a committee headed by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York calling for an assortment of federal moves to give financial relief to the states.

These reports were adopted after Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy politely warned the governors that they might be expecting too much too soon from the national government.

Kennedy doubted that any tax reforms approved by Congress this year would "break any new and dramatic ground in the area of federal-state-local fiscal relations." He did agree that these relations should get high priority in long range studies.

THE IDEA of giving the states a share of federal income tax collections was credited largely to Walter W. Heller, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisors under Presidents Kennedy and Johnson.

Since 1965, it has been endorsed regularly by the Governors' Conference as a device to strengthen the states. Despite the Democratic authorship, the proposal was given a bear hug by Republican leaders.

It was not so warmly received by the Democratic majority in Congress, where there is more interest in controlling how federal aid money is spent. Then it was shelved because of the cost of the war in Vietnam.

THE DEFENSE budget and the hope to keep the overall budget in balance as a curb on inflation will restrain any Nixon Administration efforts to give the states more money and more freedom to spend it.

But the Rockefeller committee report approved by the governors asked for more federfal money for welfare and education. It even asked for a study of "national contributory health insurance."

That proposal sounds like the program described by critics as "socialized medicine," which has terrified the American Medical Association for a generation.

Tam High Campaign Rained Out; Not So, Sausalito Field Trip

If the rainy season has bothered you, consider Tamalpais High School, where it has caused the longest election campaign ever.

Spring semester elections were scheduled for the last week of January, but rains washed out half of them because speeches and voting are held in the outdoor amphitheater.

Now, five weeks later, Dean of Student Activities Edward J. Chavez is still trying to get the junior and freshman class elections held, along with a runoff for senior class president. At midweek, Chavez had scheduled the elections for today — if the sun is still shining. If it's raining again, forget it.

Looking at the bright side, the rain has produced a few biological prodigies. A flourishing little garden is growing in a fiber floor mat outside the I-J's Mill Valley office with no other visible means of support.

THE ATMOSPHERE was generally unsmiling at Monday's Sausalito School District board meeting, but there were a few funny moments.

One came when Dr. Louis Levy stood to support field trips for students. (A trip to Black Panther headquarters stirred up some of the current protests.)

Rebutting an earlier speaker, Dr. Levy said he would like his daughter to take a trip to Ku Klux Klan or Black Panther headquarters, and was sure no harm would come to her.

A tug on his sleeve from his wife. Dr. Levy bent down, listened to her whisper, straightened with an embarrassed smile.

"She went," he said.

When the meeting started, board member David E. Freedheim turned to three reporters covering the meeting and assured them if violence started as it did recently in San Francisco, "you'll be the first ones we protect."

The reporters would have preferred the safety of anonymity, which usually lets them escape imbroglios cowardly but unscathed.

THE MARIN Labor Council and Building Trades Council are passing a resolution around to the county's school district boards that would commit each district to use union labor in any trade craft union jurisdiction.

I hope the boards read it carefully, because a couple of provisions might surprise even the unions.

The resolution would commit districts not to use teachers, students, custodians or bus drivers for a long list of trades, including building service, office and professional employees, social workers — and believe it or not, teachers.

Maybe we will end up with a union teacher standing by at full pay while the teacher teaches his class. Or a union projectionist being called in to run a 16-millimeter film on sex education of "The Wombat Life Cycle."

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

Fusselman

One can feel real sorry for the present board of supervisors, that is for some of them. You remember 1968 was the year of the righteous. I think I mentioned it early in that year, when the flamboyant statements and declarations of intent were spinning out like the floss from a cotton candy machine at a fair. The tax rate would be held, maybe reduced.

It was. It was election year!

The administrator started out the year by moaning that the increase in assessed valuations was only going to be five per cent instead of the usual higher increase each year. The economy (?) bug got him, too. Whether he liked it or not, he had to go along with the boys.

IT WOULD have served them all right had the board remained intact. You see what they did was to use all the fat up. You remember how many "bare bones" declarations were made? Well they did it and no mistake. This leaves the board, as constituted now, on the spot. The fat is gone.

One thing they should never lose sight of: There is usually more than one way of doing things. For example: air travel is offered as elegant first class (mit champagne yet) and also as coach. They both take you where you wish to go, often on the same plane — leaving and arriving at the same time.

THERE IS ANOTHER thing that is worked to death. That is the comparison of "tax rates" with other counties, to try and prove great merit in the operation out at Brasilia.

That argument is as phony as a $3 bill. The only valid comparison is one which considers all the factors; assessed valuations, the nature of what is really being accomplished, etc. After all, suppose this county or any other has a lower dollar tax (not rate) than some other, what's wrong in trying to improve the operation for the same money or maintaining the level for less tax dollars?

The saddest part of our situation is that during the last decade, almost 100 per cent of those who have been responsible for the grand manner of operation here are now looking out the window. They are no longer part of the scene.

THIS COURTHOUSE thing, I believe, needs one or two new looks or considerations. Either property on Fourth Street "can go no way but up," as we are told about the county as a whole, or San Rafael is dead. That might not seem important to the average homeowner in other areas of the county, but just consider this:

The value of property on Fourth Street has actually been a boon to the other property owners of the county. It has carried a big part of the cost of this grand operation of county government. I think you will find the values out in the vicinity of Brasilia are nowhere near those in downtown San Rafael.

A former supervisor said at a meeting of the board last year that the courthouse square was the most valuable piece of property in the county.

So, what's the hurry?

Police Face School Board Fracas Quiz

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The San Francisco Human Rights Commission has asked the police department to explain what steps it took to guard against violence at last week's board of education meeting where four persons were beaten.

The commission voted 13-2 yesterday to ask police a number of questions, including the police response to a request by school officials for police protection at the session where the controversial busing-integration plan was discussed.

More than 100 persons, most of them opposing the resolution, attended the meeting of the rights commission. They heard several Teamsters Union officials protest earlier testimony before the commission which linked members of their union to the attacks.

"We should support our police rather than putting them on the spot all the time," Apfel said.

Other questions for the police included in the resolution are: the number of officers assigned to the meeting; the number of off-duty officers who attended; an explanation of a report that a citizen's request for police at the beginning of the trouble was turned down because police at the scene had not asked for additional help.

Tenement Fire In Jersey City Claims Nine

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — A young mother with her daughter in her arms leaped five floors to her death in a tenement fire which took nine lives last night.

Mrs. Rena Dickerson, 29, jumped out a window of her top story flat with her daughter, Kristie, 6. She was killed and the girl died later in a hospital.

Three other daughters, Dineer, 11, Dori, 5, and Wanda, 7 months, were found dead in the apartment of apparent smoke poisoning.

On the fourth floor of the 20-family dwelling the four children of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Thomas died. Police said they were left alone because their mother was at work and their father had gone out to buy cigarettes.

The Thomas children were Philip, 5, Patrick, 4, Deborah, 3, and Annamarie, 1.

An unidentified boy was snatched off the roof of the tenement, which collapsed later into the burned out shell of the building.

Restaurant Hit; Jewelry Is Taken

Burglars broke into Sonoma Joe's restaurant, 5151 Redwood Highway, Petaluma, Wednesday night and emptied a display case filled with jewelry, police reported.

The amount and value of the jewelry was not known. Police said a window on the west side of the building was broken to gain entry.

BIKINI BARRIER

Art Students Decry University Nude Ban

"I think they tend to be average—not the Riviera type," said Robert M. Stein, an art instructor.

Bikini-clad models can be unsettling say students. Said one co-ed art student, "You're getting involved in the form, and you're following a line, and all of a sudden here comes this bathing suit. You have to kind of surmise what's going on underneath there."

The art department plans to appeal to the administration for a change.

Bagley Panel

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, was named on Wednesday to a special legislative committee to investigate problems of criminal justice in the state, and not to a special committee to probe campus disturbances, as reported incorrectly by the Independent-Journal.

National Teacher Tests Set At Sonoma State

Sonoma State College has been designated as a test center for administering the national teacher examinations on April 12, according to Edith Moon, college tester.

College seniors preparing to teach and teachers applying for positions which encourage or require applicants to submit their scores along with credentials are eligible to take the test.

At the one-day session, a candidate may take the common examinations, which includes tests in professional education and general education, and one of 15 teaching area examinations, which are designed to evaluate his understanding of specific teaching areas.

"Bulletins of information" concerning registration may be obtained from the National Teacher Examinations Educational Testing Service, Box 911, Princeton, N. J.

Prison Term In Assault Case

James Melvin White, 18, of Marin City has been sentenced by Judge Harold J. Haley of Marin Superior Court to a state prison term of up to 10 years for assault with a deadly weapon.

White had pleaded guilty to the shooting of Diller Ryan, 18, of Ross on Sept. 2 in Marin City. He also pleaded guilty to a burglary charge and received a concurrent one year jail sentence for this offense.

Judge Haley sentenced White Wednesday after officials at the California Medical Facility at Vacaville recommended that White be placed in prison for the protection of society.

Sewer Board Seeks Grant

Ross Valley Sanitary District directors have hired a consulting engineer to make application to the department of U. S. Housing and Urban Development for $375,000 to replace the district's main trunk line.

Hired Wednesday was J. Warren Nute of San Rafael. The board did not set payment for Nute, Ralph C. Noah, district manager said.

The money being sought is one-half the amount needed for preliminary installation of the line, the rest of the $750,000 to come from either a bond issue or tax increase.

New Coins Club

An organizational meeting for a new coin collectors club will be held at 7 p.m. March 27 at the Marin Museum of Science (formerly the Boyd Natural Science Museum). The club is tentatively known as the Tamal Coin Club, according to Arthur Madsen, a member.

Collegians Will Help In Survey

Rohnert Park Chamber of Commerce directors learned Wednesday that the Sonoma State College psychology department will be asked to help with a planned chamber survey of city needs.

Edward Capocy, survey committee chairman, said the college department will be invited to participate in the preparation and circulation of the questionnaires.

He said the survey would include questions about the development of Rohnert Park, schools, recreation and asthetics.

The Rohnert Park Chamber Directors also:

ROSE PARADE — Heard a report from Reba Roberts that the annual Santa Rosa Rose Parade is scheduled for May 17 with the theme of "The Enchanting World of Roses." Named to her committee to work on the Rohnert Park entry float were Dr. Lauren D. Anderson, Mrs. Lawrence Millard, Mrs. Maurice Fredericks and Robert Gillogley.

INDUSTRIAL — Appointed Paul Golis and James Groom to head a committee to update the chamber industrial survey and guide.

DIRECTORY — Heard report from Margaret Sovey, public relations chairman, that she will be preparing a city business directory and a monthly chamber newsletter called "The Chamber Echo."

FEATURE — Mrs. Roberts told the board that she will be featured on the Independent-Journal woman's page tomorrow as part of a current series on mayors' wives in Marin and Southern Sonoma counties. She is the wife of Rohnert Park Mayor Arthur N. Roberts.

Army Days Over For Marinites

Three Marin residents, with a total of 75 years in the Army, have retired in ceremonies at the Presidio of San Francisco.

Lt. Col. Harry R. Hammond of 99 Gregory Drive, Fairfax, retired after 27 years of service, mostly as an antiaircraft commander with units in the United States and Europe.

Retiring after 28 years in the Army was Chief Warrant Officer Michael F. Meleney of 735 Sunset Parkway, Novato. During most of his career he served as a unit supply technician with units in the United States, Europe and the Pacific.

S/Sgt. Albert Waite, an administrative supervisor serving in the United States and Korea, retired after 20 years of service. Wait, lives at 42 Leafwood Circle, San Rafael.

Bike Path Session Set For Wednesday

Another stab at getting a bicycle path connection between Marin and San Francisco will be tried by the security committee of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday in district offices at the toll plaza.

Plans for the path have been snagged by Army denial of use of roads in either the Presidio of San Francisco or Fort Baker, and insistence on special paths through the forts.

Cotati Rezoning Action Delayed

The Cotati Planning Commission has continued a public hearing on proposed zoning of land on East Cotati Avenue to the March 19 meeting.

The Northwestern Pacific Railroad, owner of 1.5 acres, had requested the unclassified district be zoned foe heavy commercial use. Company officials said they intend to lease the land to a firm planning to use it for automobile storage.

The commission, acting on a staff recommendation Wednesday, asked that a section of the land be zoned as light commercial as a buffer strip with adjoining zones.

Shown on the left are emergency medical supplies used yesterday to "treat" the victims, 15 men from Hamilton Air Force Base who were made up with realistic wounds. Hours-Long Protest In Moscow MOSCOW (UPI)—Tens of thousands of Muscovites braved a swirling snowstorm today to hoot and jeer Communist Chinese diplomats peeping out from the shattered windows of Peking's embassy. Thousands of police and troops kept the demonstration more orderly than yesterday's.

An occasional inkpot or bottle soared out of the crowd and smashed against the building already bespattered by Friday's barrage of missiles in spite of pleas for order. The protesters marched six-abreast past the building for four and one-half hours, half-again as long as yesterday's demonstration.

Today's protesters apparently were incensed by televised reports of Chinese atrocities committed against Russian

Enemy Uses Gas In Bloody, Futile Attack On U.S. Base

SAIGON (UPI)—From behind a screen of nausea gas, guerrillas carrying flamethrowers charged a U.S. Army base guarding Saigon today. The Americans turned them back in seven hours, killing 153.

It was one of three attacks on American bases north of Saigon and accompanied 50 overnight Communist barrages into allied bases or towns as the 14-day-old guerrilla offensive accelerated.

At least 163 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese died in vain attempts to overrun the three U.S. outposts astride a major infiltration route from Cambodia, 25 to 55 miles north and northwest of Saigon.

The biggest battle, at Phu Khuong, 50 miles northwest of the capital, opened with a 70-round mortar barrage. The first round knocked out the command bunker, killing the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division battalion commander in charge.

Then the Communists threw in the nausea gas, which drifted away harmlessly, and 600 of them charged. They only got through the first strand of barbed wire.

It was one of the heaviest fights of the Communist offensive and left 11 U.S. soldiers dead and 30 wounded. Spokesmen in Saigon said 154 Reds died at Phu Khuong.

Total U.S. losses in the three battles were 12 killed and 40 wounded, according to military spokesmen.

Elsewhere:

U.S. Army and Marine artillery hammered Vietnam's border Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) for the first time since Feb. 19, hitting what a spotter pilot called the biggest group of Red soldiers seen in the strip since the bombing of North Vietnam stopped Nov. 1.

For the first time in the war, the guerrillas used heavy 105mm artillery in the Central Highlands, shelling U.S. 4th Infantry Division troops Thursday.

U.S. B-52 bombers rained 1.6 million pounds of bombs onto a Central Highlands battlefield where, in a three-day struggle that ended Wednesday, the Reds killed 21 Americans and wounded 89. Belated U.S. command reports said four guerrillas died in the fighting.

Casino Plane Hunt Halted

Hamilton Air Force Base officials have called off the search for that missing Gamblers Special airliner with 35 aboard missing since Feb. 18.

They said yesterday that the search for the Hawthorne Airlines DC3 would be resumed only if the mountain snows melt or some new lead on the aircraft's whereabouts turns up.

The plane was lost in a snowstorm on a flight from Hawthorne, Nev., to Burbank. Planes have spent almost 1,000 air hours on a 150-mile wide path looking for the missing plane.

Downtown Shot, Chase Nab Four

Four young men, including two teen-agers, were arrested yesterday on suspicion of shoplifting in Macy's following a chase through midafternoon shoppers in downtown San Rafael.

One of the two juveniles was stopped at 2:32 p.m. in the city parking lot at Fifth and A streets after a pursuing officer fired a warning shot. The second youth was found 15 minutes later hiding on the roof of the Independent-Journal building at 1040 B Street.

The two 15-year-olds, both from San Francisco, were booked into Juvenile Hall on suspicion of shoplifting and fleeing arrest.

The other two suspects—brothers from San Francisco—were arrested without incident on Fourth street between A and B streets by Virginia Martin, Macy's security officer.

The brothers, Louis, 23, and David Ray Sterio, 24, were book-

Nixon Still Weighs Sentinel Decision

President In Florida To Study Missile Plan

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI) — President Nixon, armed with pro and con position papers, today was deciding on deployment of the multibillion-dollar antiballistic missile system.

Despite some indications the controversial Sentinel missile defense project would get a go-ahead, Nixon told newsmen he has not yet made up his mind. He plans to announce his decision early next week, probably Tuesday.

(One of the issues at stake in the Sentinel decision is whether federal work will proceed with a proposed missile site on Wolfback Ridge above Sausalito).

Nixon retreated to his sun-drenched seaside winter White House to bone up on the study papers and reports in his bulging briefcase. "I'm going to be studying the ABM this weekend," he said on the presidential jet flight from Washington last night.

"I like to sit in the sun and read," said Nixon, who reached the decision-making stage after a week of secret meetings on the nuclear defense system with top military, diplomatic and science advisers. But he saw no sun today; it was cloudy.

CONGRESS TALKS

He also has been getting the playback loud and clear from Capitol Hill, where opponents contend the project will spur another strategic arms race with the Soviet Union.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said deployment of the costly ABM would be a "tragedy" and would not increase the nation's security. Construction was started last year and suspended last month, pending Nixon's study.

STAFF PROBLEMS

Nixon also took up White House staff problems with key aides today. Spending the weekend with him at his palm tree lined compound on this lush island were John Erlichman, his counsellor; H.R. Haldeman, a special assistant, and Dwight Chapin, his appointments secretary.

The President dropped in on the Central Intelligence Agency yesterday and praised employees as unsung heroes. He told them their work shows up in his morning briefing papers on which he bases his decisions.

PAUL MAXWELL
Replaces Mrs. Evans

Museum's New Chief Is Named

Paul Maxwell, 31, a former crop production assistant for a large seed company, has been named director of the Louise A. Boyd Marin Museum of Science, Richard V. Godino, president of the museum's trustees, announced yesterday.

Maxwell, who will begin the new job Wednesday, succeeds Clara Evans, who quit last August, claiming she did not have the board's support.

His salary will be $9,840 a year, according to Godino.

Mrs. Evans was paid $8,400 a year. Mrs. Sally Mishkind, chairman of the committee that selected Maxwell from among 15 applicants, earlier refused to disclose his salary, saying "It's nobody's business and should not be published." A large part of the museum's financing comes from the public, including $10,000 annually from county tax funds.

A graduate in animal science from California State Polytechnic College at San Luis Obispo, Maxwell formerly worked for the Ferry-Morse Seed Co. in San Juan Bautista. He also is a former administrative assistant for the San Francisco Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and a chief investigator for the San Mateo County Humane Society.

Maxwell helped develop the humane education program now used in the San Mateo County school system.

A native of Oakland, he and his wife and two children will live in San Rafael.

Astronauts Turn To Earth Photo Chores

Apollo Tria Jolly After Spectacular LEM Workouts

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — America's magnificent Apollo 9 moonship fliers passed the halfway mark of their voyage today and turned to taking earth pictures in an experiment that may be more of a boon to the man on the street than landing men on the moon.

James A. McDivitt, David R. Scott and Russell L. Schweickart—with a perfect make-believe lunar flight behind them—soared into the second half of their 10-day, 39-million-mile earth orbital adventure at 7:24 a.m. PST.

When told that sailors aboard the recovery ship Guadalcanal were cooking a 350-pound cake for them, when they splashdown next Thursday, Schweickart replied:

"Listen, we're ready. With the amount of food we've had time to eat in the last few days, we're going to need it."

The astronauts then sang

Mutiny Trial Defendants Claim Fear

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Army has been asked to end a "pattern of harrassment" against a group of soldiers charged with mutiny at the Presidio stockade.

Capt. Thomas R. Fay, a defense counsel, yesterday submitted five affidavits from defendants claiming treatment by guards make them "feel they are subject to reprisal."

Fay presented the request to Col. John Lee, court-martial

Cal Strikers Won't Observe 'Dead Week'

BERKELEY (UPI) — Next week is "dead campus week" prior to finals at the University of California, but the strike will go on.

Third World leaders told an impromptu rally yesterday that the walkout by some students on behalf of an autonomous Third World college would continue whether there are "five pickets or 500."

About 100 pickets walked peacefully yesterday.

In Houston, Tex., the word was:

"Be available Monday morning. Something's coming. We're going to be up on these buildings killing honkies if you don't give us our rights."

With these parting words yesterday, Eugene Locke, head of the Afro-Americans for Black Liberation, announced the end of a nonviolent demonstration on the University of Houston campus.

As on many other college campuses across the nation this year, the AABL had presented a list of demands it expects the university to fulfill, primarily to improve the black man's status.

Dramatizations of the student demands have led to violence on several campuses, including suspected arson at Beloit College in Wisconsin and shots fired at campus buildings at long-troubled San Francisco State College.

Reactions to the student disorders came from several quarters in the nation's capital this week, including promises funds would be cut to students involved in campus violence and a get-tough policy in the attorney general's office.

The special house subcommittee investigating student disorders yesterday announced it would resume its hearings

Students Try To Iron Out Election Row

Student Executive Council members at College of Marin hammered out five election code changes at a special meeting yesterday to try to prevent a recurrence of Thursday's balloting turmoil.

Student body elections were halted Thursday after some students reported ballot box stuffing and other ballot irregularities.

This was followed by yesterday's Black Students Union demands asking for election reforms and the dismissal of David Garber, student activities adviser, whom the students said refused to halt the election immediately when irregularities were discovered.

The union also demanded

NEW SONOMA COUNTY RACEWAY OPENS

Spectators and racers started arriving early this morning for the National Hot Rod Association's national open drag races at the new Sears Point International Raceway's quarter-mile drag strip in southern Sonoma County. Approximately 500 drag racers were expected for the meet which continues tomorrow, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. First sports car races for the multimillion-dollar motor sports complex's twisting, hilly 2.5-mile course are scheduled March 29-30.
